DRY LAW VOTE PEOPLE'S RIGHT, HOOVER IS TOLD

But 25% Had Chance to Express Views.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—The right of the American people to another vote on the prohibition question was asserted at the White House today by Representative Royal C. Johnson [Rep., S. D.], a one time dry who voted with the wets during the test of strength in the house a week ago today.

REP. ROYAL C. JOHNSON. [(C) Harris & Ewing]

Asked for his views immediately after he had conferred with President Hoover on legislative matters, Representative Johnson said that less than 25 per cent of the voters of the country had had an opportunity to register their views on the national wet and dry question. He said that census bureau officials had told him that 20 million Americans had reached voting age since the 18th amendment was adopted.

Veterans Disfranchised.

"In addition," Mr. Johnson said, "there are the 4,000,000 veterans of the world war who did not have a chance to vote on prohibition. The women never have had an opportunity to express their views through the ballot. This is a democracy and the people of this country are entitled to a referendum on prohibition."

The Johnson expression of opinion came at a time when renewed pressure is being brought on the White House by wet Republican leaders to influence President Hoover to agree to the insertion of a wet plank in the Republican platform. It is known that a majority of the cabinet feels that the best interests of the Republican party demand it take a more liberal view on the prohibition question.

Hoover Center of Battle.

During the next few months the White House will be a battleground for wet and dry Republicans seeking to influence the President on the prohibition question. Efforts are being made by the fanatical dry group to push President Hoover even further into the dry camp.

Wet Republicans, including cabinet members, have been working to persuade the President to approve a plank looking toward a referendum.

Representative Johnson told the President that the chance for favorable congressional action on additional bonus legislation at this session was lessening. A movement is on foot to pass a law permitting veterans to borrow up to the full value of their adjusted compensation certificates, instead of the present 50 per cent. Such a law would add hundreds of billions of dollars to governmental expenditures during the next few years.

DRY PRISONERS FREED

New Orleans, La., March 21.—[Special.]—Seventy-five men and women socially prominent in New Orleans are breathing with relief tonight. They had been arrested in a dry raid on three of the best known night clubs early yesterday morning.

In the midst of the high jinks going on in these bright spots dry agents arrested men and women on whose tables they found intoxicants. Operators of the clubs also were arrested.

Today all charges against the guests of the clubs and the operators were ordered dropped by United States District Attorney Talbot and the names stricken from the records.

Among those taken into custody were several well-known executives of large business concerns and the names of some of the women appeared in the blue book. Not only were the charges withdrawn but United States District Attorney Talbot censured the dry raiders. Here is what he had to say:

"The prohibition department made a very big error in not conferring with the district attorney's office. The entire thing could have been handled in a different manner if the prohibition department really wanted to get evidence against the owners of the night clubs.

"I will not take any action against either the patrons or the owners as a result of the affair."

R. E. Tuttle, prohibition administrator, declared that he had acted against the exclusive night clubs, just as if they had been resorts where the poor are wont to make merry.

TOWNS IN FOUR STATES RUINED; SCORES INJURED

Hundreds Homeless; Help Rushed.

Birmingham, Ala., March 21.—(AP)—Tornadoes late today and tonight struck in four southern states, killing 105 persons, injuring scores more, and causing undetermined property destruction.

Alabama bore the brunt of the storm and the death list in that state late tonight had reached 92. The twisters passed into Tennessee, where seven persons were killed, and then struck Kentucky, taking two more lives. Georgia was the fourth state to report and its death list stood at four and the injured list near 40.

Heavy downpours accompanied the storm and impeded the work of the rescue parties attempting to reclaim the dead and succor the injured.

Rush Doctors and Nurses.

First reports came from Alabama, where tornadoes hit in the central and western part of the state. National Guardsmen were called to duty at Northport across the Warrior river from Tuscaloosa. Cots and blankets, nurses and doctors were hurried to the vicinity. The University of Alabama gymnasium was turned into an emergency hospital. The students of the university gave aid to the stricken.

The Druid City hospital at Tuscaloosa was overflowing with the injured. Dr. George Lang of the Red Cross issued an appeal for all nurses and doctors within the area to hurry to Northport and Tuscaloosa.

Birmingham doctors and nurses were sent to Columbiana where the death list was placed at twelve.

Marion, Ala., had two tornadoes, one in the afternoon and another after dark.

M. L. Fleetwood, editor of the Cartersville [Ga.] News, made a hurried survey of the storm area in the rural district between there and Cassville, Ga., tonight and said it presented a scene of utter desolation. A farmer was killed and his wife and five children were found huddled in a hole from which a giant tree had been blown by the storm.

Child Crushed in Ruins.

Two other men were killed at Cassville. A two weeks old baby was carried by its mother when she and her other children fled to safety when their home was wrecked. A child was killed when a house was demolished at Cartersville, Ga.

Two men were killed in Uniontown, Ky., when a hotel was blown down.

A mother and three children met death in their home near Pulaski, Tenn. Three other persons were killed in Tennessee storms late today.

A relief party followed the second tornado early tonight, found the highway to Scott's Station blocked, and was forced to return to Marion for saws and axes to cut a path to the stricken village. Judson college at Marion was unscathed.

Lomax, a village of one hundred population, was destroyed. A truck driver reaching Calera, Ala., told of debris littering the road and bodies of dead and injured lying beside the highway.

Old Court a Hospital.

From towns and cities that were not stricken ambulances, nurses, and physicians were sent into the stricken areas and volunteers formed relief parties.

An abandoned courthouse was converted into a hospital and morgue at Columbiana, and there the dead were prepared for burial and the injured were administered to by volunteer workers.

Two injured men were rushed from Clanton to Thorsby in an ambulance. As they were carried into a doctor's office the tornado doubled back, striking there and causing heavy property damage.

Although Tuscaloosa proper escaped damage, the country club was wrecked, the club secretary and caddy master were injured, and 100 trees were scattered over the golf course. The University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa was not damaged.

CITY FIGHTS DRIFTS

Chicago, with the rest of the middle west, was struggling last night to prevent a paralysis of traffic as snow still fell incessantly nearly twenty-four hours after the storm broke to the accompaniment of thunder and lightning.

The official forecast was for more snow and high winds today, but Forecaster C. A. Donnel of the Chicago office of the weather bureau said that in his opinion the precipitation would

Apache Given Life as Slayer of White Girl

Globe, Ariz., March 21.—[Special.]—Golney [Mac] Seymour, young Apache brave, was found guilty late tonight by a jury in the United States District court of the murder of Miss Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia university co-ed. The jury designated the crime as first degree murder and recommended punishment at life imprisonment. The jury's recommendation is mandatory.

Seymour heard the verdict stolidly. He had maintained an indifferent, placid expression throughout his trial. Through his limited command of English and interpreters, he realized that the jury was empowered to order him hanged, or to prison for life.

Study Life of Indians.

Miss Schmerler was raped and slain July 18, and her bruised body was found six days later on the White River Indian reservation to which she had come only three weeks prior to study life among the redmen. Seymour on his arrest confessed the crime, but repudiated the confession at his trial.

The jury retired at 4 o'clock this afternoon, after hearing two conflicting pleas from the prosecution and the defense. From the prosecution they heard: "Treat this Indian as you would a white man," and from the defense they heard: "Give this Indian a square deal."

In his story to the jury, comprised of stern Arizona cattlemen and business men, Seymour denied naively, in broken English, that he slew Miss Schmerler.

Unable to Shake Story.

Seymour weathered a stormy cross-examination from United States Attorney John C. Gung'l. Seymour admitted he was drunk on the night of the crime.

"And you were so drunk you didn't know what you were doing!" exclaimed Gung'l.

"I was not so drunk I cannot remember," retorted the Apache. "If I was too drunk I could not remember."

Unable to shake Seymour's story, Prosecutor Gung'l placed the weight of his case on the purported confession. In it, Seymour told of starting out to a dance. He journeyed by horse, and passed the cabin where the white girl lived. Previously, the confession stated, he imbibed of beer, as he reached white girl's house, she emerged, he said.

Indian Takes a Drink.

"She spoke of the dance," reads the alleged confession. "Asked me if I would lend her a horse. I said I only had one. She said 'Maybe I ride behind you? I see lots of people doing it.' I said, 'those people married.' She said, 'That's all right.' Then she asked me in. She had something in a bottle. She said 'Whisky.' I drank some.

"It burned my throat. She mixed some with sugar and water. It tasted good. She kissed me. We started for a dance on my horse. We stopped at Muddy creek to walk across. Then she began teasing me. I thought she wanted to marry me. She didn't fight."

The purported admissions stated that Seymour felt compunction, and told Miss Schmerler he was going back to Elizabeth, his wife, and that the white girl "got very mad" and threw a rock at him. Then she cried she would tell on him, got out a knife and tried to cut him. Seymour then struck her with a rock and stabbed her, the statements declare.

At the trial it was developed that Miss Schmerler had gone to the Apache country to conduct some research work in an effort to win a degree at Columbia. She had been warned against the perils of living with the Indians, but laughed them off.

BURNING VESSEL WITH 50 ABOARD CALLS FOR HELP

San Pedro, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—The coast guard station here tonight picked up radio calls for help from the burning freighter San Angelo, saying fifty officers and men were aboard.

The ship gave her location as about 300 miles north of Panama. The fire had been confined to No. 3 hold but was described as serious.

The San Angelo, operated by the Pacific and Atlantic Steamship company of Portland, Ore., was on her way here from Philadelphia. Soon after the freighter left Philadelphia fire broke out in No. 1 hold but was extinguished.

Meet Dick Tracy!

THE TRIBUNE today introduces Dick Tracy, amateur sleuth, on page 11, and his adventures will appear daily henceforth. Our hero is now in the hands of "Broadway" Bates, extortionist, who is demanding $10,000 ransom from Mrs. Trueheart, mother of Tracy's fiancée. Mrs. Trueheart was paid the money by an insurance company when gangsters murdered her husband, and that murder launched Tracy upon his sleuthing career.

SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY WHILE JURY ACQUITS

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Daniel Nevins, 29, grew nervous today while waiting for a jury to return a verdict in a murder case against him.

His anxiety led him to tell the court he would plead guilty to a second degree manslaughter charge. The plea was accepted and he was sentenced to from five to ten years in Sing Sing before the jury reported.

The jury members later disclosed they had reached a verdict of acquittal.

Saves Woman's Purse from a Robber; Slain

Landon B. Schrontz, 27 years old, 5107 Kenmore avenue, saw a woman struggling with a robber last night in front of his home. He went to her assistance.

The bandit fled into an alley, carrying the woman's purse with him. Schrontz followed and grappled with him, refusing to give up even when the robber drew his pistol. In the struggle for the weapon two shots were fired and Schrontz was struck in the chest and the neck.

Wound Fatal to Rescurer.

He fell and the robber fled. When help arrived Schrontz was dying. But in one hand he was clutching the purse, which contained $3.50 In the other he had the pistol which he had wrested from his opponent with his last vestige of strength and which he was unable to fire after he had it.

The police took Schrontz, a mechanic, to the Edgewater hospital, where he was able to make a brief statement about the robbery and shooting before he died.

Mrs. Martha Tesmar, 3941 Pine Grove avenue, was the victim of the robbery. She said that she was seized by him soon after she left the Avon hotel, in which Schrontz lived. Screaming as she resisted him, she attracted the attention of the homeward bound young man.

Pursues Robber to Alley.

Schrontz's chase of the robber led into an alley to the south of the hotel and he was wounded in the rear of 5014 Kenmore avenue. The killer escaped by running south. Mrs. Tesmar described him as young and wearing a gray overcoat and a soft gray hat.

According to Sergt. Augustus Ptacek of the Summerdale police, who interviewed Schrontz in the hospital, his last words were:

"I got the purse and the pistol, too."

Caldwell Sees Colonel Twice at Hopewell

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., March 21.—[Special.]—H. Wallace Caldwell, member and former president of the Chicago board of education, arrived in Trenton early today and drove a little later to the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Hopewell, where he divulged information which he said the officials investigating the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child considered important.

It was his second trip from Chicago to Hopewell in the past five days. It is reported that Mr. Caldwell is serving as the Lindbergh representative in Chicago and is believed to be working with a group of civic leaders, including the Secret Six, who hope to get a line on the entire kidnaping racket by tracing clews that may lead to the Lindbergh baby.

Silent on His Mission.

He seemed reluctant to discuss the exact nature of his mission, asserting it would be "very easy to say too much." However, he said, his information dealt with one of the most tangible leads uncovered since the kidnaping. He indicated that his coming today had been eagerly anticipated by the Lindberghs and their aids in the hunt.

"If you write anything about me being here," he requested, "just say that I am a friend of the family. I am not at liberty to talk about the progress of this work for Col. Lindbergh."

Refuses to Discuss Capone.

When asked the direct question, whether Alphonse Capone or any of his gangster friends are involved in the Chicago end of the investigation, the school board member answered quickly:

"I can't discuss that."

Other efforts to get him to talk about the possibility of Chicago underworld contacts were unavailing.

"I have not even said that my action in the case has centered in Chicago," he insisted. "In fact, I probably shall not go back to Chicago from here. My office doesn't know where I am. My ticket was bought after I got on the train."

"An Amateur Detective."

When he left the train, the Manhattan Limited, at 6:28 a. m., a heavy snow was falling and Mr. Caldwell had his head down against the wind when THE TRIBUNE'S representative approached him. He readily admitted his identity, but asked:

"How did you know that I was coming?"

He was told news of his former visit, on St. Patrick's day, had leaked out two days ago. He said he could tell nothing at the time except that he was doing all he could to get the baby back. Asked if he expected an early solution of the case, he replied that he was "not a lawyer, but an amateur detective."

"I have been at work on this thing now until my nerves are ragged," he continued. "You'll have to draw your own conclusions. You are the only person I have talked to besides those directly connected with the search. Still I wouldn't be devoting all my time to making these long trips if I did not believe I was accomplishing something."

Col. Lindbergh's latest confidential agent became tight-lipped when the nurse, Betty Gow, was mentioned. He

HOUSE REBELS WIN TAX SLASH BUT WON'T QUIT

Exemptions Fail to Stem Revolt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Although the ways and means committee yielded today to their major demands the leaders of the house insurrection against the billion dollar tax increase bill announced tonight that they will continue the fight to knock out the entire sales tax provision.

Voting further exemptions to the sales tax which would diminish the expected yield from that source nearly one-fourth the committee prepared to make another effort to save the measure, hoping that the concessions would bring enough wavering insurgents back into line to produce a majority for the compromise.

The insurgent leaders hailed the concessions as a great victory for their cause but refused to make peace and asserted that they still have votes enough to make the repudiated Democratic and Republican house organizations eat more humble pie. Whether they have will be tested, perhaps tomorrow indirectly on other provisions of the bill, but in any event on Wednesday when the committee plans to bring the sales tax section before the house for a showdown.

Food, Clothing Exempt.

The committee voted to exempt all foodstuffs, all wearing apparel, farm machinery, and other farm implements, and all medicines except proprietary medicines.

The committee also voted to exempt radio wire service, insecticides and spraying liquids from the sale tax and sirups used in breadmaking and grape juices used in soda fountain and other nonalcoholic beverages from the special tax provided by the pending bill.

Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the committee, said he hoped the concession would satisfy the opposition, while Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] opined that "the sales tax will now go through without further trouble."

Rebels Have Another View.

A different view, however, came from the leaders of the house rebellion after a two hour consideration of the committee's action. Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], a member of the committee, made the statement on behalf of the insurgent group.

"The ways and means committee," he said, "has agreed to eliminate or remove from the sales tax provisions of the pending revenue bill some of its objectionable features. However, others remain which are, to many of those opposed to the sales tax, just as objectionable.

"My chief reason for opposing the sales tax is because I believe it is wrong in principle and is an unsound policy of taxation. While the fight made by those of us who opposed the sales tax has resulted in a great victory so far, in that we have forced many important exemptions since the bill was reported, there yet remains the vicious principle of a sales tax.

"Therefore there is no reason why the fight should not be continued and see whether the sales tax shall be adopted as a part of the taxing system of our government. All of the opponents of the sales tax with whom I conferred are of the same opinion as myself."

La Guardia Refuses to Quit.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [radical Rep., N. Y.], the recognized brains of the insurrection against the house leaders, participated in the council of war and afterward stated he would continue in opposition to the sales tax.

"I have talked with members who have opposed the sales tax," he said. "They are satisfied with the victories up to date. If it had not been for the splendid opposition the announcements this afternoon of the exemptions of the necessities of life would not have been made.

"Many feel that the fight should be continued as a matter of principle. That being so, we shall continue our efforts to eliminate all of section 601—the sales tax provision.

"Although the exemptions announced today eliminate my fundamental objections, I shall vote with Representative Doughton. I shall continue with the opposition."

Asked if he thought the opposition could muster enough votes to defeat the provision Mr. La Guardia replied: "Oh, yes."

Garner Is Noncommittal.

Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] was noncommittal on his future attitude toward the bill. Asked whether he would take the floor in support of the measure as amended he replied: "You will know if and when I do."

The speaker's leadership has been under fire since the revolt developed. At the close of the first day's battle, when the income taxes had been boosted by the insurgents and it was realized that the sales tax was doomed to more or less emasculation, Mr. Garner said it made little difference what taxes were provided so long as they balanced the budget. His indifference was judged to have dealt the sales tax a staggering blow. On Saturday he sought to undo the harm he had done the measure by issuing a statement warmly indorsing the tax.

Special Rule Idea Lost.

After voting the additional exemptions at the afternoon meeting, the committee directed Chairman Crisp to ask a special rule from the rules committee under which the sales tax provision could be taken up out of the order in which it appears in the bill and disposed of by the house tomorrow.

The sales tax provision is in the latter part of the bill and ordinarily would not be reached for several days. It was reasoned that if the sales tax could be disposed of the committee would then know how much additional revenue must be found and the house would be able to pass on the remainder of the bill more intelligently.

Mr. Crisp rushed over to the house to procure introduction of a special rule, but was too late. The house had adjourned. The rules committee will act tomorrow morning, but the rule will not be in order in the house until Wednesday. Mr. Crisp said that the house, however, would proceed with the bill tomorrow.

Slashed 140 Millions.

The revenue that will be sacrificed by the exemptions voted today is 55 millions on wearing apparel, 50 to 60 millions on food stuffs, 10 millions on medicines and 2 millions on farm machinery. The sales tax provision was devised to raise 595 of the one billion 100 millions required to balance the budget. Altogether, the exemptions approved today and previously, will reduce the estimated yield from the sales tax to the extent of 140 millions.

As soon as the sales tax section of the bill is agreed upon, the committee will consider substitute taxes to yield the amount of revenue sacrificed by the exemptions. Among the taxes to be considered are a 2 cents stamp tax on bank checks, which, it is estimated, would yield 97 millions; a one cent a gallon tax on gasoline, 165 millions, and a one cent increase in letter postage, 135 millions.

In a letter to Mr. La Guardia, today, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills said that the tax program of the insurgents would not produce the amount of revenue required.

"The income tax, even if the action taken by the house in the committee of the whole is sustained, cannot be expected to yield more than 132 million dollars, the estate and gift tax about 35 million, the corporation income tax at a 13 per cent rate, $21,000,000, or a total from these sources of 188 million dollars, leaving 912 million dollars still to be found," said Mr. Mills.

Mills Presents Schedule.

"The program which you presented to the house, as reported in the Congressional Record of March 12, will yield an additional 383 million, according to our estimate, the schedule being as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Stamp tax on checks and drafts at a rate of one cent on $100 to two cents above $200 | $70,000,000 |
| Safety deposit boxes in vaults | 1,000,000 |
| *Stamp tax on contracts, covenants, etc. | 10,000,000 |
| *Stamp taxes on receipts, etc. | 25,000,000 |

*Estimated.

[These last two amounts are blind guesses and there are no means of making any estimates as to what the yield would be. They are probably very high.]

| | |
|---|---|
| Stock transfers and sales | $ 30,000,000 |
| Bond transfer tax | 10,000,000 |
| Radios and phonographs | 15,000,000 |
| Radio advertising | 6,000,000 |
| Cosmetics and perfumery | 12,000,000 |
| Automobiles, trucks and accessories | 56,000,000 |
| Works of art, jewelry, etc. | 13,500,000 |
| Postal increases | 135,000,000 |

"So that on these figures you still are short 530 million dollars.

"I know you will accept this comment in the spirit in which it is made. I do feel that those who are leading the fight to disrupt the committee's program should have a program of their own which will balance the budget, and unless your program includes additional taxes sufficient to produce this 530 millions I think you should hesitate a long time before carrying the fight much further."

JUDGE MAY SET MASSIE MURDER TRIAL FOR APRIL 4

HONOLULU, March 21.—(AP)—The trial of four persons accused of shooting to death the alleged attacker of the wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie probably will start April 4, Judge Charles S. Davis, who will preside, said today.

The date will be set definitely Friday after the arrival of Clarence Darrow of Chicago to aid in the defense of Mrs. Granville B. Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie; Lieut. Massie and E. J. Lord and Albert D. Jones, enlisted naval men.

All four have pleaded not guilty of second degree murder of Joseph Kahahawai. The Hawaiian was found dead Jan. 8 in an automobile driven by Mrs. Fortescue and occupied by Massie and Lord. Kahahawai and four other men were accused by Mrs. Massie of raping her. The jury disagreed as to their guilt, and Kahahawai was shot while the five were at liberty awaiting a second trial.

7 NAVY STATIONS UNDER SCRUTINY OF HOUSE GROUPS

Plan to Save Millions by Curtailment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—The movement to close up or curtail the activities of surplus naval shore properties went into high gear today with the disclosure that two house committees have interested themselves in the navy's efforts to put its shore establishment on a more economical basis.

Within the last few days the house appropriations and the house economy committee both have manifested interest in the navy's views on closing shore properties.

Seven Stations Under Fire.

Seven stations now are under congressional fire. Whether they are closed or placed on a less expensive basis depends largely upon the question of whether the congressional desire for economy is stronger than its desire to cling to its pork barrel stations and yards.

In numerous reports during the last few years, naval officials have stated more stations are operated than are needed to do the navy's repair and building work.

The seven properties under discussion include:

The Boston navy yard, the Charleston navy yard, the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard, the naval stations at Key West and New Orleans, the ammunition depot at Baldwin, Long Island, and the Newport naval training station.

See Huge Savings.

It is estimated that curtailing activities at these stations eventually would results in annual savings amounting to several million dollars. Appropriations for new construction also would be avoided.

One plan calls for complete stoppage of all naval activities at New Orleans and Key West and drastic curtailment of activities at Charleston.

'KINGFISH' LONG DOES HIS BIT TO CURB THE RICH

Makes 2 Hour Harangue on Sales Tax.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. ["Call me Kingfish"] Long of Louisiana got up today in the senate where he so rarely occupies his chair, and screamed criticisms down on the heads of the rich in a two hour harangue against the sales tax.

HUEY P. LONG.
[Acme Photo.]

Loudly did he berate fellow Democrats in the house for their "coalition with the Republicans in a movement to saddle taxes on the backs of the poor."

Feverishly, in little groups about the room, did fellow Democrats in the senate try to think up a plan to stop him.

But he kept on waving his arms in the face of his neighbor, Mrs. Caraway, who scrooched up into the corner of her chair to dodge his gestures. And he kept on shouting against the concentration of wealth.

Would Diminish Worries.

"Take it from the top, take it from the top!" he yelled, as he flung himself about excitedly. "Take it from Morgan and from Rockefeller. Those fellows'd sleep a lot more easily tonight if they had only five millions under their pillows than they're going to in the next ten years with a couple a billions under their pillows."

From over on the house side the entire Louisiana delegation marched in, to listen to their junior senator. Their senior senator, Mr. Broussard, who had declined to escort Mr. Long to the rostrum the day he took the oath, sat silent and sullen. In the back of the room Senator Glass walked up and down, furious but futile.

Won't Be Sidetracked.

"O, I'd leave the Morgans and the Rockefellers their yachts and their fish ponds, their castles in Spain and their hunting lodges. I'd leave them everything needed to appease their refined appetites. But after that I'd begin to tax."

Then he pulled out a Bible, a big one, and began to read. Once Senator Robinson, Democratic minority leader, interrupted him with a question, but he was back in the midst of his oratory immediately. It was when he began to blame the Democratic leaders over in the house that he was choked off for a moment. It is against the rules for either branch of congress to criticize the other branch.

"Now, the Democratic leadership in the house," Senator Long cried out, and beat the air with his fist——

Checked by Chair.

Down came Vice President Curtis' gavel sharply.

Huey Long was instantly silent. His face was red as he said, hastily, "I wasn't criticizing the leadership," and then swung off into his speech under slightly different words.

"When the house adjourned Saturday," he declared, "Floor Leader Rainey is quoted as saying it 'adjourned in disorder.' On the contrary, it adjourned in order, for the first time in 12 years. I have never slept with such ease and confidence as I did Saturday, with the knowledge that the house had at last rebelled against the leadership of the Democrats and Republicans who were trying to saddle high taxes on the shoulders of the poor."

Supporters Back Him.

Referring to Representative Rainey's statement that Saturday's insurgent rebellion was a step toward communism, Senator Long declared: "The country hasn't gone toward communism this session. It began going that way when wealth got into the hands of a few. Now we have 1 per cent of the people possessing 59 per cent of the wealth. And yet the coalition in the house asks us to go back to our people as taxgatherers. There's eight members of the Louisiana delegation in the house that won't do it."

All the eight nodded.

"And there's at least one United States senator from Louisiana that won't."

As he concluded the Louisiana delegation clapped.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO ACT IN GIN SENTENCE

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Fred Palm will have to serve the sentence that has been imposed upon him by Michigan courts for having a pint of gin in his home at Lansing.

The Supreme court today refused to take a hand in the case.

Palm was convicted in 1927 and sentenced to from six months to two years in the state penitentiary as a second offender. Later, it was found that he was a fourth offender, which, under Michigan laws, required the imposition of a life sentence.

He was resentenced to life, but this was later commuted by the governor to an indeterminate sentence of from 7½ to 15 years which he is now serving.

Collect 152 Millions in U. S. Income Tax in March Quarter

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.] — Treasury officials found some encouragement today in income tax returns disclosing that the receipts for the March quarter will be at least as high as had been expected. Collections for March 18, the last date for which official figures were available, brought the totals for the quarter up to slightly in excess of 152 millions.

With collections of close to $25,000,000 expected for the 19th, 20th, and 21st of the month, officials now believe the March returns will run above 180 millions, possibly reaching 190 million dollars. This would run the income tax collections for the 1932 fiscal year, the last collection coming June 15, well above one billion dollars.

Nothwithstanding the fact that the collections were closely supporting the estimates, they continued to show a sharp falling off from the returns last year. The March quarterly collection this year of 152 millions compares with 283 millions for the same period last year.

Income tax collections up to date continued to run close to half a billion dollars below returns for the same period last year. From July 1 last through March 18, the government had collected 810 millions from income tax compared with one billion, four hundred millions up to this date last year.

The government deficit today stood at one billion, 811 million dollars compared to 656 millions for the same period last year.

Total expenditures up to date this year are 400 millions greater than for the same period last year. Up to date the Reconstruction Finance corporation has expended 111 million dollars, more than two-thirds of its initial allotment. It is probable steps will be taken to replenish the corporation's coffers within the next ten days.

FINAL DECISION ON FLOSSMOOR CHIEF THURSDAY

The fight over the summary suspension of Police Chief Edward Dugdale of Flossmoor resulted in a temporary defeat and victory for both sides at the meeting of the village board last night. Residents of the village filled the board room.

Dugdale was restored temporarily to the force, a victory for his supporters, but was returned only with the rank of a patrolman, a victory for his opponents. Final action on whether he is to be ousted will be taken at an executive session of the board on Thursday. Dugdale was suspended on Saturday by Francis Hoyne, Flossmoor trustee and chairman of the police committee, a son of former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne. Trustee Hoyne, who is employed in the county highway department, was named acting police chief until Thursday.

Hoyne revealed at last night's meeting the reasons for his action in suspending Dugdale. He said that several citizens had complained to him that the chief had "talked" against the trustees and that he had received an anonymous letter concerning Dugdale. The citizens who made the complaints, it was said, will be heard on Thursday. Chief Dugdale denied the charges. A number of citizens, led by Arthur E. Schultz, spoke at the meeting for Dugdale, calling him "100 per cent efficient."

SENATE DEBATES KNEE PANTS FOR ANDREW MELLON

11 Millions for Dry Law Causes Less Fuss.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Who'll pay for Andrew Mellon's knee breeches, if Andrew Mellon wears knee breeches, when he goes as ambassador to the court of St. James?

SENATOR BLAINE.

This somewhat personal question today engaged the attention of the senate as it considered the state, justice, commerce, and labor departments' 125 million dollar appropriations bill.

Senator Blaine, radical Republican from Wisconsin, wanted to know why the senate had increased to $100,000 the house's $50,000 item for "post allowances to foreign service officers." But more than that was he eager to know just what "post allowances" are.

Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.], in charge of the bill, explained that they were for "raiment and other necessities needed by our diplomats."

Still was Senator Blaine unconvinced.

Blaine Thinks He Sees It.

"You know," chatted Senator Jones, "suppose you're in the torrid zone and get sent to the frigid zone; you'd need entire new raiment, you know."

Senator Blaine thought a moment. Then he said blandly: "O, you meant that will pay for knee breeches for Mr. Mellon when he gets over to London."

"No. No. No." Senator Jones was getting peeved. "Mr. Mellon will pay for his own knee breeches, if he wears them. This applies to our inferior officers in the service."

Up rose Senator Norris, radical Republican from Nebraska, with devilment in his eyes:

"Now really, that would be a mistake," he said. "Those old breeches must be all worn out by now. Certainly we should buy some new ones. Mr. Mellon must have appropriate, what is the word, O, yes, appropriate raiment."

Entertainment Fund Attacked.

Then Senator Blaine went on to the next item, "representation allowances," which the senate had increased 300 per cent, or to $100,000 from the house's $25,000.

"In prosperous times," the Wisconsin senator argued, "this might be all right. But today with the standard of living of many reduced to almost zero is no time to give money to our consular service officers to wine and dine foreign diplomats abroad."

Then he skipped through the bill to the section in the justice department which calls for an $11,000,000 appropriation for the enforcement of prohibition.

"Strike it all out," he urged. "It's for the futile enforcement of a foolish law."

Asks 10 Per Cent Cut.

Senator Tydings, wet Democrat from Maryland, tried to keep a straight face as he pretended to argue seriously.

"No, by all means keep the appropriation. We must have a lot of prohibition violation arrests, for the government is asking for $5,000,000 to build a nice new federal prison and it must have a lot of federal prohibition prisoners."

After considerable parliamentary discussion as to just when such a motion was in order, Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] made a motion similar to the one he won last week in the interior department appropriations bill, to recommit this bill to the committee with instructions to make a flat horizontal cut of 10 per cent. This would save approximately $12,000,000. The vote was postponed until tomorrow.

DROWN IN RIVER

JOHN DARROFF. PAUL DATSKO.

The bodies of two boys, missing since Sunday, were found yesterday in Deep river, near their home in East Gary. The boys, Paul Datsko, 8 years old, and John Darroff, 12, had left to go skating and sledding. Yesterday a passerby noticed a large hole in the ice of the river, and notified Town Marshal Jess Gunning. The marshal and several volunteer firemen investigated. They found Paul and John side by side beneath the ice hole, the former wearing skates and the latter clutching his sled. Apparently they broke through the ice while Paul, skating, pushed John on the sled.

DE VALERA DENIES HE DRAFTED OATH TO BRITISH KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 21.—President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State today said that the statement by Eamon Duggan, one of the signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty, that De Valera had drafted the oath to the crown in the treaty, is a falsehood. The new president added:

"Mr. Collins [the late Michael Collins] told me himself that the oath was drafted by Lord Birkenhead [late lord high chancellor]. He also told me that when the draft was completed Lord Birkenhead passed it over to him, with the remark, 'The greatest piece of prevarication in history.'"

An Anglo-Irish conference is expected to result from De Valera's intention to abolish the oath and to withhold Irish land annuities from England.

PRUSSIAN TOWN FORCED BY DOLE INTO BANKRUPTCY

Banks Foreclose; Other Cities to Follow.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 21.—The first Prussian town to go bankrupt is Koeben on the Oder, whose 1,300 inhabitants in 1927 celebrated the seventh centenary of this Silesian town's existence.

Its debts total $140,000, incurred partly through real estate deals but mostly through support of the unemployed after they had been out of jobs for a year and a half and were no longer entitled to doles or crisis insurance fees.

Foreclosed By Banks.

The creditors are chiefly Breslau banks, which today demanded appointment of bankruptcy administrators.

Koeben is the forerunner of a long string of municipal bankruptcies, according to Ferdinand Fried, economic expert. Fried estimates that owing to the necessity of supporting jobless families who no longer receive doles many scores of German municipalities face bankruptcy by the end of March. Their total indebtedness, he said, is $180,000,000.

Towns Demand Relief.

The central organization of German communes today issued a statement saying that most of them will be unable to balance their budgets for the coming financial year because of unemployment. At present they are spending $22,000,000 monthly to keep the unemployed from absolute starvation, while their share of the federal taxes is only $13,000,000.

Two years ago these tax receipts exceeded by five fold the unemployment costs. The communes demand immediate relief from the central government.

County Gets Bids of $1.25 to $2.70 a Pair on Shoes

The county board yesterday opened bids on 100,000 pairs of shoes for disbursement by the county bureau of public welfare to needy persons. The low bids of eight competing firms ranged from $1.25 to $2.70 a pair, depending upon the size and quality of the shoes. The bids were referred to the public service committee.

REACH BASIS FOR SETTLEMENT OF WAR AT SHANGHAI

Formal Conference to Be Held Today.

BULLETIN.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 22 (Tuesday.)—(AP)—Japanese military authorities today reported insurgent uprisings over a wide area in eastern Kirin, the Manchurian province adjoining soviet Russia on the east. More than 150 men were killed in a battle at Nan Hu Tou, on the southern end of Lake Birten.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 21.—Chinese and Japanese delegates at a meeting today at the British consulate, at which the American, British, French and Italian ministers were present, agreed to hold a formal conference at 10 a. m. tomorrow in an effort to reach a final settlement of the Shanghai situation on the following basis:

1. The Chinese troops to remain in their present positions, about 20 miles west of Shanghai.

2. The Japanese troops to withdraw according to a fixed program, to the positions they occupied prior to Jan. 28;

3. A joint commission, including Chinese, Japanese, American, British, French and Italian diplomats, to be formed to see that the first two conditions are carried out.

Military Men to Attend.

It is understood that tomorrow's conference will also be attended by Gen. Chiang Kwang-nai of the 19th route army, representing the Chinese military, while the Japanese delegation will include Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda of the Japanese army and Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, naval commander.

The chief Chinese delegate will be Quo Tai-chi, vice minister of foreign affairs. The Japanese delegation will be headed by Mamoru Shigemitsu, minister to Shanghai.

It is reported that foreign military observers may attend in addition to the ministers.

A dispatch from THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent at the headquarters of Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, Chinese commander, at Kunshan tonight reported that the situation is becoming tense along the Chinese lines because of the activities of Japanese airplanes flying low over the Chinese positions as well as over all towns and stations along the railway between the front and Soochow.

A Japanese scouting plane today dropped incendiary bombs on the town of Taichang, well behind the Chinese lines a short distance north of Kunshan. A considerable part of the business section burned.

Japanese sentries today attacked Chinese outposts east of Taichang.

Drop Leaflets on Town.

Another Japanese plane dropped leaflets, written in Chinese, on Kunshan. They said:

"We have received orders to begin an advance."

The critical situation is aggravated by the constant stream of refugees arriving from the Japanese occupied zone, especially in the Liuho district. All tell stories of alleged Japanese atrocities.

One Chinese peasant woman said her three sons were bayoneted before her eyes. The Japanese had alleged they were spies.

Another woman said her three daughters had been mistreated by Japanese soldiers and are still detained at a farmhouse within the Japanese lines.

Japanese forces at Anting station have mounted a battery of three heavy howitzers on concrete foundations, apparently in anticipation of a further advance. Chinese headquarters claim the Japanese have massed 5,000 troops at Luiho and 800 cavalrymen near Lotien.

Hundreds of Chinese coolies arriving at Kunshan said they escaped from a Japanese concentration camp, where they were forced to do labor.

Woman Shot at Hangchow.

A Soochow dispatch today reported that a Japanese airplane had machine gunned the railway station at Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province, wounding a Chinese woman. Another plane, the report said, flew over Chenchiao, Zakow and other suburban cities and wounded several peasants with machine gun fire.

More than 100 American missionaries at Soochow today appealed to the league of nations investigating commission here to use its influence to prevent the Japanese from flying over the buildings on the campus of Soochow university and other American educational institutions.

Dr. W. B. Nance, president of Soochow university, which is operated by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, arrived here today to make a personal plea to American Consul General Cunningham.

Charges Provocative Actions.

Dr. Nance said that, despite the armistice, Japanese airplanes have been acting in a provocative manner, flying low over the roofs of the university buildings and the homes of American and Chinese faculty members.

"The Japanese planes appear to be trying to dare the Chinese to fire at them, and, in event some Chinese does fire, everybody feels certain the Japanese would use this as an excuse for a wholesale bombing and machine gunning of the densely populated city," he said. "Since Socchow is only a short distance behind the Chinese lines, the city naturally is panicky, but the situation is greatly aggravated by the action of the Japanese planes."

League Envoys See War Zone.

SHANGHAI, March 2[illegible]—(AP)—Members of the league of nations commission of inquiry returned to Shanghai tonight, begrimed and weary after a day long tour through the battlefields around the city.

The Japanese had done some housecleaning—the Chinese called it "window dressing"—since the enemy retired, but the commissioners had their first opportunity to see for themselves the effects of the fighting. A Japanese army officer was the official guide and five Chinese civilians, including Dr Wellington Koo, were in the party.

Everywhere they went were ruins and at every stop the guide gave them a vivid description of the battle scenes.

Japan Insists Peace Depends on China Calling Off Boycott

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 22 [Tuesday].—The Japanese interest in China proper is economic rather than political, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese foreign minister, said today at the opening of the 61st session of the imperial diet.

KENKICHI YOSHIZAWA.

In view of that fact, Yoshizawa declared, "complete friendship and accord between the two countries" depends entirely on the abandonment by the Chinese of their anti-Japanese policy and the direction of their energies "toward the achievement of internal unity and peace."

Asks Sympathy of Powers.

The foreign minister, who sat on the league of nations council during that body's unsuccessful attempts last fall to settle the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria, attributed the unsympathetic atmosphere toward Japan in Europe and America to "misrepresentations of facts by Chinese sources and to misunderstandings of various kinds."

"I am confident," he said, "that in time the sentiment of the western powers will turn gradually in favor of Japan."

Yoshizawa said Japan does have a paramount political interest in Manchuria. He spoke in friendly terms of the "declaration of independence" made recently by "the former provincial governors and other Manchurian leaders."

Still Backs "Open Door."

This movement for "freedom" started, he hazarded, "subsequent to the downfall of the erstwhile Manchurian authorities last autumn when the efforts of local leaders for peace and order gradually assumed a movement for autonomy." Its cause, he asserted, was the "antagonism of the Manchurian people toward militarist rule."

Yoshizawa stepped cautiously in dealing with the official Japanese attitude toward the new Manchurian state's bid for recognition.

"We have gone no farther than unofficially to acknowledge its receipt," he said. "I am certain, however, that it will be in accordance with the best interests of the new state if its government will, as the announcement says will be the case, really respect the existing treaties and the rights and interests of foreigners and faithfully adhere to the open door principle."

Traces Development of War.

Yoshizawa traced the development of the hostilities at Shanghai in supporting his contentions that the Japanese interest there is in the main economic and that the Japanese military action was taken in self-defense.

"The Japanese government seized every opportunity to urge upon China a thorough going suppression of the anti-Japanese movement," he said.

The situation became grave, he explained, in January after a Chinese newspaper had published an article derogatory to the mikado and after a Chinese mob had murdered a Japanese priest. Strong protests were made to the Chinese mayor, who complied with the demands on Jan. 28, whereupon the Japanese adopted a watchful waiting attitude, Yoshizawa related.

Says Chinese Grew Warlike.

"Meantime, the 19th route army, which was concentrated near Shanghai, assumed a disquieting attitude and made a display of warlike preparations," he said. "The municipal council decided to take precautions against possible disturbances within the international settlement by the undisciplined Chinese soldiers or by mobs.

"Garrisons of the powers were assigned to duty at their respective sectors. It was while the Japanese marines were proceeding to take up their post in the Chapei district that the Chinese fired upon our forces and compelled them to take measures of defense.

"Reports are sometimes circulated that it was the marines who began fighting, but the facts of the case are precisely as I have just stated."

Two times subsequently the Chinese army frustrated Japanese efforts to arrange a truce, he asserted.

Protests League Interference.

"Our demand on Feb. 19 that the Chinese army withdraw to a certain distance was rejected," he said. "Thereupon the next day our troops undertook to compel the withdrawal outside the prescribed area and completed the task on March 3."

Japan has taken part in the deliberations of the league of nations assembly under protest, he explained, on the ground that "the Shanghai incident was merely a local affair, not likely to lead to a rupture, while in Manchuria not only has there been no renewal of hostilities, but the matter is already pending in the hands of the council under article XI. of the covenant and a commission of inquiry has already started its work."

Yoshizawa alluded to the controversy between Japan and Russia in connection with northern fisheries.

"Negotiations have so far failed to bear fruit," he said. "From the broad standpoint of the friendly relations between the two countries, it is desirable that we should arrive at a fair and suitable settlement, and the difference in view concerning the settlement is gradually narrowing."

Claims Recognition by Powers.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MUKDEN, March 21.—The new Manchurian government today announced it had been accorded formal recognition by France and Italy on March 18, by Japan on March 19, and by Estonia on March 20. Dictator Pu-yi's spokesman said he is "unable to understand the failure of America to grant recognition and hoped Washington will reconsider."

[This is the first intimation that the puppet government of Japan in Manchuria has been recognized by any government. In his speech to the diet today, the Japanese foreign minister made no mention of having recognized Pu-yi's régime. On the contrary, he said Japan had gone no further than to acknowledge the new state's bid for recognition.]

The late Kevitt Manton, English actor, whose widow is again pressing her eight year old suit against Marjorie Rambeau, now Mrs. Francis A. Gudger.

Resume Suit Today

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The eight year long suit of Mrs. Mabel Manton, widow of Kevitt Manton, English actor, charging Marjorie Rambeau, stage and screen star, with alienating the affections of her husband, will be resumed tomorrow.

Mrs. Manton seeks $100,000 damages from Miss Rambeau. The first trial ended in a disagreement two years ago. Manton died last July. The second trial was adjourned today by Supreme Court Justice Ingraham until tomorrow.

The first suit was filed eight years ago.

Mrs. Manton charged that she found Miss Rambeau in a hotel with her husband when she raided the place. Miss Rambeau contended she and Manton were only rehearsing lines in a new play.

SETTLE $75,000 CODE LOVE SUIT; TERMS A SECRET

Directed Verdict Ends Trial Abruptly.

The jury which last week pondered the cryptograms contained in letters written by Warren T. Davies, wealthy laundry owner, to the future Mrs. Davies when she still was Mrs. Robert Steven of Decatur was excused yesterday from search for the meaning of "S. S." and "D. D."

ROBERT STEVEN.

With these abbreviations — to say nothing of the "B. E.'s" and "B. G.'s" and "W. E.'s"—left a mystery in the letters, the jury hearing the $75,000 alienation of affection suit brought by Mr. Steven was instructed by Judge H. Sterling Pomeroy of the Circuit court to return a verdict favoring the defendant, Mr. Davies.

Settlement Is Reported.

This was quite all right with Mr. Steven, who, according to his lawyer, had a check for a substantial sum in his pocket given to him by Mr. Davies to conclude the suit. Mr. Steven's lawyer, F. R. Wylie of Decatur, refused to reveal the amount of the check and Mr. Davies' attorney, Howard Ames, said there was no such check written, so far as he knew. The instructed verdict followed a two hour secret session in chambers attended by plaintiff and defendant and their lawyers.

After the jury was dismissed and attorneys had left the room Davies was just beginning to tell reporters what he thought about the settlement when Judge Pomeroy, who had not left the bench, called him before him and consulted with him in a low tone of voice. Davies then told reporters he could not reveal the terms of the settlement.

The judge then called out to "stop Steven." One of the small group of persons clustered about Davies dashed to the door and summoned the departing plaintiff.

"Come here, Mr. Steven," said Judge Pomeroy. "I just want to tell you good-by." He grasped him by the hand.

How He Will Use Money.

Steven said later that he intended to use the money he received from Davies to pay off a mortgage on his farm and to build some stables. Davies said that if Steven paid his taxes on one farm with the money he got from him he'd be doing well.

The former Mrs. Steven, for whose lost love the damage suit was brought, is now the former Mrs. Davies, and also the former Mrs. William Repson, having been married and divorced for the third time.

INDIANA'S 3 MEANEST ON TRIAL FOR TAKING STOVE ON REPLEVIN

Elkhart, Ind., March 21.—(AP)—Charged with having broken into the home of a destitute family to remove its only heating stove during the illness of a 4 months old baby there, a constable and two employés of a department store will go on trial in City court tomorrow for trespass.

Those charged are Constable Bert Leist and Alfred Morningstar and John Geerts, employés of the store, who declared the James Miller family had failed to make payments on the stove. The Millers allege the men threw water on the fire and then waited for the stove to cool before removing it from the house.

PLANE IN RIVER; PILOT DEAD; HUNT BODY OF WOMAN

Forced Down in Night by Storm.

Steubenville, O., March 21.—(AP)—The fog laden Ohio river valley tonight shrouded the fate of a woman physician, who ventured on a stormy midnight plane ride to hurry to the bedside of her ill daughter, after the wreckage of the plane and the pilot's body were discovered near here.

The body of the pilot, Hal George of Columbus, was recovered late today as the plane was dragged from the swollen Ohio river where it had crashed near Brown's island, six miles north of here, but as heavy fog settled over the valley tonight all search for the body of Dr. Carol S. Cole of St. Louis, was abandoned until tomorrow.

Find Body of Pilot.

Searchers believed that Mrs. Cole leaped to her death from the plane as it plunged into the river while a sleet storm swept over the section. Pilots in an aerial search today said that the wreckage showed evidence of the plane having crashed at a speed of 120 miles an hour.

The body of the pilot, with his parachute wrapped about him, was found under the plane, submerged in about 20 feet of water.

From reports of residents and views of the wreckage investigators pieced together a picture of the pilot's battle with the storm. Workmen at Weirton told of seeing a plane dodging among the smokestacks of the Weirton Steel company and pedestrians said they saw a plane barely miss a high bridge near there.

On Way to Ill Daughter.

Mrs. Cole had taken the night mail plane, owned by Transcontinental Western Airways, at Columbus, O., to rush to the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. William T. Bingham, in Newark, N. J., who is ill.

The Columbus airport received a radio request from Pilot George at 2:37 a. m., asking for weather conditions around Pittsburgh. The plane was heard, residents near here said, as late as 3 a. m. It is believed to have crashed soon after that.

Army Flyer Killed.

Newport News, Va., March 21.—(AP)—Second Lieutenant R. P. O'Keefe was killed when two pursuit planes from Langley field collided 8,000 feet over Plum Tree island about 4 o'clock this afternoon, but Second Lieutenant Roland O. S. Akree piloted his plane, with one wing off, over Langley field and jumped in his parachute, escaping injury.

Canadian Pilot Dies.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 21.—(AP)—One army flyer was killed and another probably fatally injured today after a wing of their Puss Moth plane buckled back against the fuselage at a height of 2,000 feet. The pilot, Flying Officer A. L. James, received severe head and chest injuries. At a hospital it was said he probably would not live through the night.

Flight Sergeant A. Anderson, who had accompanied James to observe the operation of the new slotted wings, was killed instantly.

What Difference does a tooth or two make?

Ask the man who has just lost a few

If you have ever lost a tooth in the front of your mouth, you know how precious all your natural teeth are. The days with the toothless gap . . . the silly, lisping sound of your own voice . . . the strange embarrassment that made you keep your hand over your mouth. You'll never want to go through it again.

Start now to protect your teeth. Protect them against pyorrhea—the thief of half the adult teeth which are lost. Pyorrhea starts at the gum line and works downward towards the tooth sockets. It may be working in your mouth five or ten years before you know it, before it takes a single tooth. But, sooner or later, beware . . .

Give the dentist a chance to prevent. It's much better than repairing. Visit him twice a year and make a point of it. That is prevention—and sensible prevention too. Then there is the question of home treatment and care. There is no use in making believe that white, shining, "clean" teeth are either safe or sound. Nobody believes that any more. The gums must be considered as well, Forhan's Toothpaste is the double-duty toothpaste that does both halves of the job. Originated by Dr. R. J. Forhan, for 26 years a pyorrhea specialist. Save pain, expense and humiliation. Start the whole family today with the big brown tube of Forhan's. All druggists.

SCHEDULES FOR PERSONALTY WILL BE MAILED OUT

County Assessor Jacobs yesterday announced a few of the innovations he will introduce in the remaking of the 1931 personal property assessments.

"Personal property schedules will be mailed instead of being delivered by deputy assessors as before," he said. This was made possible under the passage of a recent law. A special staff will be organized to assist property owners, who so desire, in properly filling out and submitting returns. A letter guiding taxpayers in the proper making of a personal property return will accompany each schedule.

Certain businesses will receive an appendix to the schedules requiring the submission of additional information, such as inventories, the assessor said.

COWLES FIGHTS TAX BOOST IN TAKING OFFICE

Resistance to proposals for tax increases must be continued on a larger scale among taxpayers, declared Alfred Cowles in an inaugural address yesterday as president of the Civic federation. Mr. Cowles, an attorney, and other officers were elected at the biennial meeting of the organization at the Midday club.

"Alert and stalwart guard must be maintained to prevent tax expenditures from increasing at their former rate so soon as the present crisis is passed," added President Cowles. "Otherwise any enforced budgetary reductions secured this year soon will be lost and the march of increased taxation will go on until government crumbles of its own weight as it is threatening to do today."

Mr. Cowles succeeds Clayton Mark, president of the Civic federation since 1923. Other officers elected are Thomas E. Donnelley, Graham Aldis, and Sewell L. Avery, vice presidents; Rufus C. Dawes, treasurer, and Douglas Sutherland, secretary.

SCALDS FATAL TO BABY.

CHICAGO FIGHTS DRIFTS TO KEEP TRAFFIC MOVING

Forecaster Expects Storm to Taper Off Today.

be much lighter than it was yesterday and might turn into slight flurries before noon. Temperatures are expected to remain close to the freezing point.

Thousands Shovel Snow.

Thousands of men were pressed into service by the city and transportation services to keep traffic lanes open. The snow, which was wet and heavy, reached only an estimated depth of eight inches by midnight, but drifts were piled high by the winds of almost gale force and continually threatened to halt surface cars and motor travel.

In the western suburbs and in Evanston street cars were brought to a standstill during the evening. In the western towns the street car company placed 100 buses in service to replace them. Most of the intercommunity highways remained passable near the city, but hundreds of cars were stalled in them. In western Lake county automobile travel was abandoned long before midnight.

Twisters Cause Damage.

In southern Illinois and in Indiana there were tornadoes which caused heavy damage. Near Harrisburg, Ill., which was south of the snow belt, the twisting winds tore away the front of the high school gymnasium at Carrier Mills. A dozen houses were demolished west of Harrisburg.

Evansville, Ind., was struck by a heavy hail and wind storm. The gale ripped the roof from the Monitor Furniture plant and part of the wall collapsed.

At Shoals, Ind., and Petersburg, Ind., several houses were wrecked. Mrs. Weldon Robinson, wife of a farmer living south of Petersburg, was injured when the roof of her home was carried away and the walls collapsed.

A Usual March Storm.

Forecaster Donnel pointed out that there was nothing unusual in a heavy snow toward the end of March; that such an occurrence was to be expected. He added that the weather map showed tornado conditions for the area south of the snows on Sunday night.

The highest sustained official wind velocity during the day was 30 miles an hour. The government instruments, however, recorded gusts as high as 50 miles an hour and THE TRIBUNE'S anemograph even higher readings.

One of these gusts, from the northeast, was so terrific that it caused the 110 foot flagpole on top of the tower to break. About 50 feet of it toppled over toward Michigan avenue and struck on the stone screen connecting the flying buttresses on the 25th floor level, where it snattered in several pieces.

Strikes Bus; Two Injured.

Several shorter pieces hurtling down fell in the boulevard and the sidewalk over Austin avenue. One piece knocked loose the parapet edging the sidewalk on the inner side. Either a part of this, or another fallling piece, was deflected and struck a passing double decked motor bus, shattering glass on the front and right side.

The driver, Glenn Peters, 516 Addison street, and a woman passenger, were cut by flying glass. Both were taken to the office of Holmes Onderdonk, manager of the Tower, and treated by a physician. The woman said her hurts were not serious and declined to give her name before going home.

Downtown streets were kept cleared by the city, which had six snow plows at work. Joseph J. Butler, superintendent of streets, said that no extra men had been hired or would be hired in view of the condition of the city treasury. If necessary, he said, street cleaners from the outlying wards would be called to the loop. Later they are to be set at work opening the more important arterial streets.

All Street Cars Running.

Surface lines were held open and it was reported last night not a line in the city was out. More than 1,000 extra men, 126 plows, 100 car sweepers, and 100 salt cars aided in the work. The Chicago Motor Coach company had forty plows on the routes its buses travel and reported continuous but slow operation.

The elevated lines had no trouble, but the North Shore trains were delayed north of Chicago by the drifts. All of the steam railroads continued their operation, but some trains from the west were late. One on the Chicago and North Western was two hours behind schedule because of a minor derailment at Belvidere.

Other steam lines claimed only slight deviations from schedules, although the Pennsylvania announced trouble with wire service. The Burlington put a large force of shovelers in the yards at Cicero and the Milwaukee had 200 extra hands in Chicago.

Cab Lines Get Business.

The large cab companies reported a heavy demand for service and uninterrupted travel along the main traveled streets. However, loop hotels had heavy registrations of persons who feared that transportation agencies would not be functioning this morning.

At the Municipal airport it was said a mail plane for the west took off at midnight, but that other air travel was abandoned at midday.

Chicago schools will remain open, it was announced, but those in Des Plaines will be closed. Principals and educational boards in other suburbs indicated an intention to keep their schools going.

Three Deaths Reported.

Three deaths were attributed in part to the storm. Albert Petig, 50 years old, 4909 West Austin avenue, died of heart disease after shoveling snow. John L. Harper, 45 years old, 211 North Spring avenue, La Grange, was struck by a Burlington train in La Grange. Otto Bonnenn, 43 years old, 7141 South Artesian avenue, died of heart disease after running to catch a surface car.

Henry Soloman, 39 years old, 2542 Haddon avenue, and his wife Mary, 35 years old, were seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a surface car at Western avenue near the drainage canal. They had been blinded by the snow.

Hearse and Truck Collide.

During the height of the storm a hearse and a truck collided in North Chicago and Howard Holland, 1521 Washington street, Waukegan, suffered a fractured left leg. In the hearse was the body of Leslie D. Miller, 313 Center street, Lake Bluff. There was a delay of about an hour while a new hearse was obtained to take the body to the Miller home.

Another victim of the storm, John Elgiejus, 36 years old, of 373 Kensington avenue, was seriously injured last night. He was found on a snowbank alongside the Illinois Central right of way at 119th street. He apparently had been hit by a train. Elgiejus is a switch sweeper.

President Emmett Whealan of the county board announced that tobogan and ski slides in the forest preserves will be opened today.

IT'S A DARK DAY FOR SUN BATHING; MAYOR SAYS 'NO'

Orders Pigeonholing of Beach Stockade Plan.

There will be no nudist sunbathing on Chicago beaches, Mayor Cermak said yesterday. He said he had asked Ald. John P. Wilson [11th], chairman of the council committee on playgrounds, to pigeonhole a resolution which would have permitted a nudist group to erect a stockade on the Touhy avenue beach in Rogers Park to screen devotees of the sun from the eyes of the multitude.

ALD. J. P. WILSON.

"I'm taking action because of the protests of residents of Rogers Park, who apparently do not want the stockade," Mayor Cermak said. "Nude sunbathing is not done in this country, and the city never intended that it should be started in Chicago. In Florida, where sunbathing is popular, people wear suitable garments.

Test of Public Opinion.

"The whole thing makes me sick. I have received letters of the most insulting kind. The proposal was presented to me and I handed it to Ald. George A. Williston, who represents that ward [the 49th]. In doing so I was not advocating nude sunbathing. I simply wanted the council to inquire into the matter and ascertain if people had any objections.

"I take sunbaths myself, but not in the nude. As I understand it, it is not necessary to be nude to get the benefits of the healthful ultra-violet rays. Ald. Williston is an innocent party in the matter, and is not interested one way or another."

Williston Charges Politics.

Ald. Williston charged that James White, leader of a group which protested against the sunbathing resolution, was seeking to make political capital by misrepresenting the matter. White, he said, is running for Republican committeeman in the 49th ward against William A. Burmeister, whom Ald. Williston is supporting.

"Those resolutions of protest were adopted by White's own political organization," Ald. Williston said.

Arne L. Suominen, naprapath, who wants to build the nudist sanctuary on the beach in Rogers Park, had a new proposition yesterday which he said he would present to Ald. Wilson's committee. This is that the stockade would be open to women only, and the women would be required to wear a few scanty garments. His previous plan was to partition the stockade, with men on one side and women on the other.

CHARLES A. LEVINE.

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Charles A. Levine, the man who flew the Atlantic as Clarence Chamberlin's passenger and financial backer, was indicted today on two charges of grand larceny and forgery in the first degree.

The charges grew out of the tracing of 100 stolen shares of American Telephone and Telegraph company stock which Levine allegedly had put up as collateral for a $25,000 bank loan, to Columbia Air Lines, Inc., of which he was president. He is expected to plead to the charges tomorrow.

Son of Ex-Dry Enforcer Ordered Seized for Alimony

Judge Joseph Sabbath issued an attachment yesterday in the Superior court for the arrest of Sherwood Owen, 5614 Kenmore avenue, because Owen has fallen $863 behind in payments of alimony to his ex-wife, Mrs. Virginia Wood Owen, 21 years old, 2544 Bennett avenue, Evanston. Owen is the son of Maj. Percy B. Owen, former prohibition administrator in Chicago. Mrs. Owen obtained a divorce two years ago.

2 Children Eat Poison, Mistaking It for Candy

Hilda Craig, 3½ years old, and Joseph Ledbetter, 4, both of 737 North La Salle street, were given emergency treatment at the Henrotin hospital last night after they had swallowed some poison tablets which they had mistaken for candy while they were playing in the Craig apartment. Their condition was not serious and both were taken to their homes after the treatment.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SHOOT WOMEN DEFENDING ALTAR

Rebellious Peasants Slain on Ukraine Frontier.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 21.—(AP)—Reports of soviet soldiers shooting down rebellious peasants in among them women defending their churches against wreckers, came today from Rumanian villages on the Ukrainian frontier.

An uprising in the Ukraine was reported. The dispatches said martial law had been established over a two kilometer zone on the Russian side of the Dniester river to prevent a further escape of peasants into Rumania.

Soviet church wrecking activities in the Ukrainian village of Taslak resulted in a "bloody Sunday," said alleged eye witness accounts from Kitzani, Rumania, across the river. soviet soldiers, attempting to destroy a church in Russia's anti-religious campaign, were faced by 300 women, the reports said, the soldiers killing and wounding several with machine gun fire.

Persons at the Rumanian military post at Mihaiviteazu said the soviet soldiers were seen shooting down fifteen peasants who tried to defend a cross in the village square at Ruturaga.

Stories also continued to come in of Ukrainian peasants attempting to escape from soviet territory over the frozen Dniester river, only to be shot down by soviet border guards before they reached Rumanian soil.

Soviet orders were issued to shoot on sight any civilians found within the frontier zone, the reports said.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF CITY OBSERVES HER 91ST BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Magdeline Kleinhans spent a good part of her 91st birthday yesterday reading the newspapers and recalling the highlights of 75 years spent in Chicago. She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Max Richter, at 750 Oakdale avenue.

Mrs. Kleinhans came to Chicago from Germany when she was a young girl. "The city was then just a country town and if we wanted to take an exciting walk we just walked across the bridge to Lake street," she said. "There wasn't anything beyond North avenue then."

Mrs. Kleinhans married George Kleinhans, a grocer. Their home at Wells and Sigel streets was in the path of the Chicago fire and the family lost all its belongings. Mrs. Kleinhans is in good health and expects to have many more birthdays. She has a son, Fred, who lives at 552 Oakdale avenue.

WIFE FINDS HER MISSING MATE; BATTLE ENSUES

Mrs. Catherine Piegar, 1014 Polk street, went out last night to find her husband, Carmen, 44 years old, who has been missing from his home and four children for three weeks.

She found him with a tall blond at Wilson avenue and Broadway. She scratched his face and when he tried to push her away she caught the index finger of his right hand in her teeth and clamped down on it.

When some policemen arrived a little while later the snow was swirling down about them. Both Mr. and Mrs. Piegar were covered with a white covering. The blond had long since fled, but Carmen's finger was still being bitten. He was taken to the Town Hall station and charged with disorderly conduct. Mrs. Piegar went home.

Helen Keller Stricken with Serious Illness

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Miss Helen Keller, famous blind and deaf author and lecturer, is seriously but not critcally ill with a digestive malady at her home in Forest Hills, Queens, it was learned today, and has canceled all speaking engagements for a month. Miss Keller became ill on Thursday.

CLEMENTI GETS YEAR IN PONTIAC FOR AUTO THEFT

Pal Is Sentenced to Six Months in Bridewell.

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Putra, crime against children, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Frank Wilson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Patsy Clementi, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John Prystalski.

Patsy Clementi, 42 gang hoodlum, who has boasted to police that he "can fix any rap," was sentenced to a year in the Pontiac reformatory yesterday by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court for stealing an automobile. His companion, George Price, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell on the same charge.

PATSY CLEMENTI.

It was the first conviction and sentence ever received by Price and Clementi, who is a brother of Louis Clementi, gangster.

When the sentence was imposed, Clementi smiled and walked out of the court room. Price and his wife, who is the mother of one child and is expecting another, both wept. Mrs. Price had pleaded that her husband be placed on probation.

Clementi admitted last week to Judge Prystalski that he had stolen the automobile, which belonged to Roy C. Follett, 6529 Kenwood avenue.

FARM HAND DRAWS FINE.

George Price, 54 years old, a farm hand living near Valparaiso, Ind., was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore F. Ehler in the Traffic court yesterday on a charge of speeding through a stop light in Racine avenue early Sunday.

Vick Plan cuts Costs of Colds!

THE family's "Colds-Tax" can be reduced. It is being reduced this winter—in every community in the country—with the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Developed by the makers of Vicks VapoRub, the Plan is made possible with Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea for preventing colds, this new Vick formula is companion to VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds. Each aids and supplements the other in the Vick Plan, which follows:

1. BEFORE A COLD STARTS—

At that first sneezy, scratchy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's warning that you are "catching cold"—use Vicks Drops promptly as directed. If you catch cold easily, use a few Vicks Drops up each nostril after exposure to any particular condition that you know is apt to give you a cold—for instance, a night on a Pullman—a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes, wet or cold—after over-smoking—dry, overheated rooms—indoor crowds—etc., etc.—and you feel the slightest stuffiness of the nasal passages.

2. AFTER A COLD STARTS—

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Drops as needed for ease and comfort. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.) This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing."

TRIAL OFFER BY LOCAL DRUGGISTS

You have Vicks VapoRub—now get Vicks Nose Drops and use together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to reduce their number and severity. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

FACTORY GROWTH IN WISCONSIN HALTED BY TAXES

Industries Held Back by Increasing Burden.

Racine, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—In a special message to the legislature on Jan. 5, Gov. La Follette, censuring senate conservatives for defeating his bill to "soak the rich" with a $17,000,000 unemployment relief program, defended his own economic theories in the following words:

"The inability of millions to buy is the primary cause of depression. Government can remedy that condition by the exercise of the tax power in two directions—the relief of the overburdened property taxpayer and the generous relief of the needy. The government, far from attacking wealth, restores to the people a sense of leadership and stability."

The extent to which this "sense of leadership and stability" has been restored to Racine is indicated in statements by officials of three leading manufacturing companies here, each speaking with reference to Gov. La Follette and his taxation policies.

Expansion Program Halted.

Thomas B. Myers, head of the Hamilton-Beach company, makers of electrical appliances, said the normal expansion program of that concern had been held up three years "because of our uncertainty over increased tax burdens." Hamilton-Beach is a subsidiary of the Scoville Manufacturing company of Waterbury, Conn.

"We have been operating at capacity here for three years and are carrying more employés than ever in an effort to turn out the work," Mr. Meyers said. "Our plant should be enlarged, but we don't dare make expenditures for new buildings and equipment because we don't know what may come next in the way of a tax program.

"Right now our eastern plant is doing much work that could just as well be handled in Racine. If Wisconsin tax conditions were normal we would be enlarging our plant now, spending money on construction and providing facilities for more jobs in Racine."

Attacks Taxation Policies.

Lindsay M. Donaldson, president of the Massey-Harris company, manufacturers of tractors, plows and farm implements, is another industrialist who has given the La Follette tax program consideration and found no leadership or stability therein.

"Few manufacturers in our field are contemplating expansion at the present time," said Mr. Donaldson. "We have given the present tax situation careful consideration, however, and I can state emphatically that when the time for expansion comes I will recommend no enlargement of the Racine plant unless tax conditions are changed.

"Such an expansion will be considered only after two years of reasonable taxes marking a trend of assurance as to the future. Under present conditions expansion of our plants in Canada or Batavia, N. Y., would be more advantageous than expansion here."

Taxes Exceed Dividends.

Officials of the J. I. Case company, another farm machinery concern, stated that "one of the most serious situations with which this company is confronted is the ever increasing tax levies." The officials confirmed a report that their company in the last twenty years had paid in taxes a sum greatly in excess of the dividends paid to stockholders.

"The tax collectors have taken far more out of this company than its owners have," one official said.

In an address before the Racine Rotary club recently State Senator Walter S. Goodland of Racine drew some comparisons between the tax rates on Wisconsin industry and the rate in the neighboring state of Michigan.

"In Wisconsin 254 of our larger industrial companies pay more taxes than all of the 13,500 industrial companies in Michigan," the senator asserted. "Obviously such a system is unfair. It puts Wisconsin industry at a tremendous disadvantage.

"The inevitable result of such a situation will be to force Wisconsin industries first to cut their overhead, then their wages. The state will then become a haven for a lower wage scale than that of Michigan. In the long run this tax system is going to hurt the working man the most."

800 RELIEF FUND EMPLOYES PAID UP TO MARCH 1

Eight hundred employés of the Illinois relief fund, engaged in the management of relief stations throughout the city and county and in the furnishing of supplies to the poor and unemployed, were paid yesterday by the state treasurer up to March 1. The average payment was only $98 and the total paid out of the relief fund was approximately $80,000.

Among the 800 employés were 120 former county employés, working for the county bureau of public welfare, who automatically became relief fund employés when the county agreed to take over the work of distributing the state relief fund in conjunction with the state relief fund commission.

Supt. Joseph L. Moss of the county bureau of public welfare said that employés of the relief fund probably would be paid steadily each month from the relief fund. The former county employés benefit this much, he said, although he pointed out that such employés have lost their civil service ratings and pension rights by becoming relief fund employés. Regular county employés have not been paid for nearly four months.

Britain Convicts 27 Red Leaders of Coal Miners

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—British tolerance, which allows communist agitators to mount platforms in Hyde Park each Sunday and denounce everything to do with the country under the amused protection of the police themselves, can tighten up with a jerk when Red activity becomes too much of a bad thing.

This was made evident by the squeeze which has been put on in the Rhondda valley, Welsh coal mining district, by the wholesale sentences of 27 defendants charged with unlawful assembly at Mardy, described as "little Moscow." Arthur Horner, ring-leader and a communist of great influence in Wales, was given the stiffest sentence—15 months' imprisonment.

Trace Moscow Connection.

The defendants were convicted of attempts to prevent service of warrants for failure to pay rates, the British form of real estate taxation. Direct connection between Horner's activities and revolutionary propaganda centers in Moscow was established during the trial.

Horner's career as outlined by the prosecution proved to be one of constant communistic agitation. He arrived in the Mardy district in 1916 and quickly developed into an active agitator, a pursuit he has followed so well since that the police charge he is in the pay of the soviet government.

In 1917 he was called for military service but fled to Ireland, where he remained until the conscription act was extended. He was then arrested and remained in jail until the armistice. As soon as he was released Horner returned to Mardy and obtained a large following among the miners. He assumed the rôle of dictator among the men and during the coal strike in 1921 placed himself at the head of 1,000 men and forced surface workers to flood the pits.

Town Gone to Ruin.

Horner has paid many visits to Russia, the prosecution pointed out, and it is assumed that he was a paid agent of the soviets. During his absence conditions are normal at Mardy, according to the police, but the town, once a prosperous mining village paying 2,500 miners an average of $45 a week, is now almost derelict. He secured 10,000 votes during the last general election as a communist candidate for parliament.

Horner claimed that the prosecution's statements were prejudiced and based on false information and that the crown's lawyers took no account of the fact that he had been a member of the executive council of the Miners' Federation of Great Britian.

Police also charged that Jesse Sweet, another defendant, was a dangerous agitator who attempted to join both the army and navy after a return from Moscow with the intention of spreading dissatisfaction.

Horner had previously been convicted of the same offense. Passing sentence the court remarked:

"The last time you were let off very lightly, and because of that you thought you could go on doing this sort of thing. You will now go to prison for 15 months."

BRAZIL DICTATOR WOOS FOES OF HIS MILITARY REGIME

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 21.—(AP)—Political leaders from all parts of Brazil were called upon today to heal the breach between the military régime of Getulio Vargas and the political forces of the southern state of Rio Grande Do Sul.

The De Facto president himself was engaged in a long conference with Gen. Flores da Cunha, governor of Rio Grande, but the results of their discussion were carefully guarded.

Foreign Minister Mello Franco, who represents politically the state of Minas Geraes, a neighbor state of Rio Grande, and Americo Almeida, minister of communication and a political representative of the northern states, were among the negotiators for peace.

The opinion of the country appeared divided between two tendencies:

1. Support for the military régime of Vargas and its northern federal associates, with its aim to outline for Brazil a modern constitution with equal suffrage and political education throughout the nation before a return to constitutionalism early in 1933. Vargas has been in power since Nov. 3, 1930, when he seized the government by military force.

2. Support, mostly civilian, for the southern states of Rio Grande Do Sul, Minas Geraes and Sao Paulo, whose leaders want an election in 1932, and convocation of the national assembly.

Vargas has insisted that the country is not ready for constitutional government, and he has been doing his utmost to reconcile the southerners since their ministers walked out of his cabinet three weeks ago. At the time they protested "a military raid" on the newspaper Carioca.

The crisis became acute when the Rio Grande leaders sent J. F. Assis Brasil to Rio de Janeiro to demand constitutionalism of Vargas.

KILLS SELF WITH GUN.

Despondent over poor business, Chester Hubdell, 65 years old, owner of a barber shop at 360 North Cicero avenue, shot himself three times yesterday before he ended his life. One shot entered the abdomen, another grazed his head, and the third penetrated the brain, causing his death.

DELAY INQUEST INTO 2 DEATHS IN AUTO CRASH

The inquest into the deaths of the youth and man who were killed in a collision of a newspaper delivery truck and a touring car at Grace street and Sheffield avenue Sunday was continued yesterday until April 29, at the county morgue, pending the recovery of two other men critically injured in the same crash.

The victims were Harry Miller, 18 years old, 3042 Lincoln avenue, helper on the truck; and D. Alden Christenson, 31 years old, 2910 Shakespeare avenue, son of the Rev. Carl Christenson of the Saron Evangelical Lutheran church at 2908 Shakespeare avenue, both dead; and Thomas E. Balwin, 30 years old, 1306 Ritchie court, an interior decorator, and Edward Sobie, 1732 North Albany avenue, another helper on the truck, the injured. Baldwin is unconscious in the American hospital and Sobie is in the Lake View hospital suffering from a broken back.

Hugo Doose, 45 years old, 1923 Noyes street, Evanston, a painter, sustained a fractured right leg when he attempted to crank his motor truck which he had left in gear. He was taken to the St. Francis hospital in the suburb.

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday and the toll for 1932 remained at 243.

Indiana Impounds 18 Cars with Old Illinois Licenses

Indiana highway police were holding eighteen Illinois automobiles yesterday, impounded until the owners obtain 1932 licenses. The Hoosier authorities have issued warnings during the last few weeks that they would take this action. The Illinois motorists protested that they were not being stopped with their 1931 licenses in Illinois.

FISH OPPOSES BROOKHART IN SOVIET DEBATE

No Recognition by U. S., He Declares.

"The American people don't propose to have a revolution made to order for them in Moscow," Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., of New York declared last night in opposing recognition of soviet Russia. He debated with Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa in Orchestra hall.

A scattering of radicals, who wore black slouch hats, booed the New York congressman and applauded vigorously, shouting "Bravo," at Senator Brookhart's sallies.

Congressman Fish said there was only one point to consider in discussing the recognition question. So long as soviet Russia attempts to interfere with our own domestic institutions she will not be recognized, he declared.

Calls Question Dead.

Mr. Fish said he was not much interested in the question, that he regarded it as academic and dead, recognition having been opposed by every president and secretary of state since Woodrow Wilson.

"We are not alarmed about communists in the United States," he said. "There are not more than five or six thousand of them, and they could be liquidated, to use a good old Russian word, by the United States army in two days."

Among the American institutions Mr. Fish said the Russian communists would suppress are freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and the right to worship according to one's conscience. This open discussion, he said, could not be held in Russia.

Brookhart Makes Reply.

In response to this, Senator Brookhart shouted:

"How can you talk about freedom of the press when you have THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE." He read the headlines of a number of news stories from THE TRIBUNE, dealing with revolts, famines and disasters, and declared they sought to bring about the overthrow of the soviets. In this manner he answered Mr. Fish's argument that the soviet Russians sought to overthrow our government.

Senator Brookhart based his argument for recognition on trade relations, which he said would help restore prosperity. He declared that we have no right to consider the form of government in granting or refusing recognition, and that communism is not unknown in this country. Our public schools, public roads system, postoffices and the Panama canal, he asserted, are communistic institutions, and the early Christians were communists. He read from a Gideon Bible in support of this.

Victim of Mysterious Shot Dies of Wound

Walter Barnigo, 42 years old, 4572 Gross avenue, a laborer, who was found in front of his home last Saturday with a bullet wound in the back, died last night in the county hospital without regaining consciousness. Albert Wadess, 4555 Gross avenue, and Joseph Clemonick, 4731 Justine street, were passing near Barnigo when they saw him stagger and fall. They were released after questioning. Police suspect that Barnigo was shot in a brawl.

SECRET SIX IS HELPING SEARCH FOR LINDY BABY

Two Visits Reveal Their Efforts.

evinced interest in the disposition made of Henry [Red] Johnson, Betty's sweetheart. Johnson, a sailor, has been turned over to the federal authorities at Jersey City while an immigration department charge against him is being investigated.

The Chicagoan said that while he was an amateur sleuth, he was working on professional clews and that there was no use following the other kind.

Before leaving Trenton for Hopewell Mr. Caldwell called at the statehouse, but failed to find Gov. A. Harry Moore in. As he drove off toward the Lindbergh home he was accompanied by two state troopers.

"BAR POLICE TO FIND BABY"

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—The belief that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's kidnaped baby son will be restored to his parents through private negotiation and only after state police have withdrawn from the case was expressed today by Elmer Hand, chief detective of Hunterdon county, in which the flyer's estate is situated.

The county official expressed the opinion also that certain aspects of the investigation into the kidnaping and indications of unsavory local conditions which have come to light since the crime was committed ought to be considered by the grand jury.

State's Attorney General William Stevens declared that no grand jury investigation was contemplated.

1,400 Clews Prove False.

Since the child was stolen from his parents' home near Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1, evidence of a steady infiltration of city gangsters into the quiet Sourland hills near the Lindbergh home has been uncovered.

Fourteen hundred persons and clews have been investigated since the kidnaping of the baby and more clews are being investigated and exploded—or are exploding themselves—every day.

Two notes found tied to the legs of a dead carrier pigeon today, and at first thought to be connected with the case, were eliminated as clews by nightfall.

Johnson Cleared; Held.

Henry [Red] Johnson, sailor friend of Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, was cleared of suspicion by the Jersey City authorities only to be questioned anew by Deputy Chief Frank Brex of Newark.

Johnson is being held ostensibly for the federal immigration officials on a charge of having entered the United States illegally in 1927. Simultaneously, the Jersey City detectives took his brother, Fred, into custody also on suspicion that he entered the country illegally.

Meanwhile at Hopewell there was a revival of interest in the ladder which the kidnapers used. A newspaper photographer found some lumber resembling that which was used for rungs in the ladder, on an abandoned farm about four miles from the Lindbergh estate.

The wood was in a light truck with 1930 New Jersey license plates.

SENATE STUDIES PROPOSAL TO PUT SPEECHES ON AIR

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Whether the senate should permit broadcasting of its debates and sessions will be studied tomorrow by the rules committee. The question is presented in the resolution of Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.], which directs the sergeant at arms to equip the chamber as "early as practicable," with connections and microphones for broadcasting.

It provides for all mechanical installations and permits the rules committee to decide what proceedings might be broadcast, with necessary expenses of equipment to be paid from the senate contingent fund.

The broadcasts would be over any station or stations approved by the committee.

Bomb Does $5,000 Damage to South Side Battery Shop

Estimated damage of $5,000 was done late last night by a dynamite bomb which was exploded at the front entrance of the Heissler Battery company, 2354 Cottage Grove avenue. The interior of the shop was wrecked, and all windows in the three story structure were shattered. Families occupying the upper floor were routed from their beds. No one was hurt. Damage extended to windows as far away as three blocks. Almost 100 windows were broken in that area. Earl Davis of 4144 Berkeley avenue, who owns the battery shop, told police he could not account for the bombing.

Gresham Cops Get Their Men After Chase in Snou

William Hector, 20 years old, of Little Rock, Ark., and Carl Brown, 36, of 6506 South Peoria street were arrested early this morning as alleged bandits after a foot chase through the snow by Sergt. William Gooch and his Gresham squad. The pair are accused of stealing $6 from George Frank, 582 South Paulina street, a conductor. Frank was held up on his car at 79th and Honore streets. Gooch and his squad arrived just as the robbers fled and were forced to abandon their machine because of the snow and chased the fugitives on foot.

OHIO KIDNAPER GETS SENTENCE OF 1 TO 20 YEARS

Warren O., March 21.—[Special.]—With a second man now under penitentiary sentence for kidnaping James De Jute Jr., 11, son of a well to do Niles contractor, the morning after the Lindbergh kidnaping, Trumbull county authorities now are hoping to round up ringleaders of the kidnap gang. James Demarko, 30, Youngstown, pleaded guilty to a charge of concealing a kidnaped child before Judge Lynn B. Griffith today and was given a one to twenty year penitentiary sentence.

Judge Griffith last week found Dowell Hargrave, who was arrested with Demarko, guilty of child stealing and sentenced him to life imprisonment. Demarko refused to reveal any others in the plot. Hargrave and Demarko were found with the boy in an abandoned resort.

"Demarko probably knows who did the job, but it would be suicide for him to tell," said Attorney Harvey A. Burgess, counsel for Demarko. "The instinct of self-preservation is uppermost in every man's mind and therefore he will not tell anything."

Burgess said he had been unable as attorney to get any other story from Demarko than that he went to the abandoned resort to get a case of liquor. Demarko answered Judge Griffith's questions through an interpreter.

"Do you wish to say who it was that employed you to go out there where the boy was found?" the court asked.

"I can't because I don't know who they are," was the reply.

"How much money were you to get?" the judge asked. Demarko replied. "Nothing."

The De Jute boy, his father and the boy's cousin, Anna Mae Mollica, who saw the kidnaping, were in court.

RANSOM DEMAND IS AWAITED FOR PEORIA DOCTOR

Family Believes Parker Is Kidnap Victim.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Seven days after the mysterious disappearance of Dr. James W. Parker, 65 years old, practicing physician and president of the Illinois Tax Securities corporation, his family is without a clew to his fate.

Firm in the belief that the doctor is a victim of kidnapers, the family continued their vigil in his home at 508 Bradley avenue, confident that each hour might bring a ransom demand. Police and county officials have withdrawn from the case to allow negotiations with kidnapers.

Recovering from Heart Attack.

The wife of the missing doctor, Mrs. Donna Parker, also a physician, is confined to her bed recovering from a heart attack suffered Friday, when she collapsed. She is being attended by her son, Dr. James W. Parker Jr. of Chicago. Also with her are two more sons, B. R. and William Parker, both of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Mahle of Chicago and Mrs. William L. Brown, wife of a Flossmoor, Ill., physician.

Mrs. Parker is positive her husband is alive, although friends expressed the opinion he may have been kidnaped by enemies and slain.

Two additional theories were advanced. One that the doctor may have been seized by a patient with a fancied grievance. And that he may have been spirited from his home to attend a wounded gangster or perform an illegal operation.

A Mysterious Woman.

The latter theory is strengthened by the fact that Dr. Parker was said to have visited the police station with a mysterious woman two hours before his disappearance. The woman asked to see Chief Thomas McCann. When she was told the chief would be busy for fifteen minutes she expressed impatience and appeared distraught. She left without accomplishing the mission. At the Parker home the family said they had traced the doctor's movements and were sure he was not the man who visited the station.

Before his disappearance the doctor received a phone call from the office of the tax corporation in Chicago requesting him to attend a meeting the following day. The following day, however, another call canceled the meeting.

Never Visited Club.

Dr. Parker was last seen at 7:30 p. m., March 14, by his wife, when he went to the garage to get his car to drive to the Creve Coeur club where he was to bowl.

When he failed to return at 10:30 Mrs. Parker called the club to learn her husband had not been there. A few minutes later she received a phone call. A strange voice said, "Dr. Parker will not be home tonight. You'll hear from him in the morning."

The ice of a pond near the place his car was found was not broken. Police said that the car was left at the place by some one familiar with Peoria, as the area is secluded. No signs of a struggle were found. Beyond searching an abandoned brewery and an abandoned residence on Galena road, authorities have done nothing.

Dr. Parker is not a man of great wealth, his family said. His losses in oil lands and in the tax corporation have been considerable, they said.

ROBBERS LOSE $3,000 BANK LOOT.

Morrill, Neb., March 21.—(AP)—Two roughly dressed men robbed the First National bank of $3,000 today, but were compelled to abandon their loot.

RETIRED STEEL MAN IS CANDIDATE FOR SANITARY TRUSTEE

Paul Willis, one of the candidates for Republican nomination for sanitary district trustee, is also the engineer who put up the steel for the electrical building at the 1893 world's fair.

PAUL WILLIS. [Kaufmann-Fabry.]

Mr. Willis retired from business last June, at which time he was vice president of the McClintic-Marshall company, steel fabricators and erectors. He had spent forty-six years in that business. He was one of the founders of the Kenwood Bridge company in 1890.

In addition to the world's fair building, his company erected steel for the New Orleans station of the Illinois Central railroad, the Simmons company works at Kenosha, and plants for the American Steel Foundries, the Inland Steel company, and the Pullman company.

Mr. Willis was president of the Kenwood Bridge company from 1910 to 1925, when the company was sold to McClintic-Marshall, and he became vice president of the latter concern. In that position he was concerned with steel fabrication and erection for the Pittsfield building, Civic Opera building, Merchandise mart, Medinah Athletic club, Lake Shore Athletic club, and a number of other Chicago skyscrapers.

His present candidacy has the backing of the Deneen organization, although Mr. Willis has never taken an active part in politics. He lives at 4950 Greenwood avenue. He married Daisy J. Hubbard in 1899. They have three children and three grandchildren.

FLAMES DESTROY NORTH CHICAGO HOTEL LANDMARK

Fire virtually destroyed the three story Auditorium hotel at 1520 Sheridan road, North Chicago, early this morning, routing its occupants and causing a loss estimated at $50,000. The hotel, a rebuilt structure, and a landmark in North Chicago, was closed for the winter. Its owner was said to be Mrs. E. M. Pryor of Chicago.

The fire was discovered by Mary Elaine Bohr, 5 years old, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Bohr and granddaughter of Mrs. Lula Orman. Mrs. Orman, her husband, Harry, her daughter and her granddaughter were asleep when it started. The girl, awakened by smoke, aroused her mother. All escaped attired in night clothes. Their entire personal belongings, including $325 in cash hoarded by Mrs. Orman, were destroyed.

Fire companies from North Chicago, headed by Chief Fred Brean, and from the Great Lakes Naval Training station, led by Chief James Beaman, experienced difficulty in fighting the blaze because of four foot snow drifts. However, the snow covered the roofs of ten nearby dwellings and prevented them catching ablaze from burning embers.

Five Youths Arrested as Burglars; All Confess

Five youths, held as burglars by Summerdale police, confessed between twenty and twenty-five lootings last night. They are Colton Ankebrent, 18 years old, of 1847 Melrose street; Paul Luther, 19, of 1242 Winnemac avenue; Richard Bueskiewico, 17, of 2930 Warsaw avenue; Erick Kreuger, 20, of 4216 North Hermitage avenue, and Fred Haas, 18, of 1934 Melrose street. The arrest of four of them followed the capture of Haas in a home by Policeman Otto Schoener.

OFFICERS' DRAIN ON BANK'S CASH TOLD IN COURT

Took Out Funds Within a Day of Closing.

Withdrawals of cash totaling more than $50,000 within 24 hours of the closing of the Second Northwestern State bank were revealed from the witness stand in Judge Michael Feinberg's court yesterday by Harold S. Fennema, 4153 North Long avenue, former assistant cashier. The withdrawals were made by officers, their relatives, friends, and companies in which they were interested.

The bank closed the afternoon of June 9, 1931. The largest withdrawals were made June 8, according to Fennema.

Withdrawals Are Listed.

The withdrawals listed by the witness were as follows:

Frank E. Lackowski, president, $2,570.
Mrs. Harriett P. Lackowski, his wife, $670.
Ruth Anna Lackowski, $665.
Betty Jane Lackowski, $700.
Stanley Licsmanski, vice president, $27.
Mrs. Margery Licsmanski, $148.
Realty and Mortgage company, of which Lackowski was a director, $28,000.
Chicago Motor Coach Co., for which former Alderman Tomczak, vice president of the bank, was insurance adjustor, $15,500.
H. A. Valkenaar, assistant cashier, $120.
Harold S. Fennema, assistant cashier, $120.
Charles A. Elsner, cashier, $195.
All Chicago Kiwanis club, of which Elsner was treasurer, $2,240.
Elain Niebeck, daughter of an assistant cashier, $13.
Charles M. Elsner, son of Elsner, $30.
Gertrude L. Elsner, daughter, $60.
The Campfire Girls, by G. L. Elsner, guardian, $42
Conrad A. Bishop, $182 withdrawal approved by Elsner.
Mrs. Margery Lennig, $34, same.

In most cases, Fennema testified, the withdrawals practically closed out the accounts. Other employés of the bank, alarmed when they saw the president and other officials at the paying teller's cage, were about to withdraw sums also, when they were informed that the bank had passed its crisis and would survive with the help of loop banks. A few hours later the bank closed.

Lackowski, the president, committed suicide three weeks ago following disclosures made of his irregular bank transactions by Miss Harriet Shoskey, his secretary, in Judge Feinberg's court. Miss Shoskey is recovering in St. Elizabeth's hospital after taking an overdose of sleeping powder.

Peck Defends Self.

Ralph L. Peck, former president of the First National bank of Palatine, took the witness stand yesterday in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court to deny that he embezzled approximately $30,000 of the bank's funds in 1928 and 1929. He admitted collecting three large notes for sums totaling $30,000 but said he did not turn this money over to the bank because the bank owed him money and the loans were in the nature of personal transactions.

At the close of the government's case Judge Barnes overruled a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty and the defense is expected to close today. A jury is hearing the evidence which has been presented for the government by Assistant U. S. District Attorney Owen A. West.

AGENT IS FOUND DEAD; 4 NOTES INDICATE SUICIDE

Apparently a victim of self-administered poison, Fred C. Jensen, 45 years old, of 730 Hough street, Barrington, was found dead last night in his employment and steamship agency office on the third floor at 192 North Clark street. The body was discovered by Nick Giebel of 5019 Byron street, a janitor.

Four notes, one addressed to his widow and three to creditors, were found. They indicated, police said, that Jensen ended his life while despondent over financial troubles.

The letter to Mrs. Jensen advised her that Jensen's insurance was paid up, and that she and their children could now buy new clothes. It also contained a list of creditors. In conclusion, Jensen advised his wife to invest the insurance money in stocks and bonds.

FOSHAY AND AID GIVEN 15 YEARS FOR MAIL FRAUD

Found Guilty by Jury in Second Trial.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—[Special.]—Wilber B. Foshay and Henry H. Henley today were found guilty of using the mails to defraud and were sentenced by District Judge Joseph Molyneaux to terms of fifteen years each in the penitentiary at Leavenworth. The defendants also were fined $1,000 each, which will add thirty days to their prison terms if the fines are not paid.

WILBER B. FOSHAY.

At the request of defense attorneys the court granted a forty-two day stay of commitment. It was indicated the defense would appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The eleven man jury, which received the case Wednesday, found each of the defendants guilty on four of the seventeen counts in the mail fraud indictment.

Foshay and Henley, respectively president and vice president of the extensive Foshay enterprises, which collapsed in November, 1929, were nervous when they appeared before a crowded courtroom to hear the verdict. They left in company with their counsel immediately after being sentenced.

The second mail fraud trial got under way in federal court Jan. 11. First trial of the case ended in a disagreement, Mrs. Genevieve Clark, the only woman on the jury, having held out for acquittal. Mrs. Clark has since been found guilty of contempt for concealing the fact that she once was employed by the Foshay interests. Between the first and second trial five of the seven defendants changed their not guilty pleas and they are to be sentenced in April.

The government called more than sixty witnesses to support the charge that the defendants were parties to a scheme to defraud investors and had used the United States mails in furtherance of that scheme.

Charge Books Doctored.

It was charged by the government that the books were "doctored" to misrepresent the Foshay company's assets, that earnings were misstated, and that dividends were paid from capital and not from earnings. Methods of accounting were among the issues of the case, and both sides called experts to justify their respective contentions.

Both defendants declared they believed representations made in all statements and circulars which had been approved by them were correct and denied that there had been any attempt to dupe investors.

The case was tried by eleven jurors, because after twelve men had been selected word reached the court that one the twelve had had some business dealings with defense counsel.

ACQUIT FORMER NEW YORK JUDGE IN PERJURY CASE

New York, March 22 (Tuesday).—[Special.]—Francis X. Mancuso, former judge of general sessions and chairman of the board of the defunct City Trust company, was acquitted of perjury by a jury before Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakly at 1:15 a. m. today. The jury's verdict, which came after almost nine hours' deliberation, was greeted with cheers which rang through courtroom until attendants silenced the demonstration. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was one of several character witnesses for the former judge.

SEEK CONVENTION BLOC IN ILLINOIS TO FIGHT HOOVER

Launch Drive Aimed at Dry Law and Spending.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A movement to elect a compact bloc of anti-Hoover, anti-prohibition, anti-tax spenders' orgy delegates from Illinois to the Republican convention in June was launched yesterday. B. W. Snow, Republican county chairman, was its sponsor and its avowed purpose is the "salvation of the Republican party." Fifteen candidates for national delegates in eight of the ten Cook county districts have subscribed to the program, which was put out over their signatures.

District delegates are elected at the April 12 primaries, and it is proposed to make an active campaign by platform, radio and otherwise. Delegate candidates in other Illinois districts are urged by the signers to join in.

Seek to Set Planks.

The purpose is to battle for a non-straddling plank against prohibition, and planks against bureaucracy, tax waste and government interference in business, and to support a presidential candidate whose views are along these lines. While it is anti-Hoover, the movement is not for any candidate in particular, leaving that for developments in the convention.

Similar movements are under way in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Under the Illinois primary act, candidates for delegates can no longer designate on the ballot their choice for President. Candidates friendly to Mr. Hoover are running as "uninstructed," and the sponsors of the new movement propose to "smoke out" all candidates and lay the cards face up on the table.

Propose Program of Action.

The proposed program of action in the national convention is set forth as follows:

"First—Put an end to all government activities that compete with private initiative, thus restoring that individual liberty in government and individualism in industry which our fathers established.

"Second—Move toward a balancing of budgets and eventual reduction of national taxation by wiping out unnecessary governmental activities, cutting off boards, bureaus, and commissions whose work can be dispensed with, and continued deflation of all cost of government.

Against Dry Law.

"Third—Proceed at once toward the repeal of the 18th amendment and, pending that final action, enact such legislation as will permit the manufacture of wine and beer under such regulations as will prevent the return of the open saloon.

"Fourth—We will support for presidential nomination only candidates whose records are in harmony with these declarations.

"We are not committed to any candidacy, but we stand for a national platform consistent with this program and we shall be unalterably opposed to the selection of any candidate who does not accord with such a platform."

Signed by Candidates.

It is signed by the following candidates for delegates, the numbers indicating the congressional districts in which they are running:

1. George T. Kersey and P. B. Prescott.
2. David H. Brill and Bernard W. Snow.
3. Rudolph H. Schoeppe and Jacob Ruehmann.
4. Edwin L. Kessart and Thomas J. Ryan.
6. Frederick P. Fischer and Charles Lapkoff.
7. James C. Moreland.
9. Carter Blatchford and Robert M. Adams.
10. Edgar J. Cook and Axel Lonnquist.

Several factions are represented among the signers. In addition to those subscribing, Mrs. Harriet E. Edwards of Waukegan, the only woman candidate in Illinois for district delegate, is running in the 10th district on an avowed anti-Hoover, anti-prohibition platform. In the 7th, too, William Busse, county commissioner, is reported in accord with the sentiments.

Plan to Elect Delegates.

As a matter of practical politics, the new organization aims to elect as many delegates committed to its principles as it can in the April 12 primaries, and then to storm the state convention with a view of getting through unequivocal planks on the liquor question, and on bureaucratic mushroom growth and government interference with business, and to adopt resolutions instructing the delegates at large to work for incorporation of planks in the national platform covering the principles enunciated.

The state convention elects the delegates at large, and although they are not legally bound to follow any instructions, it is pointed out they would be "morally bound."

The plan is to elect a member of the resolutions committee from Illinois committed to the program as set forth. If the resolution committee turns down liberal planks, then there would be opportunity for a strong minority report and a fight over the prohibition question right on the floor of the convention.

Expect Great Pressure.

Taken in conjunction with the recently launched movement on the part of former contributors to the Republican national campaign fund to tie up their purse strings this time unless the national convention takes a stand against prohibition, the originators of the new "Illinois idea" argue that great pressure can be applied.

In an open statement the reasons for organizing the fight over delegates is set forth as follows:

"In theory government in this country is controlled by a constitutional majority of voters. In fact, the whole pattern of our government has been so changed that it is now controlled by organized minorities.

"The result is a waste and extravagance that has bankrupted hundreds of local governments, cities, counties, and states, and now threatens to destroy the credit of the federal government, the last dyke that stands between us and a complete financial crash that will carry us all to a common ruin.

Strain on All People.

"This waste and extravagance, which is carrying all government to bankruptcy, has been accompanied by mounting taxes which have destroyed business and industry and brought the people of this country to a bitter poverty and placed a strain upon private charity never before known.

"Cost of government has mounted to heights that absorb in taxation nearly one-third of the gross income of the American people and do not leave to the family bread winner sufficient of his earnings to enable him to secure even the common necessities of life. Industry is paralyzed, business is dead, but our representatives at Washington spend their time searching for new systems of taxation to be added to a burden that has already crushed us. Taxes are being paid out of capital, and not out of income. That means financial ruin.

"No one apparently dares to assume leadership toward deflation of government costs by cutting out unnecessary and superfluous activities. The fear of entrenched bureaucracy at Washington and dread of reprisal from organized minorities paralyzes our representatives, who apparently cannot understand the present temper of an outraged and crushed people.

Must Return to Sanity.

"The national convention of the Republican party must take a stand, plain and unequivocal, for a return to government sanity at Washington. Not mere political lip service with indefinite promises, but with a definite plan for a return to constitutional government, for decreased taxes by decreasing government activities and personnel, and an honest balancing of budgets by reducing expenses, instead of by further tax exactions.

"The duty of the Republican convention is to not only frame a clear, terse, and workable program that recognizes and avoids the desperate danger that now threatens our whole government, but it must prove its sincerity by nominating candidates whose records are in harmony with its declarations."

Awarded $10 a Week

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday ordered Homer C. Thoms, 315 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, to pay $100 immediately and to make weekly payments of $10 hereafter to Mrs. Georgianna Thoms, 309 Home avenue, Oak Park, for the support of their child, Gloria, 2 years old. Mrs. Thoms has a suit for separate maintenance pending. Her husband received a $250,000 trust estate at the death of his father, Homer C. Thoms, a wealthy real estate operator.

1,439,894 VOTES ON POLL BOOKS AFTER REVISION

45 Precincts Lacking in the Total.

With revision figures from 45 precincts missing, Chicago's registered vote for the April 12 primary stands at 1,439,894, according to announcement yesterday by John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners. Perhaps 3,000 or 4,000 of these may be erased next week when the results of suspect notices mailed to the remaining precints are complete.

Last Tuesday's intermediate registration added 352,211 names to the poll books, pushing the total to 1,764,346. The revision late Saturday erased 324,452 of these names. After the books were revised in March, 1931, the registration lists totaled 1,412,135 names.

Five suburbs under the control of the Chicago election board have a total vote of 63,312; Cicero, 29,951; Berwyn, 21,549; Chicago Heights, 8,764; Evergreen Park, 745, and Summit, 2,303.

There are 3,054 precincts in the city. The following table shows the revised vote for each ward and the number of missing precincts in each:

| Ward. | Vote. | Miss-ing. | Ward. | Vote. | Miss-ing. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|

ROB GIRL HOTEL CLERK.

Two bandits who posed as prospective guests yesterday held up Miss Bertha Gorman, clerk in the Brentwood hotel, 6150 Greenwood avenue, and took $450 from her.

RETURN STOLEN $20,000 VIOLIN TO MUSICIAN

Nathan Milstein, young Russian violinist, will have his "own voice" when he appears today as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

The "voice"—his $20,000 Giuseppe Guarnerius violin—which was stolen from his room in the Congress hotel last Thursday, was returned to him last night. When the instrument, dating from 1729, was stolen, the young violinist exclaimed sadly, "It's like losing my own voice."

Secrecy guarded the return of the violin. Reports hinted that Milstein paid $1,500 reward, but these could not be confirmed.

COURTNEY TOURS N. SIDE IN RACE FOR PROSECUTOR

Calls on Voters to "Put Courage in Office."

State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic organization choice for state's attorney, toured the north side last night, reiterating his campaign slogan, "Put courage in the prosecutor's office." With him went State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett, organization candidate for state auditor, who has returned from downstate to begin his Chicago campaign.

Courtney and Barrett spoke first at 4206 Broadway, in the 47th ward, where Committeeman Frank Lyman had drawn a crowd despite the weather. Sharing the platform with Lyman and the candidates were Senator Harold Ward and Representative Pierce Shannon.

Urging the voters to forsake those candidates who are running as independents, Courtney said the "slate-breakers" had no chance to win. "Those men are not trying the help the Democratic party; they are out to prevent a party victory," he declared.

Points to His Record.

"I have been selected to run for this influential office because of my independent record in the senate," continued Courtney, who is minority leader in the upper branch of the assembly. "Six years ago I ran for the senate from a Republican [Englewood] district and was elected by a majority of 4,000 votes. That grew in the next election to 25,000.

"I fought consistently against Len Small while he was governor and when he tried to put the gasoline tax over on Chicago citizens who would have gotten nothing from it. I fought the former Republican mayor each time he came to Springfield to put something over.

"I feel now that what the state's attorney's office needs most is courage, determination, and backbone, not more laws or amendments to laws as the present prosecutor and those preceding him have declared. I'll serve notice that in my campaigns, both now and in the fall, I'll have no gangster or hoodlum support. I want those people against me. In the intermediate registration last Tuesday there were gangsters working and registered for one candidate for state's attorney. I'd much rather go down in defeat than win with those people."

Courtney also addressed meetings in the 48th and 49th wards. He spoke for the other organization candidates, paying particular tribute to Judge Henry Horner, candidate for governor.

Barrett Tells Accomplishments.

State Treasurer Barrett recited the accomplishments of his two years in office. Although state funds have been equally distributed throughout the state and the period has been one of bank failures, not one penny of the commonwealth's funds have been lost in a bank crash, he said.

"I know the causes of bank failures and I know the remedies," said Barrett. "The state auditor is more or less the 'bookkeeper' of state funds and the treasurer is their 'custodian.' The offices are directly linked. If you elect me auditor, I promise the same careful attention to banks and their operations that I have given to the care of your money. During my first month in office, I turned more than one million dollars back to the state in interest, which is hundreds of thousands more than that returned by any of my predecessors.

FLYING FORECASTS

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m., March 21, to noon, March 22:

Cleveland-New York—Snow or rain near Cleveland; warmer Tuesday forenoon in and east of mountains, risk of local thunderstorms; strong northeast backing to north and northwest winds near level and increasing northeast shifting to east and southeast becoming fresh to strong near New York up to 1,000 feet, and southwest gales at 5,000 feet.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY HEARS CAMPBELL PREDICT VICTORY

East St. Louis, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—St. Clair county Democrats staged homecoming programs for Bruce Campbell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, in ten rural towns and climaxed the demonstrations with evening celebrations at Belleville and East St. Louis.

More than 20,000 persons turned out to honor the candidate in his home county. In his evening speeches Campbell predicted his nomination on the basis of an overwhelming downstate vote, which, he asserted, will total approximately 300,000, for a new record in a Democratic primary.

Campbell spoke before 2,000 Democrats at Belleville and then addressed 3,500 here an hour later. He denounced prohibition and wastefulness and extravagance in government.

"Conservative estimates indicate the Democratic primary vote downstate will be from two to three times as large as it ever has been before and it is generally conceded that downstate I will receive more than 70 per cent of the entire Democratic vote cast," Campbell said.

Campbell declared he expects a large Cook county vote from "the voters who do not take dictation from political machines and bosses but exercise their free and independent judgment in regard to candidates."

Which AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR should I buy?

Here are VITAL FACTS to help you choose

THERE are many good automatic refrigerators in Chicago. But there is one that stands out above the others because it is in a class by itself, vitally different from any other kind. That one is—ELECTROLUX.

It is automatic, but has no machinery or moving parts. A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water do all the work. This simplicity is your best guarantee of perfect, dependable service.

It is absolutely silent, not only when you get it, but as long as you have it. There is no sound, because there is nothing to make sound.

It costs less to operate than any other refrigerator . . . 5 cents a day pays for the gas and water used.

It does not alternately stop and start. No funny noises in the kitchen, no "kerplunks" in the radio when you have Electrolux. It works all the time, in silence.

Consider these Advantages of Electrolux

Absolutely silent—no noise, ever

No machinery or moving parts

Operates for 5 cents a day

Constant, steady cold—no stopping and starting

Refrigerant hermetically sealed—needs no renewal

More than 250,000 in use today

$10 puts one in your home

Two years to pay on your gas bill

Guaranteed and serviced by your gas company

It makes constant, steady cold. There's scarcely any variation in temperature inside your Electrolux, thanks to the unique way it works.

The refrigerant is hermetically sealed, needs no renewal. The refrigerant is merely 3½ pints of ordinary, harmless ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia.

Your gas company guarantees it! Electrolux is remarkably free from trouble. But should any adjustments be necessary, they are made at once.

New low prices—new low terms. For only $10 down we will install Electrolux in your kitchen. You have 2 years to pay the balance—a small amount added each month to your gas bill—so little you'll scarcely notice it.

Why not have the comfort and convenience of an automatic refrigerator and save money as well? You can choose from a wide variety of beautiful new 1932 models at any of our showrooms. Write for full information if you wish, or just telephone Wabash 6000.

STATE CAMPAIGN RIDES INTO TOWN WITH SNOWSTORM

Brundage Camp Assails Custer 'Pay Roll' Army.

In the thick of the blizzard the state campaigning began last night to converge upon Chicago. An attack on the "statehouse crowd," the increase in governmental prodigality and the growth of the tax burden, was made by headquarters of Edward J. Brundage, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate, was kept by a cold from his scheduled invasion of the north side, while Michael L. Igoe, one of his opponents, plowed through the snowdrifts to meetings on the south side.

The onslaught of the Brundage camp followed a demand voiced by Mr. Brundage during the day for the abolition of the Illinois commerce commission and return of the control of public utilities to the municipalities. Over the signature of George H. Grear, chairman of the service men's division of the Brundage group, headquarters put out a statement which portrayed Omer N. Custer of Galesburg, Gov. Emmerson's candidate for governor, as "leader of a pay roll army."

Hits Governor's "Trough."

"Armed with the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon league," it said, "and committed to the Emmerson policies, Mr. Custer leads a vast army of pay rollers feeding at a trough provided by the governor. Four years ago Emmerson declared 'the outstanding issue is honest, economical government.'

"Elected on this platform, Emmerson has increased the ordinary state expenses by 45 millions of dollars over the enormous sums used by Len Small in his last term. This is the record of the administration which tells you that you must nominate Custer to continue its policies.

"For the last year while Custer has been chairman of the state tax commission we have found thousands of good citizens refusing to pay their taxes because they charged inequality and fraud in the assessment of property. Yet during that time Mr. Custer as head of the tax commission has offered nothing to relieve the situation.

Points to Homer Galpin.

"With this record, with the backing of the present administration and its ever increasing army of pay rollers with Homer Galpin of the old city hall gang as his campaign manager in Chicago, is it reasonable to expect that Mr. Custer will give you any relief from your taxation burden?

"The record shows Mr. Brundage is the man who first exposed Len Small and who by the interest suit he started against Small made Small disgorge $650,000 of money belonging to the state of Illinois.

"During Small's administration the number of pay rollers almost doubled. When he could not think of any other excuse for jobs he multiplied the number of game wardens until we now have a warden for nearly every duck that flies over the state."

William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, one of the leading Republican candidates for governor, spoke at Aurora.

"If the Republicans wish to win in November," he said, "they must nominate a man who can be elected. The combination of Lorimer, Small and the old city hall would make the election of Small impossible. The people will never again turn our state government over to such men."

Tells Horner Service to Vets.

Col. A. A. Sprague, addressing the United Democratic Service men's organization at the Hotel Sherman, related how Judge Horner saved hundreds of disabled veterans from being denied compensation because minor rules of the veterans' bureau were broken. He dwelt on Judge Horner's service as member of the board of morals and discipline of the bureau, the other board members being Col. Sprague and Gen. Abel Davis.

"The Horner plan which Judge Horner conceived immediately after the armistice," said Col. Sprague, "was signed to save the dependents of the slain soldiers the cost of administering the estates. This service was not accomplished by any blasts of trumpets, but was rendered quietly and effectively by Judge Horner. Neither was it the result of any repeated petitions by the veterans, their families, or friends. Judge Horner was serving these men and their people long before they realized the need for his aid."

IGOE DEFENDS HIS OPPOSITION TO KELLY BILL

Assails Assessment Change.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, asserted last night that the appointment of J. L. Jacobs as assessor and Harry Cutmore as assistant vindicated Igoe's fight in the legislature against the Kelly bill, which abolished the boards of assessors and review in Cook county.

"Some very unkind remarks have been made on the subject of my position on the so-called Kelly bill," said Mr. Igoe. "I stated at the time this bill was pending in the house that the interests desiring its enactment were the same interests which produced the Cutmore reassessment in 1928.

Criticizes Kelly Bill.

"I did not believe my prediction would be realized in such a short time, but, with the appointment of Mr. Jacobs as assessor, followed by the appointment of Mr. Cutmore, it must be apparent to all thinking persons that the interests behind the so-called Kelly bill were more interested in satisfying certain groups of tax evaders than in securing a fair, honest and equitable assessment, so that justice would be done to the small taxpayer.

"What benefit has the taxpayer derived from the Kelly bill to date, and what is in store for him under its provisions? What benefit have the school teachers, the firemen, the policemen, and the thousands of city and county employés obtained as a result of the passage of the Kelly bill? Have the widows, blind and others entitled to pensions received any benefit or advantage to date from the Kelly bill?

Calls Cutmore Responsible.

"Almost three months have passed and the tax board, as contemplated in the bill, has not been appointed. One member, Mr. Jacobs, was finally agreed upon by the mayor, the governor, and the president of the county board. Mr. Jacobs appointed Mr. Cutmore, who was responsible for the assessment that brought about the destruction of the board of assessors and the board of review, and finally culminated in the passage of the Kelly bill.

"Now we are advised that the only concrete result of the Kelly bill is a quarrel between the mayor and the governor as to the distribution of the patronage under the new assessment body if ever it is, in the course of time, appointed and functions."

NORTHUP DESCRIBES SANITARY GRAFT IN SPEECH AT AURORA

John E. Northup, Republican candidate for attorney general, last night discussed the sanitary district whoopee case which he successfully prosecuted, in an address before members of the Cosmopolitan Service club of Aurora. His auditors insisted on that topic.

"That trial disclosed an instance of waste, extravagance and graft with no parallel," Mr. Northup said. "At the trial it was shown that almost 1,000 dead heads, many of whom did not even show up at the office for their pay but had it mailed to them, were on the pay rolls. The district was a happy hunting ground for all political adventurers. Something over two and one-quarter millions of dollars was proved to have been criminally converted.

"How little the promises of candidates of office may mean will be better understood when I tell you that the men convicted had, during their campaign for election, declared that no employé who did not render full value for his pay would be carried and that the affairs of the district would be managed with the strictest economy."

Mr. Northup did not discuss the present campaign or its issues because the gathering was not of a political character.

Policeman Is Praised for Bravery in Killing Bandit

Policeman Francis O'Toole was commended by a coroner's jury yesterday for the bravery he displayed in killing one bandit and routing four others who tried to rob him Saturday night near his home at 2845 Burling street. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. The body of the bandit is lying unidentified at the county morgue. Policeman O'Tool is assigned to the traffic division and is stationed to the lower level at the Tribune Tower.

NICHOLAS SAYS QUARREL WITH CAROL IS ENDED

NICE, France, March 21.—(AP)—Prince Nicholas of Rumania said here today that he was going back home to resume his old place in the court of his brother, King Carol, from which he has been a virtual exile for love.

His statement, made when he motored into Nice at the end of an automobile road race from Paris, indicated that his quarrel with his brother, who was angered by the prince's marriage, had been patched up. But whether his bride, the former Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, would go back with him and as his wife was not disclosed.

King Carol had the records of his brother's marriage, performed by a Rumanian village mayor, seized and the court ruled that the prince was not lawfully wed. Nicholas has insisted in heated quarrels with his royal brother that he would not give the girl up.

3 Robbers Terrorize 13 in Drug Store; Get $250

Three armed men, masked, entered the Liggett drug store at 2259 Madison street Sunday night. Twelve customers in the place and Richard J. Alexander, the manager, were forced to stand in line. Two of the bandits guarded them while the third took $250 from the cash register. No attempt was made to rob the customers.

Officers Kill 2 Waiters for Refusing Them Drinks

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 21.—(AP)—Because a tavern keeper refused to sell them drinks after closing hours, Lieuts. Paul and John Petreanu were held in a military prison here today charged with killing two waiters with their sabers.

SOLDIERS HALT RIOTING BY OHIO MINE STRIKERS

Crowd Stones 2 Officers of National Guard.

Athens, O., Mar. 21.—[Special.]—Order was restored in the Hocking Valley coal mine field by national guardsmen tonight after another day of rioting, including the stoning of two officers by striking miners.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson headed a detachment of 19 guardsmen sent into the district by Gov. George White. The stoning occurred near the town of Millfield, where two captains of the national guard were en route to the Sunday Creek coal company's No. 6 mine.

Officers' Car Stoned.

A crowd of the miners stoned the officers' car, smashing the windshield and windows but not injuring the occupants. Earlier in the day 1,500 miners, some armed with shotguns, had congregated menacingly at Millfield.

Gov. White conferred with officials of the United Mine Workers today and announced they had promised their full support in preventing further disorder. The strike of 7,000 miners, which began Feb. 1 in protest against a wage cut, reached a climax early yesterday with the dynamiting of a railway trestle.

Martial Law Threatened.

The guardsmen were sent into the district as observers, but the governor's ultimatum called for a cessation of "lawlessness," under the penalty of martial law.

Operators of the No. 6 mine at Millfield and the Lick Run mine of the Hocking and Athen Coal company were asked by Gen. Henderson to keep the pits temporarily closed as a result of disorders when they were opened this morning.

Arrest 90 Strike Pickets.

Scranton, Pa., March 21.—[Special.] Ninety pickets, including some women, were arrested today as the insurgent strike of coal miners cost its first life and tied up the lower anthracite region.

Daniel Ruscitto of Kulpmont killed himself because pickets on Saturday kept him from getting a job, his first opportunity in more than a year. The pickets were arrested in North Scranton after violating police orders to stop interfering with workmen going to the Marvine mines. Another woman was arrested near the Maxwell No. 20 colliery in Ashley for distributing communistic propaganda.

Authorities today disclosed that an attempt was made on Saturday to blow up two buildings of the Du Pont Powder company at Jessup and strike sympathizers were blamed for this.

The insurgent strikers are demanding equalization of working time in all mines. Local union officials say they have no power to force operators to open mines they wish to remain idle.

Notes of the Primary Campaign

Judge Henry Horner and Michael L. Igoe, rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, are on the program for addresses at a luncheon at noon today at the City club.

Edward J. Hess, former chief assistant United States attorney, who is one of the eight Republican candidates to succeed Congressman Morton D. Hull in the Second district, has put out a three plank platform; immediate modification to return liquor control to such states as desire it; return of government to prewar budgets; get the government out of business, and keep it out.

Ned Feinberg, Republican candidate for state representative in the Twenty-fifth district, has announced his withdrawal in favor of Representative Edwin B. Bederman. His organization has also indorsed Bederman.

The secretary of state issued a charter yesterday for the formation of the Republican War Veterans' association in the Tenth Congressional district. Charles West is chairman of the directors. He says the purpose is to aid candidates who will support legislation favorable to disabled veterans. Others on the directorate are Edwin H. Felt, L. T. O'Brien, Donald L. MacWhorter, and Col. Charles J. Kraft. Headquarters are at 6519 North Ashland avenue.

Edward J. Brundage, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will address his ward and district leaders this afternoon at Hotel La Salle headquarters. Tomorrow he will speak in Waukegan, Thursday in Springfield, Friday in De Kalb, and Saturday at Oregon.

The Hedstrom-Barry company was yesterday awarded the contract for printing 685,200 country town ballots on its low bid of $5.35 a thousand. Four years ago a similar contract was let on low bids averaging $38.40, demonstrating the slash in printing expenses. The contract was 15 cents less per thousand than the $5.50 to be paid for the city ballots under the contract let last week by the board of election commissioners.

SHIFT CAPT. STEGE FROM WABASH TO DES PLAINES ST.

Capt. John Stege was transferred last night from the Wabash avenue station to the Des Plaines street station, in an order issued by Commissioner James Allman.

He trades places with Capt. Thomas Kilroy, who was shifted last Saturday night to the Des Plaines street station from his old command, the Chicago Lawn district. His transfer to the south side station came as he completed one day at the new district.

No explanation accompanied the Stege-Kilroy exchange. The Des Plaines street station is regarded as one of the toughest assignments in the city, and Capt. Stege's transfer there was considered by friends as a recognition of his ability. Stege is a former chief of detectives.

STANDARD OF Cadillac THE WORLD

V-8 12-16

You'll Always Be Glad You Bought a Cadillac or LaSalle

Now and then it is our privilege to demonstrate a Cadillac or La Salle for someone who has previously owned only lesser automobiles. And the reaction is almost invariably one of complete surprise at the vast difference in general excellence. The richness of the upholstery fabrics—the luxurious depth to the cushions and seats—the beauty of the tailoring and the fitments . . . . all are so outstanding, by comparison, that they come as a startling revelation to the customer. . . . And the difference in performance is, of course, equally pronounced.

The steadiness on the road at all speeds—the marvelous smoothness and silence of the motor and chassis—the easy and certain control under all driving conditions . . . none of these can ever be appreciated without an actual test drive at the wheel. In fact, it has been our experience that most people who have had a thorough demonstration of Cadillac-La Salle performance are never satisfied until they have a Cadillac or La Salle of their own. . . . Why not come in and learn for yourself how much more delightful it is to drive a Cadillac or La Salle?

WHAT! Gardens IN NEW YORK?

THERE are a few of them on Manhattan Island. There are tens of thousands of them dotting the landscape of Manhattan's famous suburbs.

They are owned and maintained by families who can afford to spend what it costs for a home and children and an automobile or two—and a garden. Such suburban families can buy most of the things they want as well as the things they need. Every morning forty per cent of the New York Herald Tribune's circulation goes to and is read by these very families.

That is why advertisers of Garden Products who want their share of business from this fertile territory use more space in the Herald Tribune than in any other New York newspaper.

They get results so they use it year after year. They are getting results this year—right now!

If you have a good product that sells for a few cents or for dollars, if you want customers from the richest town in the world, you can be sure of reaching its most productive portion through the New York Herald Tribune. If you have any doubt about placing this newspaper at the top of your New York list, let us give you the facts. They're interesting and you ought to have them.

10 QUICK FACTS about the New York HERALD TRIBUNE

1 – goes to people who can buy.
40% of its city and suburban circulation where average family incomes are $5,000 a year or more. 54% where they are between $2,500 and $5,000. 6% where they are below $2,500.

2 – has more circulation in New York suburbs on weekdays than any other standard-size morning newspaper.

3 – is read by more members of the New York Stock Exchange than any other morning newspaper.

4 – ranks 2nd in the United States in amount of national advertising carried.
...2nd in the United States in financial advertising. 2nd in New York City in total volume of advertising carried.
...carried more department store advertising in 1931 than in any other year in its history.

5 – numbers on its staff such famous men as Walter Lippmann, Franklin P. Adams, H. T. Webster, J. N. Darling (Ding), W. O. McGeehan.

6 – was awarded the Francis Wayland Ayer cup for typographical excellence in competition with 1,450 other American newspapers.

7 – is the only New York newspaper with a Food and Housekeeping Institute. Last year, more than 45,000 women wrote to the Herald Tribune Institute for advice or information on cooking and homemaking.

8 – contains fashion and book news seven days a week.

9 – is served by both the Associated Press and the United Press.
...maintains its own news bureaus in such cities as Washington, London, Berlin, Shanghai, and correspondents or representatives in every important city in the world.

10 – circulation is 325,432 weekdays, 459,106 Sundays. Report to A.B.C. September 30, 1931.

EVERYTHING BUT THE RED FLAG.

Congressman Hamilton Fish, although deploring the purposes of the runaway demagogues in the house of representatives who have smashed the tax program, said that he regretted Congressman Rainey's use of the word "communistic" to describe the intent of the irresponsibles. Mr. Fish headed a committee in an inquiry into soviet undertakings in the United States and agitated his mind, but apparently concluded that communism must conform to a certain pattern. If Mr. Fish cannot smell them they aren't communists.

Comrade Zack Foster may hold the intelligence of the congressional radicals in contempt, but he would not be mistaken as to what was being done merely because he did not see the red flag or hear the singing of "The Internationale." The demagogues are expropriating the capital of the country. They are taking over the resources for control by a government less qualified to use them than is Stalin's government to use the resources of Russia.

To the absorption of credit by government bond issues they propose to add an impressment of productive wealth by taxation. They not only are taking the liquid assets out of private enterprise for the undertakings of the commissars, but they are raiding the farms in excursions as destructive as the descents of the soviet expropriators upon the peasant bins. The farmers have been as much devastated by the new theories of government as the railroads have been. Both are broke, as is everything else. Nearly every private activity in the country is squirming in the clutch of some government interference with it.

When the government, by selling bonds, by levying punitive and exhausting taxes, by pyramiding its debts and increasing its expenditures and its deficits, has its hands on every dollar which can be raised in the land it will have the substance of communism, whatever the form may be called. The revolution will have taken place. The citizens will draw their rations by presenting tickets, if the government can get any food into the commissary depots, and they will earn the tickets by doing such work as the government allots to them.

Demagogy is taking supreme command of the United States when its crisis requires as the first step toward safety a deflation of the governments which are destroying the capital of the land. The tax collector is to seize the possessions of the citizen. The method is to be confiscatory, a levy upon everything which has been available for private enterprise and individual sustenance.

Such an expropriation is the last stage of communism and it doesn't help any that the American commissars haven't the intelligence of the Russian and that when they get the resources they won't have a plan.

SWARMING PARASITES.

Nearly 250 lawyers assembled the other day to file claims on behalf of clients to the estate of a woman who died leaving an estate valued at more than 100 million dollars. The woman did not die intestate. She left a will bequeathing her money to charity, but immediately there sprang up a swarm of relatives determined to break the will and appropriate or share in the grand prize. It suggests the flocking of buzzards. The claimants already number more than 1,500, and there will be more. Many live in Germany, others in Austria, others in the south. One claimant living in Germany is a first cousin, the nearest of kin thus far revealed. The next nearest, living in Mississippi, is no nearer than the fifth degree. The claim of the former is based on the allegation that she is great-granddaughter of the founder of the fortune, who was an associate of John Jacob Astor, and that he had married before he came to America, so that his later marriage in this country was bigamous. One lawyer filed claims for 400 alleged relatives in Germany, another for two in Austria, another for 48 in various places, and another a blanket petition for an indefinite number.

The whole performance is disgusting. The decedent is said to have been eccentric, and whether she was of sound and disposing mind and memory or not remains to be legally established. But, so far as the facts have transpired, none of the claimants has a scintilla of moral claim upon the estate, and they are simply scrambling for money which ought to go where the decedent willed it, to public uses. None had done anything to deserve the decedent's bounty, either in the care and conservation of the property or the performance of any service to the decedent. Most of them, in all probability, she had never even heard of.

The certain beneficiaries are the lawyers, several of whom are well known practitioners at the New York bar. We hope they are all employed on a contingent basis, and that the claimants and lawyers alike will lose time and money in a futile enterprise.

Perhaps the law should be strengthened to discourage or prevent such experiments and better protect both the right of decedents to dispose of their property, without regard to relationships having no respectable significance, and the interest of the public in gifts made to public uses. The latter interest has a sound equitable foundation in most cases, as in this one. The property value of the Wendel estate was in substantial measure created through the growth of New York to which millions have contributed. The community to be benefited by the institutions to which the estate was willed has an infinitely higher moral claim to the estate than the claimants now trying to get their hands upon it through legal technicalities or generalities.

THE FARM BOARD'S LATEST.

The secretary of agriculture has, at length, verified the report that the farm board has a plan to dispose of its surplus wheat and cotton abroad. Money which the Reconstruction Finance corporation was expected to use in loans to farmers is, instead, to be lent to foreign purchasers of our accumulated stores of wheat and cotton. The terms, presumably, are to be more favorable than can be obtained through ordinary banking channels. No doubt the intention is to give more time for payment than is ordinarily granted.

It is easy to sympathize with the farm board. Nothing it does, nothing it can do, can possibly be anything but wrong. The farm board's plight is like that of a fly on sticky paper. The more it struggles, the tighter it is caught. If the board holds its wheat it must pay storage charges amounting to millions of dollars a year and the mere physical existence of its hoard is a certain preventive of any considerable improvement in prices. On the other hand, if the board sells, the act of selling must also serve to depress prices.

The board, faced with this dilemma, ought to choose the second alternative as the less damaging and less costly all around. It ought to dispose of all of its wheat and cotton as rapidly as it can without bringing about wide open breaks in the market. Instead it apparently intends to hold enough wheat to threaten the market, but to sell some on terms which have already done as much damage as might have resulted from a frank adoption of the policy of retiring from business.

Added to its already unsound speculations, the farm board is now venturing into unsound banking. The idea of selling wheat on credits maturing months or years hence, in the certainty that the wheat will have been consumed long before the loans mature, is almost a guarantee that collections will be difficult. A restaurant owner who sold January meal tickets with the understanding that they could be paid for the following December would have difficulty in making collections. Any loose change the customer might have in December he would prefer to spend to satisfy his hunger of the moment.

Of course, the proposal to use Reconstruction funds for loans abroad may be intended merely as a means of relieving New York banks of the short term credits which now are tied up in the central European standstill agreement. Perhaps the Reconstruction cash will go to the New York banks and the Reconstruction corporation and the farm board will take on the responsibility for collecting from Europe. There is no particular reason for believing this is the intention; but to any one who has followed the course of farm board policy not even this arrangement will seem to exceed the possibilities.

THE ESSENCE OF PROHIBITION.

One of the clearest illustrations of the fanatic basis of prohibition is the provision of the Volstead act for the use of contempt procedure to deprive persons charged with offenses against that law of the right of trial by jury. It has now transpired that the Anti-Saloon league has obtained an exception in the anti-injunction law just passed so that the requirement of jury trials shall not apply to Volstead prosecutions.

Senator Norris, a dry, advised the league not to press for this exception. "Prohibition is on trial," he told the league representatives. "It has lost many of its best friends. We all have to concede that. In my judgment it has not been honestly and fairly enforced at any time since the law was enacted, and if we follow you and say we want a different rule as applied to prohibition cases from what is applied to any other case we are going to lose the support of more good people in this country who will take the other side of the question and demand the repeal of prohibition."

The warning was, of course, lost on the league representatives, but it will not be lost on the reasonable people of the nation who are waking up not only to the immediate wreckage wrought by the dry régime but also to its real nature as a produce of bigotry. Prohibition from the first has exhibited a complete disregard of the principles of the American constitution, and notably its contempt for the guaranties of our civil rights. This is its most sinister aspect and has resulted in universal lawbreaking and disrespect for law. This is the chief explanation of the failure to enforce the dry laws of which Senator Norris complains. He and other drys have not yet faced the fact that laws conceived in bigotry and defiance of civil rights can never be enforced upon a free people.

The present congress has shown its subserviency to the dry bosses by perpetuating the refusal of the right of trial by jury to citizens charged with offenses against the Volstead act. But Senator Norris is quite right in noting that prohibition has lost many of its best friends and is losing more, and there will be another congress later on.

AT APPOMATTOX.

[Boston Herald.]

At last we are in the way of erecting a fitting memorial for the event which took place at a little crossroads courthouse in Virginia on April 9, 1865. No event in our history more deserves such commemoration.

That interview between Robert E. Lee and Ulysses S. Grant is one of the pictures that never should be blurred in the memory of any American. Every detail is perfect. Nothing could have been better ordered by any master of stagecraft. Both the principal actors played their parts with the fidelity and courtesy of gentlemen, and today the vanquished leader of the confederacy is almost as much honored in the north as in the south. That was the high point in the career of Gen. Grant, and more and more the south as well as the north so regards it.

The winning design for the memorial is described as symbolizing an undivided nation and a lasting peace, with portraits of Lee and Grant on either side and suitable inscriptions, and the great seal of the United States to represent a united country.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"SOAK THE RICH!" is now the slogan of the majority in congress. Oh, well, as we used to say, "God help the rich, the poor can beg." But—congressmen—just a minute—if you make the rich pay out all their coin in taxes, who is going to put up the cash for the big political campaigns this summer? And how can Truth, Justice, and Right prevail if there's no dough to hire brass bands, open campaign headquarters, and fill the mail full of printed bologna? How can the eminent statesman view with alarm and point with pride if there's no coin to pay for his tickets on the train or gasoline for his auto? We've got to be practical and use common sense. No statesman is going to jump up and down on a platform and say the foundations of the government are crumbling if he doesn't get at least enough money to buy hotdog sandwiches and coffee now and then. And take the sovereign voter who has been getting two bucks every time he rallied to the support of his country in its hour of peril. Already the news has gone around that there's been a wage cut of twenty-five per cent. That's bad enough, but suppose there's no money going around to give him even his buck and a half? What to do? Go ahead, congress, soak the rich and see if we care. But who's going to put up the coin for the campaign? Huh?

AS USUAL.

I thought somehow this time it would be different—
What made me believe the dreams deep in your eyes?
I should have known . . . I've loitered there so often . . .
There is no joy that lasts in Paradise.

But I forgot. Your smile was gay and tender,
Your voice low-toned, your arms close-pressing, strong;
I did not pause to think that I should suffer
Because I trod enchanted ground too long.

We burned the candle, both ends glowing brightly.
We wounded it with flame . . . two hearts grown numb
Care little if the spring brings sweeter starlight.
I loved you so . . . I wish you hadn't come!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

THE PAPERS exult over Mr. Hoover's walking home from church last Sunday as launching a new thrift campaign. Yes, and if and when we walked home from church the committee would be waiting on our front steps with accusations of hoarding seven cents. Or the Amalgamated Association of Taxi Drivers would say we held out on 'em and prevented their buying groceries and paying the butcher. Honestly, these days Mister Average Citizen just doesn't know what to do.

AND NOW THE SCIENTISTS SAY they can coat the outer surface of steel with felt, woolen, silk, or almost any other fabric. Oh joy! We will hasten to get our spring suit of nice steel lined cloth and a classy hat which will look like the latest thing in nobby felts, but underneath will be good hard steel. Then when a bandit bashes us on the head or shoots at us with his wicked gat we will simply laugh "ha ha" and gallop happily away.

OH, YES, INDEED! We wish above all things to be fair, and, as they say out in Loz Onglaize under similar circumstances, "It snowed; we admit it." Yes, sir, we'll have to admit it snowed in Chicago yesterday. Of course, we could deny it, but we're not that way. Proud as we are of our lovely climate since it changed a few years ago, we will always be the first to admit it when the weather becomes a wee bit, a tiny wee bit, capricious. And it did snow a little yesterday. We admit it. We distinctly saw flakes of snow on our new orange trees and on our rose bushes blossoming so gorgeously in our front yards. However, snow is so much a rarity in this region of late years that we really enjoyed it. It was so quaint to see the frolicsome snowflakes dancing and skipping in the air. Oh, tres jolli! And, anyhow, if we had nothing all winter long but sunshine, blue skies, balmy breezes, green grass, and flowers we might become just a bit fed up on those things. Life needs contrasts. So a delightful snowfall only makes us exclaim with greater fervor than ever, What a climate! What a climate!

(Loz Onglaize papers please copy.)

THAT MUCH TALKED OF STOCKADE to hold thousands of sun bathers up in Rogers Park might be a very good idea if the taxes are going to take all our money so that we can't buy any more clothes. Down in the Tennessee hills if some of the natives think they don't own enough clothes to put on when company comes they go over to the thick woods or crawl under the barn until the visitors depart. But we haven't got any thick woods around Chicago and practically no barns, so a stockade might not be such a bad idea after all.

PRINCE OF JESTERS.

He flouted critics wearing self-made crowns,
The English bard's and Scotch reviewer's ire,
While his derision capered to their frowns,
His jibing flicked them with its blistering fire;

Mocking the pedants in their pompous court
A feather-ball of wit his fearsome tool,
Immune to danger from malign report
He fared . . . a proud disdaining poet-fool.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

LET 'EM SAY what they will but things are getting back to normalcy. The Prince of Wales has fallen off his horse again; William Zack has been nominated by the communists for President of these United States; Brazil has another revolution. It takes time, but inch by inch we're getting back to yesterday.

AND WE'RE STILL WAITING to hear of one single bureaucrat down in Washington being forcibly separated from the government pay roll. And we wait and wait and wait! And we'll keep right on waiting and waiting and waiting! And waiting!

SHEDDING FINGER NAILS.

THE nails are produced by skin tissues located in what is called the root area. They are nothing more than skin, modified in certain ways, in order to serve certain purposes. At the time they emerge from under the skin the nail structure is complete. Nothing thereafter is added or subtracted except for the ordinary training of the free end. Ridging in different directions is already proceeding according to pattern when the hard structure comes into view. If there be any exception it is in the appearance of white spots, though most of these move from backstage with the growing nail.

One practical lesson to be drawn from these facts is the danger that lies in too much manicuring. Pushing back the cuticle and trimming and handling around the root area are liable to result in abnormalities of the nails.

In the light of these facts it is not easy to understand just why the nail should be attached to a bed from its root to its free edge. That the bed serves to hold the nail in place and to prevent it from acting as a foreign body is one purpose, but scarcely requires the nail bed to have as much blood supply and as close connection with the nail as there is.

However, the connection is not difficult to break. In injuries to the fingers the nails may be torn loose. If the finger tips are pinched, as by a door, the nails are very apt to loosen eventually and to come away, even though at the time of accident the injury did not appear to have been of any moment.

In certain trades something in relation to the work is responsible for the appearance of brown spots under the nails, followed by rather rapid loosening and eventual shedding. Dr. H. J. Templeton reports a series of people who lost their nails as a result of washing catsup bottles. Not long after taking up this work brown spots under the nails were noted. Shortly afterward the nail was rapidly loosed from its bed and, before long, it came away. If the work were changed new and normal nails came back. The injury was to the nail bed and the nail root was spared. Dr. Templeton was not able to decide just what there was about washing catsup bottles that did the harm.

HOW TO REDUCE.

L. M. B. writes: I am a woman of 65 years, height 5 feet 5 inches in stocking feet. I weigh 175 pounds, sometimes a little less, and other times a little more. Is there any safe way to reduce?

REPLY.

Your proper weight is about 130 pounds. You are much overweight. You have a choice of several safe ways to reduce. Whichever one you choose, reduce slowly and persistently. Your schedule should call for a reduction down to normal in about three years and at the end of that time you should have adopted new foods and new eating habits, and have no desire to go back to the old schedule. Unless you can carry through, why start?

INFECTION USUAL CAUSE.

M. B. writes: What is pyelitis, its cause, and cure?

REPLY.

Inflammation of the pelvis of the kidney. It is caused by infection of some sort. The most frequent infecting cause is the colon bacillus. Other cases are caused by infection with tubercle bacilli or some of the pus cocci. Stone is present in some cases. It may be either a cause or an effect. Some cases are cured by internal medication, some by injections into the pelvis of the kidney, some by operation.

PLAY WOULD BE BETTER.

M. C. writes: My two year old child is continually after some one to read to him, whether from a newspaper or a book. He memorizes verses after a couple of readings. He gets plenty of sleep and has a good appetite, but I have been warned about reading to him as often as he wants.

REPLY.

Play with other children would supply your child with better and more natural education facilities. Children who have no one to learn from except adults and nothing to learn from except books find adjustment difficult.

TREATING GOITER.

H. M. C. A. writes: About a year and a half ago I was operated on for exophthalmic goiter. It has made my eyes very big and there is always a stare. Do you think this condition will clear up? I am 18½ years old, 5 feet 5 inches, and weigh 160 pounds.

REPLY.

Some cases of goiter of this type are benefited by taking iodine in pretty fair doses. Your physician will know about that. Putting on weight is pretty good evidence that you do not need to have any more of your thyroid removed.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

SAFETY ISLANDS.

Chicago, March 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you inform me whether or not safety islands will be erected on Western avenue at Madison street? At present it is very dangerous waiting for or trying to catch a street car as there are no safety zones or similar protection for passengers. The traffic at this intersection is very heavy during the rush hours, and since Western avenue has been widened many persons have been endangered while waiting for street cars.

N. C. S.

Western avenue at Madison street is included in our contemplated program for the installation of safety islands in 1932, for which appropriation has been requested.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

LIMITATION FIVE YEARS.

Chicago, March 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About ten or twelve years ago, while living with my first husband, I bought milk from a small dealer and always paid him. I owed him a bill of about $22 when I secured a divorce from my husband and moved away without paying. I could not pay because I had no work. Now I am married again and the milk dealer found out where I live and demands that I pay the bill. Am I responsible after such a lapse of time?

R. Z.

The limitation period on oral agreements is five years from the last payment or promise to pay. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MOTOR CARRIERS.

Chicago, March 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently the question arose about freight rates for interstate transportation. I would like to know if the rates are governed by any commission. If so, what commission is it? Is it governed by the interstate commerce commission, same as railroads? R. E. H.

Sec. 1 of the interstate commerce act provides: "The provisions of this chapter shall apply to common carriers engaged in [a] the transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad, or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment; or [b] the transportation of oil or other commodity, except water and except natural or artificial gas, by pipe line, or partly by pipe line and partly by railroad or by water; or [c] the transmission of intelligence by wire or wireless from one state or territory of the United States, or the District of Columbia, to any other state."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A dispatch from Wiju says the Japanese were ferried over the Yalu river at daybreak on Oct. 24. Chinese earthworks had been thrown up to oppose a landing of the Japanese force, but a slight deviation enabled the Japanese to cross the river and land without opposition. The Chinese fled after the first few rounds were fired at them. The Japanese captured the works with a rush. The Chinese fled to batteries that had been constructed lower down the river. The advanced detachment of the Japanese now holds the Sukowchin ferry to guard the passage of the Japanese main body.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25.—An official telegram reports that a battle took place on Oct. 24 between the Chinese and Japanese on the Chinese side of the Yalu river. The fighting was proceeding when the message was dispatched. It is reported the Chinese have evacuated Port Arthur.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 25.—It is asserted here that the army corps under Field Marshal Count Oyama has effected a landing at Selkiosso, near Port Arthur. It is also again asserted that the Japanese army under Field Marshal Yamagata has crossed successfully the Yalu river and entered Manchuria. If the Japanese have been so uniformly successful in their operations against the Chinese as reports indicate, it is difficult to understand how they have so many of their soldiers wounded and already sent to the rear. It is figured that 8,000 wounded already are known to be at Chemulpo and it is presumed the wounded in the Yalu river battles have not been sent back yet.

Tokio hears from Newchwang that the Japanese crossed Tatung pass 40 miles from Haicheng and that collisions occurred with the Russians. The dispatch adds that the Japanese by this fighting have paved the way for an advance on Muetineing, now held by the Russians. Several trainloads of Russian wounded are reported to have passed Tashichiao going to Llaoyang.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Official dispatches received from Mukden dated March 20 contain no reference to Port Arthur—at least the reports given to the public contain nothing about that port.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 22, 1916.

COLUMBUS, N. M.—Two lieutenants of the first aero squadron are lost somewhere in the desert foothills of the Sierra Madre mountains, with only three days' rations and two small canteens of water between them and starvation, it was officially made known at military headquarters. Lieut. Robert H. Willis and Lieut. Edgar S. Gorrell are the missing men.

CASAS GRANDES, Mexico—With the tightening of the cordon around Pancho Villa to the south a report reached Gen. Pershing that the bandits had attempted to break the circle of steel at Namiquipa, but were driven back into a trap by the Carranza force under Gen. Luis Herrera. Reports from native spies and from Mormon scouts are that the Villa band is in sore need of horses and that the bandit chief has dispatched Gens. Bracamontes and Servantes on raids to get some. Gen. Pershing is in constant communication with the three units of the American troops, all of whom are strong for the honor of the first contact with the bandit force.

WASHINGTON.—Troops making up the Fifth cavalry regiment, stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and the Twenty-fourth infantry, stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., were ordered to entrain for Mexican duty. The famous "Fighting Fifth" will leave for the Mexican border today.

LONDON.—The Germans, who yesterday and last night stormed certain points in the vicinity of Verdun, appeared to have exhausted themselves today. The Paris official report says that while artillery actions were heavy the Teuton infantry remained under cover and appeared satisfied to hold the ground so dearly earned. The French report admits the claim of Berlin that gains were made on the west bank of the Meuse during yesterday's fighting, but, it is asserted, at enormously heavy cost. On the other hand, Berlin says the French lost more than 2,500 unwounded prisoners and much booty.

MARCH 22, 1904.

TOKIO.—A Tokio paper publishes the report to the effect that a Japanese division landed on the Liaotung peninsula on March 19 and engaged the Russian troops in the rear of Port Arthur. Simultaneously the Japanese fleet bombarded the town and harbor. The action began at 6 o'clock on the evening of March 19 and continued until 10 o'clock next morning. Sixteen ships were engaged in the attack and the result is reported to have been the occupation of Port Arthur by the Japanese. No further details are given and the report remains so far unconfirmed.

ABOUT BANKS.

Chicago, March. 13.—Every few days, first one person and then another writes to the newspapers condemning banks. The newspapers print many of these communications. It is quite evident that some of these people have no understanding of what a bank is and do not comprehend its limitations.

Therefore it seems only fair to let a bank employé have a little space to explain. A bank is not a fairy godmother supplied with countless riches which it could use, if it would, to relieve a suffering world. On the contrary, a bank is merely a financial warehouse where the money of its depositors is stored up [a part always in invested form], and which the bank undertakes to repay upon demand. If all of a bank's depositors should ask for their deposits in cash on one day or in one month, the bank could not meet the demand and would close its doors. No bank that exists or ever has existed could pay out in money all its deposits in a few days. Many people seem to think it could.

The reason no bank can do that is that in order to function it has to invest its deposits in some form of interest bearing investments. It may be in loans to patrons who wish to borrow and pledge as security some form of valuable collateral in excess of the loan sought. They may be government bonds, first mortgage bonds, any of the high class bonds of many kinds which are always to be had. It may be that it invests a considerable proportion of its deposits in any of the securities which it seems safe to accept as collateral. The kinds of investments which a bank may safely purchase vary with the seasons, with the years, and with the location of the bank.

In normal times there is always a market for a bank's investments. If deposits drop it can sell, as they rise it can buy. In abnormal times what then? We have just been through such an experience. Never in the history of banking in this country were there such large withdrawals made suddenly and in most cases without cause as in the year 1931. This unexpected and unforeseeable situation compelled all banks to contract their loans, and in most of them to collect as much as fifty or sixty per cent of all their outstanding loans. The banks could do only one thing when faced with rapidly disappearing deposits. That was to compel its debtors to pay by selling the securities pledged when the loans were made. The result was that countless millions of good stocks and bonds were thrown upon a falling market, and because of the immense volume of sales the owners had to submit to tremendous losses. Was it the fault of the banks? They had no choice; loans must be collected or the bank must close.

The depositor who was scared into withdrawing his cash and hiding it away in some secret place or in a safe deposit vault box was at fault. The immense sums thus taken out of circulation can be better understood when it is safe to say all outlying banks lost from one-half to two-thirds of all their deposits within a few months. The lessened deposits in the loop banks were measured by two millions. Scores of banks well and honestly managed closed their doors because they could not convert their investments into cash as fast as their public made demands on them. The remarkable thing is not that so many banks discontinued business, but that so many have remained conducting their business as usual. By and large our banking system is well and capably managed. When the banking world gets back to normal it will be shown that the percentage of losses to bank depositors is only a small percentage of total deposits. A bank deposit has been far safer than any other form of investment in these times. Ask the stock buyers and real estate investors as to their percentage of loss!

We have come to the turn in the road and nothing will hasten the realization of good times so much as the redepositing in the surviving banks of the money withdrawn. Delay in doing this will only prolong and intensify the depression. Good times or bad right now is up to the hoarder. Any bank which has lived through this last 12 months is a good bank. A BANK EMPLOYE.

THE TOP OF THE MORNING AFTER.

Chicago, March 18.—Mercifully another St. Patrick's day has passed into oblivion. Now we'll have a year's peace. For a twelvemonth we won't have to listen to witticisms about green ties, orange ties, harps, pigs, bricks, and shillelahs. From now until next March's upheaval no more gigantic shamrocks made in Japan, no cards showing yahoos in green breeches and idiotic colleens (save the mark!) in shawls. Wild Irish roses will bloom less frequently. Lachrymose Mother Machree has bawled herself dry, and even now is on her way to replenish her tear ducts where the saccharine Shannon oozes down to the sea. Killarney's lakes, the Blarney stone, all the moth eaten properties of the American-Irish saturnalia of slush have gone into storage. Deo gratias!

Only one memory is likely to linger with us a while—the gracious bit of backslapping conferred on us by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Mr. Hoover's lefthanded sop to the Micks. For this honor we—the Irish Irish—are indebted to the Irish Fellowship club—breathe its name ever so reverently! In grateful mood, let us not forget a genuflection to that patrician scion of Irish royalty, Joseph P. Savage, president of the Fellowship club and trustee of the board of education. All honor and homage to a man who, though immersed day and night in the heroic job of guarding the peepul's pocketbook, can find a little time to do something "for the glory of God and the honor of Erin."

IRISH.

ISN'T THAT NOW!

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The only thing that the vote in congress showed was that the wets are gaining some. Every congressman votes as his home district would vote. The majority of districts would go dry by a large number. Many of the voters would be so drunk they could hardly read the ballot, yet they would vote dry. A Carolina legislator said: "If every one of you that has had a drink with me will vote for this bill it will carry." The bill was defeated. Drinking and voting are two different matters with quite a few people.

What are you going to do about it? You can't take away their right to drink and their right to vote. It will not change until taxes burn us up.

GEORGE FRYHOFER.

MONEY FOR ROADS.

Peoria, Ill., March 16.—Gov. Emmerson's road commission, appointed to find new places to build roads so as to use up the accumulations of the vehicle license fees and the gas tax money, appears to have no difficulty in arousing the farmers to press their demands for some 4,010 miles of new country roads, to cost some $140,000,000. This is not surprising when the personnel and habitat of the senate members of this commission is considered. It ranges from Savoy, Pana, Iuka, and Congerville to Scioto Mills. Yes—in case you do not know it—all of these points are in Illinois—somewhere. H. S. W.

EXERCISE IN DICHOTOMY.

Evanston, Ill., March 18.—In your market reports and in today's editorial you say that the failure of the wets in congress to pass a repeal bill broke the grain market, yet you say the wets are jubilant over their showing. Was the wet vote less than expected by the grain men? How could the same vote be a victory for the wets, yet be such a disappointment as to crash the markets? Was it the strength of the wets that broke the market? JOHN A. SCOTT,
Department of Classical Languages, Northwestern university.

GO AHEAD.

Chicago, March 15.—What about all the vacant lots? Why not spade the tin cans under and sow in grass seed?

GRADE SCHOOLS GET THEIR SHARE OF SPORT GOODS

First Aid Supplies Also Add to Expense.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A sizable sum is spent by the board of education for athletic equipment and supplies in the elementary schools as well as in the high schools. The total amounts of supplies purchased and distributed, under the title of "physical education supplies" last year, may be summarized in dollars as follows:

| School. | Supplies. | First aid. | Totals. |
|---|---|---|---|
| High schools. | $31,338.17 | $2,972.95 | $34,311.12 |
| Elementary schools .. | 14,635.52 | 1,852.60 | 16,488.12 |
| Totals .... | $45,973.69 | $4,825.55 | $50,799.24 |

Trustee William D. McJunkin has asked that the school board eliminate the expenditure of a similar sum for physical education supplies as a method of reducing school expense. The board has a budget of $90,180,263, while the most optimistic tax expert has said that it cannot reasonably expect more than $55,000,000 in tax income.

Trustee Walter H. Brandenburg sometime ago held up the purchase of athletic supplies, but later the board decided to go ahead with these expenditures.

In the list of physical education supplies for the elementary schools last year are found 787 referees' whistles, 438 tape lines, 28,380 safety pins, 781 pairs of scissors and 542 jars of vaseline. The number of each article purchased and distributed together with the cost is shown in the following list:

| Scissors | 781 | 194.60 |
| Tweezers | 218 | 34.08 |
| First aid manual | 72 | 16.72 |

By the board's record it appears that more than a dollar expenditure for first aid supplies is required for every $10 spent for athletic goods.

SEVEN BERWYN SCHOOLS OPEN; WARRANTS SOLD

The seven elementary schools in District 100, comprising the south portion of Berwyn, reopened their doors, closed March 11 for lack of funds, yesterday as the result of partial success in a drive to sell tax warrants to citizens.

Attorney Otto A. Jarubek headed a citizens' committee which sold $35,000 worth of warrants, and which will continue its efforts during the next two weeks. The funds already obtained are only sufficient to meet teachers' salaries for January and February, as yet unpaid, but by paying the teachers half in tax warrants and half in cash it is planned to stretch the money out for March and April also.

Ask 20 Per Cent Pay Cut for Waukegan H. S. Staff

Members of the teachers' committee of the Waukegan Township High school announced last night that they will recommend an average reduction of 20 per cent in teachers' salaries at a meeting of the board to be held this afternoon. The proposed cut is designed to save approximately $53,000 a year and is more drastic in the upper salary brackets. If adopted it will become effective next September. A similar reduction in salaries for elementary teachers was made by the board of the elementary schools last week.

Field's to Accept School Warrants on Due Accounts

Marshall Field & Co. announced yesterday 1931 tax warrants from school teachers would be accepted in payment of past due store accounts, and that if there are any small balances due the teachers after payment of the accounts these will be accepted as credit on future purchases. The total amount of tax warrants accepted will be governed by the sum which the company can use in payment of its 1931 taxes, it was announced.

CERMAK OUSTS EXPERT IN DRIVE ON TAX STRIKERS

Hopes to Get Funds for Pay Rolls.

Attorney Allan T. Gilbert, president of the Hamilton club, lost his post as a $100 a day special attorney for the city in connection with transit and subway work yesterday as a result of Mayor Cermak's campaign against tax strikers.

The mayor ordered Gilbert's name stricken from the city pay rolls when he learned that he and his law partners represent the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers.

"His position is absolutely inconsistent," said Mayor Cermak. "Here we find him over in this building saying, 'Give me $100 a day,' and over there he says, 'Don't pay your taxes.' As soon as we get rid of all our experts we will be better off. I'm opposed to them all. To my knowledge none has been hired since I became mayor."

Gilbert Out of City.

Attorney Gilbert is out of the city. At his office it was said that he has not appeared personally for the taxpayers' association.

Mayor Cermak continued his discussion of tax strikers in making known that he has hopes of obtaining funds soon to furnish two weeks' pay to all employés of the city and school board.

"Because of negotiations we are carrying on now," he said, "I hope before the week is over to pay two weeks' salary, and once we start to pay to continue.

"If we stop this tax strike, and it must be stopped at any cost, then, with the public paying taxes, banks will buy warrants and we can pay the employés. The public must pay its taxes eventually. It might as well pay them now."

Bogan Calls Meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Bogan called a meeting of his assistant superintendents yesterday to consider another project for financial relief of the school teachers. This was the suggestion, made at the recent meeting of the National Education association, that as a matter of common professional interest teachers throughout the country make loans, on suitable security, to Chicago school teachers.

Leaders of New York teachers' organizations followed up this suggestion yesterday in a communication which asked about the situation in Chicago. The matter was referred to a committee headed by Assistant Superintendent Rose Pesta, which will meet today.

"There are two questions to be settled," said Supt. Bogan. "Do the teachers want such loans? And is there any practicable plan of arranging them?"

The "moral and sympathetic support" of the New York city teachers' union was assured Chicago school teachers yesterday in a letter which Dr. Henry R. Linville, president of the union, sent to Mrs. Florence Curtis Hanson, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Teachers, which has its headquarters in Chicago.

Exclude Interest Issue.

The question of whether the school board shall pay interest on back salaries was excluded by stipulation yesterday from the school scrip case on hearing before Master in Chancery John C. Lewe.

Mr. Lewe's recommendations, to be presented Friday to Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan, will cover only the legality of the school board's proposal to exchange 1931 tax warrants for the scrip which it issued last summer. The Chicago Teachers' federation is opposing the exchange.

CORRECTION BY MAYOR

Mayor Cermak corrected a statement which he had given out Saturday listing certain property owners whom he said still owe money on their 1929 real estate taxes. James F. Porter of Winnetka was one of those mentioned in the list.

"I find on investigation," said the mayor, "that Mr. Porter owns many pieces of loop property and that on all such pieces of property on which he is required to pay the taxes the 1929 taxes are paid.

"His payment of taxes for which he was assessed should set a good example for other large taxpayers, and I regret any injustice that may have been done him."

SHE REDUCES AND LOSES HUSBAND'S LOVE, WIFE SAYS

Mrs. Mary Ell, 28 years ago, 2651 Augusta street, yesterday asserted that her husband's ideal of womanly beauty tends toward avoirdupois. She charged that because she reduced to 140 pounds his love for her had cooled and that he had fallen under the spell of a St. Louis, Mo., woman who weighs 200 pounds.

Her allegations were contained in her bill for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole. Soon after her husband, Joseph, a baker of 935 North Leavitt street, came to the United States from Poland, where she married him in 1922 while she was an actress, she followed him, Mrs. Ell says. During the interval of their separation, the bill recites, she reduced 40 pounds and her husband's affection immediately waned. Mrs. Ell asks the custody of her 7 year old daughter, Evelyn, and an injunction to restrain him from concealing his bank account.

ESTONIA DROPS POLITICAL FEUDS; FIGHTS SLUMP

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Estonia, March 21.—Estonia has proved her right to exist as an independent state and the democratic form of government has been found to be a success in this small Baltic country, with a population of 1,300,000.

This is the comment of the Estonian press in the announcement that in the approaching parliamentary elections in May only three parties will present lists of candidates to the electorate. A few years ago fifteen political parties handicapped Estonia. A few weeks ago the remaining seven parties began negotiations and now the party system has been adopted.

The next Estonian parliament will contain a right party consisting of the Old Farmers and the New Farmers parties, a center party composed of the Nationalists, Christian Democrats, and Workers groups, and a left party—the Socialists. At the present the right party has 38 votes in parliament, the center 23, and the Socialists 25. The remaining delegates represent minority groups — Germans, Russians, and Swedes.

Groups Discard Differences.

"Political groups are forgetting their differences in order to help the nation through the present depression," the newspaper, Waba Maa, says. "Instead of party patriotism we have shown we are national patriots. We hope that the fact that our politicians have been able to agree among themselves will be noticed by our ally, Latvia."

[Of the 100 delegates in the Latvian parliament there are 26 political parties.]

The Estonians have also decided to make wide reforms in their constitution, which will be submitted to a national referendum in May. The special parliament commission which has been studying foreign constitutions has paid particular attention to that of the United States, and the changes, if adopted, will give Estonia a form of government closely resembling the latter.

Propose a President.

The new project cuts the number of delegates to parliament from 100 to 80 and lengthens their terms from three to four years. Instead of calling the chief of state the "state's oldest" he will be called the president and will be elected to a term of five years. He will have the power to dismiss parliament and call new elections.

Both he and parliament will be elected by direct, general, equal, and secret voting. The president must be more than 40 years of age. He is empowered to appoint diplomatic representatives abroad, accepts credentials of foreign diplomats, can conclude treaties with foreign states, and can declare war on the decisions of parliament.

In times of peace he is the commander in chief of the army, but in time of war he appoints the commander. If accepted at the referendum the new constitution will become effective 150 days after the election, during which period the present parliament must pass the necessary laws. The elections of the new president will be held 100 days after the constitution is adopted.

LAND OF CZECHS HUNTS CASH TO SUPPORT JOBLESS

Country Hard Hit; More than 500,000 Idle.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, March 21.—Richest of all central European countries, with its great mineral resources and a well organized industrial system taken over from the Hapsburg monarchy, Czecho-Slovakia has at last succumbed to the crisis.

It is the last of European countries to fall, but trade figures made public today show that as in Europe and America it has been falling fast throughout the last twelve months but did not know it or would not admit it. Publication of figures for 1931 jolted and jarred the country.

They showed that Czecho-Slovakia's foreign trade dropped 25.9 per cent, though a favorable trade balance was maintained. In the first ten months of the past year alone foreign trade was down by seven billion crowns.

[A gold crown is worth about 3 cents par value.]

500,000 "On the Dole."

Unemployment, almost unknown to this booming state, has jumped by leaps and bounds. At the end of December, 480,700 jobless men and women were o nthe dole. The number has since passed the half million mark and by the end of March it is expected to be up to 700,000. Where the money is coming from to maintain the unemployed is a perplexing problem, according to Czech cabinet ministers.

In reality most of it will come from France. The finance minister has introduced a bill in parliament asking the right to open credits up to a billion crowns. Without waiting for parliamentary approval he completed in January a deal in Paris whereby France will loan Czecho-Slovakia 600,000,000 francs, or about 800,000,000 Czech crowns. A large part of this must be used in covering the deficit of 1931 which will amount to over 600,000,000 crowns. A small portion of it will be advanced to ailing industry.

On just what terms the French loan was granted, none here will say, but there is sufficient evidence that the conditions were strict and that Czecho-Slovakia as a result is bound closer to France than ever. For one thing, coming as it did on the eve of the dasarmament conference, it obligated the Prague government to lend its full support to the French security thesis at Geneva.

French Terms Stiff.

When Czecho-Slovakia first approached France in December for a loan, the terms laid down were so stiff that the governor of the Czech National bank, M. Pospisil, told the French they could keep their money and returned in a huff to Prague. All Czech newspapers which reported this incident were promptly confiscated under a medieval law against "incitement to panic."

The Czechs, in fact, are as sensitive about these things as the most backward Balkan country. Some time later, when some members of the budget committee had some harsh things to say about becoming "enslaved to France" through further loans, the finance minister compelled the state's attorney to confiscate the reports of the committee debate.

As if the general depression were not enough, the sudden abandonment by England of free trade dealt the finishing knockout blow to Czech business. Great Britain was one of Czecho-Slovakia's best customers. Over a billion crowns of goods a year were sold through London. The tariff promises to practically kill this trade, and there is no market in sight to replace it.

Look it up in the Britannica . . . the key to knowledge

WALTER DILL SCOTT,
PRESIDENT
Northwestern University

"No man can know everything; but everyone should know where to turn for facts on any subject.

"I do not believe there is a better central source of authoritative information than the Encyclopaedia Britannica. In my opinion it should be the first set of books, next to the Bible, in any home or library.

"However, owning it is not sufficient. 'Look it up in the Britannica' is a habit that should be acquired, for that is the key to knowledge of all time."

Ask 3500 authorities about anything you want to know

Think of sitting in your easy chair and asking Henry Ford about mass production—or listening to Andrew Mellon discuss finance—or having Deems Taylor tell you about music—or letting Einstein explain space time—or hearing Commander Byrd tell the deathless story of Peary's discovery of the North Pole. Imagine 3,500 such authorities at your call to tell you anything you want to know, anytime!

That is what the new 14th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica brings to your home or office. No other book or group of books on earth called within its covers such an array of talent, of brains, of knowledge.

World's most important 24 volumes

If you tried to assemble a library to duplicate the 24 volumes of the Britannica you would have to buy over 500 volumes, spend more than $1,200. Even then you would not duplicate the authority, the wealth of illustrations, the beautiful color prints, the ease of reference, of the Britannica.

It is a complete world history. It is an Atlas. It is a library of biographies. It is a shelf of books on art, another on science, another on commerce. It contains 50,000 articles encompassing all human knowledge.

This great book bargain costs no more than two novels a month

Through Henry Ford's own method, mass production, this great work now can be sold at our amazingly low price. It is maybe hard to believe that the 24 volumes, printed on fine opaque paper, handsomely bound, can be sold for so little.

Only $5 down and $5 a month—what you might spend for two short lived novels a month—will make this magnificent, imperishable work your own.

Almost everyone can afford $5 a month. None need be deprived of the delight, the help, the pride of owning the new 14th edition of the Britannica.

Mail the coupon for free booklet

This advertisement has only skimmed the surface. It hasn't begun to tell you about the new Britannica. You may have a 62-page booklet that describes it more fully, that shows many specimen pages of its beautiful color illustrations, that enumerates its contents, that pictures its eminent contributors . . . you may have this booklet without cost if you will mail this coupon today.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Chinese Retreat in Good Order

SAYS U. S. COIN HELPS FARMERS PLEAD POVERTY

'Propaganda Machine' of Board Hit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Charges that the federal farm board's "propaganda machine" taught farmers to write congress "on rough paper with a lead pencil" as a poverty plea were made today by Dameron H. Williams, Gastonia, N. C., before the senatorial agricultural committee considering the Borah and Gore bills to limit the salaries of cooperative executives to $15,000 a year.

Mrs. Williams, a former president of the American Cotton Shippers' association, took exception to the recent statements of U. Benton Blalock, president of the American cotton cooperatives, that the cotton shippers' association had a $100,000 fund with which to fight the coöperatives.

Denying the existence of any such fund, Mr. Williams insisted the shoe was on the other foot, that the cotton coöperatives, with a United States treasury subsidy, had the propaganda machine. He referred to an attack upon his organization by Mr. Blalock which he said had been prepared for release by the farm board press division with a salary list of $36,560, and had been mimeographed by the duplicating section with a salary list of $25,520.

He explained his organization's support of the salary cut bills as follows: "Salaries not from income or profit but which come in greater part from the United States treasury are a matter of vital interest to us as competitors who receive no such contributions and who, on the contrary, pay the tax money into the United States treasury while the coöperatives are tax exempt."

TWO ARE HELD AS THIEVES WHO SMASH WINDOWS

Two alleged members of the gang of window smashing store burglars who have eluded police squad cars since November were booked on two charges of robbery yesterday. The prisoners are Mike Detente and Paul Bataglia.

Mrs. Hanna Schultz, owner of the Austin Dress shop at 5624 Chicago avenue, and Miss Rebecca Doering, an employé, identified the pair at the detective bureau as the men who held them up on March 3. The loot taken from the shop was $153 in cash and dresses valued at $1,500. Detente, it is charged, carried armloads of dresses to an automobile while Bataglia guarded the women.

When the police arrested Detente a few days ago in his flat at 2117 Jackson boulevard, they found a shotgun and two pistols under his mattress. There was also a brown overcoat which has been identified as one that was stolen in a window smashing burglary at 414 South Halsted street recently.

WM. L. CORRIS, COURT REPORTER, IS DEAD IN WEST

William L. Corris, head of a court reporting agency, died suddenly yesterday at his winter home in Los Angeles, according to word received at his office yesterday. A heart attack followed an operation which he underwent two weeks ago.

Mr. Corris was well known throughout Illinois. His concern handled much of the court reporting for city, county and state offices. He was popular with many political factions and many judges were particularly friendly to him. He began his stenographic career in Cleveland. The first political speech he reported was one by Mark Hanna.

Mrs. Florence Corris, his wife, a sister, and Mrs. Corris' mother were with him when he died.

CAROLINE BROWN, WOMAN'S CLUB FOUNDER, IS DEAD

Mrs. Caroline M. Brown, founder and first president of the Chicago Woman's club, died on March 9 in Charlottesville, Va., it was learned here yesterday by members of the club. Mrs. Brown was 96 years old and for the last several years had made her home with her son, Kenneth, in Charlottesville.

Recognizing the possibilities for service for an organized group of women in the problems incident to the reconstruction of the city following the Chicago fire, Mrs. Brown on Feb. 17, 1876, called together in her home a group of her friends. The announced purpose of the meeting was "to form a society or club for the purpose of charity, philanthropy, and culture, and all subjects of a similar nature to be deemed worthy of consideration."

This was the beginning of the Chicago Woman's club, concerning which Mrs. Brown wrote, on the occasion of the club's birthday celebration on Feb. 17: "Who could ask a stateller monument than my lovely club? Success and prosperity to you all."

Even in her later years, while she was away from Chicago, she maintained keen interest in the city's well being and kept in close touch with the organization which she founded.

City Officials Attend Funeral of Ald. Cepak

Funeral services for Ald. Joseph Cepak [22d], who died last Friday of heart disease, were held yesterday in the Sokol Chicago hall, 24th street and Kedzie avenue, followed by burial in the Bohemian National cemetery. The city hall was closed for the afternoon and Mayor Cermak led a large delegation of aldermen, city department heads, and employés to the funeral.

Wife of Bishop Shayler of Nebraska Is Dead

Bride Is Film Actress

Wayne King, who leads his orchestra in regular broadcasts over W-G-N, slipped away to Lake county yesterday and married Dorothy Janis of the films. They got a license from County Clerk L. A. Hendee at Waukegan, to whom they gave their names as Harold Wayne King, 31 years old, and Dorothy Jones, 21 years old.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Louis W. Sherwin, pastor of the Highland Park Presbyterian church. Miss Jones was reared in Fort Worth, Tex., but has been in Los Angeles recently, taking part in several motion picture productions.

King's personal representative, W. H. Stein, vice president of the Music Corporation of America, was best man. He collected $2,000 from the bridegroom, a forfeit for violation of the agreement which they made two years ago, that neither would take a bride until he was 40.

Mr. and Mrs. King left on a honeymoon trip to northern Wisconsin, where the orchestra leader recently purchased a farm.

EX-TEACHER, 70, OVERCOME IN FIRE IN HER HOME, DIES

Miss Anna Whalen, 70 years old, for 50 years a teacher in the Chicago schools, died yesterday in the Holy Cross hospital from the effects of smoke inhaled on Saturday morning when fire damaged the interior of her home at 5608 South Turner avenue. The fire followed the explosion of an oil heater in the basement. She was partly overcome by smoke before firement could rescue her. At the time of her retirement from the school service two years ago Miss Whalen was assistant principal of the Webster elementary school. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Thatcher and Miss Carrie Whalen.

The funeral of Miss Whalen will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 5908 South Kedzie avenue to St. Gall's church, 55th street and Sawyer avenue.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Mrs. Georgiana Klein

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgiana L. Klein, 51 years old, 5500 Windsor avenue, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow in St. Clement's Roman Catholic church, Deming place and Orchard street, followed by burial in St. Boniface cemetery. Mrs. Klein was the wife of T. Henry Klein, president of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association. Four children, Robert H. and T. Henry Klein Jr., Mrs. Georgiana L. Esdohr, and Mrs. Corinne Schoenherr, also survive. Mrs. Klein died on Sunday in the Grant hospital after several months' illness.

SYNOPSIS.

Faire Chapelle is the stepdaughter of "Ma" Chapelle, who owns Flaxen's Casino, a café of ill repute, near the water front of Port Bai. Faire and Aya, "Ma's" daughter by her first husband of dubious color, have been trained to assist in Flaxen's. The Chapelles are looked upon as outcasts by respectable island residents and Faire feels their attitude keenly because her father was of unimpeachable antecedents. He had brought her as a little girl into these unsavory surroundings and left her there at his death. She has kept aloof from all that Flaxen's represents.

Sir Philip Persian is governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario. His young secretary and ward, Robert Grand, is involved in an affair with Mira Worcester, a faded beauty. Her husband has become suspicious. Sir Philip is anxious to save the boy from a scandal. Malise Bookes, the governor's aid-de-camp, asks Faire, as a favor to the governor, to clear Mira by proving it was she who'd been meeting young Grand secretly, threatening to close Flaxen's and have the Chapelles deported unless she consents. Sir Philip is furious with Bookes when he learns that Faire was forced to accept Mira's guilt. He sends for Faire to try to make amends. He arranges to have her return to her father's people in England. Mira Worcester sails on the same boat with Faire. In London Faire is met by her older widowed sister, Sheba, now Lady Rosewood, who owns a famous beauty salon. Sheba takes Faire into the business. Malise Bookes is sent home to London.

INSTALLMENT XX.

BREWING MISCHIEF.

Malise Bookes turned his steps towards Mira Worcester.

Ascot was over. A little negligible entertaining was being done, but people were departing for the country. Mira remained on in the furnished flat which she had taken, stranded rather high and dry. Her own relatives were few, old and of rigid ideas. Worcester's people frankly hated her. She had not been expected back. People were surprised—and unkind—at hearing of her arrival. She was glad to see Malise Bookes.

Malise saw her real relief, guessed the reasons of her ennui and took her out to dinner at Sovrani's.

"Let me have all your news," he demanded with caressing authority.

"My dear," she assured him, "I am just painfully devoid of news of any sort. I am dying with boredom. And people are being simply poisonous to me for no reason at all."

"You always made enemies of your own sex, Mira. Too attractive by half!"

Mira became more vivid, warmer. From being a drawn and haggard beauty she began at once to flower, as it were, into a woman of richer, softer quality. For the attention of men—preferably lovers—was food and drink to her. It was honey in the wilderness of her marriage with Worcester of whom she had, early, grown tired. Bookes saw the flowering. He knew the woman.

I chose the wrong alibi for you — that fair Chapelle girl.

"Command me, Mira," he begged with easy tenderness.

"Of course," she confided, "I'm short of money, but that won't be for long. Bertie's old uncle is dying at last. Any day now Bertie will be rich. Then he'll follow me over." His eyes were eloquent on hers.

She began to feel thrilled with Bookes, and to wonder if he would be a lover. She began to wonder, too—foolishly—if he had followed her. She asked him what had caused his premature return.

He told her something of it, not much, somberly. "Persian got his knife into me."

"No, my dear! How vile! When you simply slaved for his every whim! And every one knows he's exigent."

"Exigent! By Jove! I should think so. Well," and he thought, looking at Mira's drawn prettiness, that a little gratitude would become her for his good offices at Port Bai. "Well, dear, he didn't forgive me what I did for you."

"O, Malise! Darling!"

"But never mind me, Mira. I wanted to save you from the consequences of your madness."

"You've been wonderful to me! I didn't realize."

Her facile emotion for little Bobby Grand had already faded, was ready to bloom again for his successor. But, so absorbed had she been in the boy away out in that strange exotic island life where every one must brew his own wine of excitement, that she had never, till now, given much thought to Bookes. Now she was warm again, happy again in the prospect.

Bookes was speaking; very accomplished and charming: "My dear, I never wanted you to realize. I wanted just to help you. I know," he hinted, "what you had to suffer."

"From Bertie?" she breathed, and shuddered a little. Neither of them was going to so much as glance at the facts, which were that she had turned an amiable if self-indulgent man into a drunken bully.

"I couldn't help seeing," Malise extenuated himself deprecatingly. "I always knew."

"You hardly ever came to see me!"

"I daren't." His accomplished eyes caressed her. "You were too dangerous to me, Mira."

"O, Malise."

"And after all, a woman's got to think for the future. I knew your husband was in for a pot of money and a fine place by and by. However . . it seems I left you to little Grand."

"Do you blame me?" she asked softly and sentimentally.

He knew the self-pity gambit, and humored it.

"I? Blame you? Good heavens, no! I admired you for a brave girl in danger."

One must let men talk of themselves. She wanted to go on enlarging on the martyrdom of her life with Worcester. But she checked it, and asked:

"Why was Philip Persian annoyed with you?"

"Because I chose, without knowing it, the wrong alibi for you; that fair Chapelle girl. I repeat—of course—I couldn't know."

A brief eager silence. Then, her eyes avid: "Didn't know what, Malise?"

He shrugged and looked evasive. "O, well. That Persian had—er—well, my dear, I hadn't the slightest idea, for he's close, that the girl was in the way of becoming the royal favorite."

"Malise!"

"I assure you that's why I'm here." He laughed lightly: "Disgraced!"

"How too amazing! Philip Persian! Do you actually mean——?"

"Darling, I don't mean anything. I know nothing."

"I can't expect you to tell me. I would hate it if you did."

"Well, I'd rather not say any more, Mira. You won't talk of this, of course."

He was perfectly aware of what she would do. She would whisper in all such drawing rooms of London as received her.

"You know I'm safe, Malise."

"Yes. You're different from most women, Mira."

He signed attentively for a waiter to refill her glass, and awaited her revelations.

They came at once: "Of course you know what happened about her."

"I know Persian shipped her off. The island was seething with it. Naturally, it was said—though no one would have let him hear a word, even women daren't tackle Persian—but naturally it was said that he'd paid her to go and leave Grand alone."

"Naturally."

"But what were you going to tell me, Mira?"

"That she sailed in the same boat that I was in, from Kingston. It was a perfectly appalling situation. She behaved abominably, bargaining with me."

"Bargaining with you?"

"That sort of thing. Learned sharp practice from that blowsy old mother of hers, no doubt."

"Stepmother."

"Stepmother. O, well . . . Anyway she actually dared say to me that if I wouldn't talk she wouldn't."

"You promised?"

"O, I reassured the girl."

"Sublime impudence Mira has," thought Bookes with keen amusement. She had "reassured the girl." The girl who held all the cards if she cared to play them. Yet, Bookes thought, "I don't know that little Faire does hold all the cards. It would be a case of one woman swearing against another, and if it came to a scandal, Persian would never let himself down, giving away his part in it."

"Quite right," he said aloud.

"You know she is in London?"

"Really?"

That was what he wanted to know.

"O, yes. With Sheba Rosewood, her sister."

"You surprise me." He listened while Mira told him what he knew already. But he wanted to see the complexion that she—and London—painted upon it.

"Are people taking her up?"

"My dear, the season's over. Anyway you know how quiet Sheba is. The girl's going into the beauty salon, I hear."

And now he made a mental note to call up Sheba the next day. It had been years since he had seen her. But, sitting here in this little restaurant dedicated to the service of the wealthy, he could envision her as she had been—slight, dark serious girl, who had once laid the lash of her tongue across him and the beliefs he held and the life he led, whom Rosewood had had the luck to marry. Now she was widowed. "She'll see me again," he thought very soberly. "I'll sit at her feet. Women are always kind to the fellows at their feet."

Thinking of Sheba Rosewood suddenly and honestly wearied him with Mira.

Mira was asking:

"But what about Mary Chevronne?"

Film Dictator Bans Plays on Lindy Kidnaping

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 21.—Several of the film studios had a hunch to start their authors writing scripts for kidnap stories last week, but they were all nipped in the bud. Hays' office passed the order that there would be no abduction stories allowed to get out, nor anything else attracting attention to such crimes as the Lindbergh affair.

Master Robert Coogan attained the age of 6 and had his introduction to grammar school last week. The introduction was made through Rachel Smith, grade teachers who conducts the Paramount studio's school. When Bobbie started school he was working in "Sky Brides."

Fox studio has installed a "traveling school house" for its players under 17. It follows the motion picture children anywhere they go about the Fox studio lot at Westwood, being pulled on wheels from one set to another. Other studios have regular school bungalows constructed on their grounds, for the board of education rules in California are very strict. City school board inspectors constantly are looking over the attention given and progress displayed by boy and girl actors, who are required to go through just as many hours of school classes daily as children attending public schools.

The Paramount movie lot expresses pride because ten movie persons whose salaries are paid by that corporation have been chosen for the 1932 "Who's Who in America." In 1920, if my memory serves me right, only three or four persons in the entire film industry were included in "Who's Who." The ten celebs on the Paramount lot are George Bancroft, Clive Brook, Nancy Carroll, Maurice Chevalier, Claudette Colbert, Gary Cooper, Marlene Dietrich, Phillips Holmes, Fredric March, and Jeanette MacDonald. Of this list of ten for the American "Who's Who" two are French, one a Briton, and a German.

The Radio-RKO Film corporation has canceled its idea of merging the three Barrymores, Lionel, John, and Ethel, into one motion picture cast. Reason—salaries too expensive and too complicated fitting all the trio's prior engagements together so as to get the three of them available at one time for eight or ten weeks at a stretch.

Jack Oakie wanted to play polo, but his mother, who is here, thought the game too rough. In order to reassure her Jack took his mother and a party of young folks to see one of the Sunday afternoon games which are played weekly on the Uplifters club field at Santa Monica. All went well except that one player got hit with a mallet, another was thrown, and a third suffered a broken leg and Jack's mother was so tearful that it looks as though he never will be allowed to play.

One of the souvenirs of Maurice Costello's career as one time idol of the screen is a roll of wallpaper completely written over on one side. It came to him as a letter being sent by a woman in Baltimore while Costello was in his heyday.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Richard was quite confused about something he was explaining to his mother.

"You know what I mean, don't you?" he asked her.

She answered, absent mindedly, "Yes."

"Then tell me what I mean!" he demanded, quite relieved. C. M. C.

Margaret, aged 5, had been left to watch the soup, was presently heard to sing out: "O mother! Come quickly! The soup is getting bigger than the kettle." W. J. E.

Add Another House Plant to Your List

BY PAUL POTTER.

An inquisitive housewife has discovered a new house plant which any one can grow. It's just a simple little trick of taking a seed from an alligator pear which some call the avocado.

Throughout the process one finds it interesting to watch the seed gradually split open and then send forth a curly little shoot of green which can later be placed in a pot of soil. Probably the discovery is an adaptation of the method used in sprouting lemon and grapefruit seeds and the use of a sprouted sweet potato for household adornment.

First the seed is taken from the core of the alligator pear. The seed, which is flat on one end, has somewhat the appearance of a small chestnut. This is placed, flat side down, in a bowl with just enough water to almost cover the seed and the bowl is then placed in a window to be in the sun.

In about three weeks the pear seed splits in half and begins to spread open and in another few days a fern-like sprout gives this type of experimental indoor gardening added interest.

This shoot generally is left in the bowl, adding just enough water to promote its growth, until the new plant is about six inches high, and then the pear plant can be transplanted into a medium size pot of soil. The reward for average care over a period of about a year is a pear tree about the size of a small rubber plant.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

You are probably very weary of hearing me say that most bridge players finesse too much. Finessing, like automobile speeding, should only be done where it is entirely safe and should be avoided whenever it becomes dangerous. There are times, of course, when the only possibility of game may hang upon a fortunate finesse, even though the loss of the finesse would mean disaster. Those circumstances are few, however, and are the exception that prove the rule. Yesterday's play-a-problem is an excellent example of when to finesse and when not to finesse. This was the hand:

NORTH [dealer].
♠—A,5
♥—A,K,J,10,5,4,2
♦—6

WEST.
♠—Q,7,3
♥—9,8
♦—K,J,10,7,4,3
♣—Q,10

EAST.
♠—K,J,10
♥—Q,7,6,3
♦—8

SOUTH.
♠—9,8,6,4,2
♦—A,Q,9,5,2
♣—K,7,3

North dealt and bid two hearts. East passed. South took out with three diamonds. West gleefully and I think foolishly doubled. North went to four hearts. East passed. South hated to pass but he was afraid to go back to his diamonds and had no other choice. He, therefore, passed and so did West.

East opened the ♦ 8, which dummy captured with the A. Dummy then led back the ♣ 3, which declarer took with the ♣ J, since West had played the 10 and not the Q. Declarer then led out the ♥ A and ♥ K and followed with the ♥ J which East captured with the Q. To the sixth trick East led the ♠ K which declarer took with the ♠ A. Declarer then led out the ♥ 10, the ♥ 5, the ♥ 4, and the ♣ A. And to the eleventh trick he led the ♣ 8 which dummy took with the ♣ K. Dummy then led the ♠ 9 which West captured with the ♠ Q. West led back the ♦ K which declarer trumped with the ♥ 2 for five odd—the game and one extra.

Note carefully that the diamond finesse must not be taken, for if it loses the contract will be lost if the ♣ Q is found in the East hand. The fact that West happened to hold the Q has nothing to do with the point. On the other hand, the club finesse may be taken with perfect safety and the contract will be made even if East has the queen and the finesse loses. One club, one heart, and one spade is all that could possibly then be made by the opponents. Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—Q,J,8,7,5
♥—10,5

WEST.
♠—A,9,6,4,3,2
♥—4
♦—Q,10,8,6
♣—9,5

EAST [dealer].
♥—A,K,J,8,3,2
♦—K,J,9,7,4
♣—A,6

SOUTH.
♠—K,10
♥—Q,9,7,6
♦—A,5,3,2
♣—K,10,7

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

WHICH of the two kinds of antiseptics do you use when fighting sore throat colds—infection—unpleasant breath? For that's all there really are—just two leading kinds. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough when diluted with 2 parts of water to kill germs in 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 and make the three bottles yourself. For years 3 people in 4 diluted the old-style mouth washes. But they were fooling themselves and not killing germs. So when choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic that remains effective when diluted—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

Books on Love Hold Place in Spite of Slump

Grace Stair Writes Story of Marriage.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"This Giving in Marriage," by Grace Stair. [Dial.]

IN the melée of books about the depression and the future of the world and black and blue outlooks it is a comfort to know that the good old business of love and "this giving in marriage" goes on just as if there were no blackness and the blue were only "something blue" to give good luck. What writers would do if a moratorium were declared on love and marriage [and its resultant maladjustments and divorce] I do not dare to think. Every circulating library would go out of business and most of the bookshops would fold up their ledgers and put butter and cheese into their showcases.

GRACE STAIR.

Love might be said to be the one permanent commodity of the writing business. Times and tenors may change and terrify or exalt the world, but books which reflect them have the merest casual appeal compared to those which chronicle the doing of that sharpshooter, Eros, who is, by the way, one of the most prominent members of one of the most modern of the cults.

Mrs. Stair Writes of Marriage.

One of the contributions which keep the home fires of fiction burning in perpetual tribute to the "Blind Bow Boy" is Grace Stair's "This Giving in Marriage." It is a book about nothing else but. It opens with the marriage of a boy to a very unsuitable girl—a marriage which his very nice older sister tries to do the best she can about it. It tells the story of a silly obsession of a wealthy woman for a young man to whom she presents motor cars and "talismen" in the form of cabachon sapphires and crisp thousand dollar bills. And it tells the story of the love of the very nice widowed sister of the rash boy and an equally fine man.

"This Giving in Marriage" is Mrs. Stair's first novel, though it is her second book. She wrote "A Lady of France," which was published in the spring of 1930, and is a record of the friendship between Louise de Lamballe and Marie Antoinette.

Fight Against "Fatalism."

But we can't free ourselves, even for a day, from books about the "depression" and the illness of the world. Today there is published "Thunder and Dawn," by Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, in which he adds his words of exhortations to the wisdom of other publicists and educators and sociologists.

Dr. Frank says:

"The studies that comprise this volume have grown out of an attempt to assess realistically the elements of health and the elements of disease in the political, social, and economic orders of western life," he writes, "but in a certain sense they are the personal record of my own fight against fatalism as I found myself, at the end of the war, facing the possibility of having to live out the rest of my life in the chill and shadow of a disarticulate and despiritualized world. They are leaves from the diary of an attempt to find some valid grounds for courage despite the highly problematic future of western civilization."

There are three ideas, he declares, which will "condition the personal future and fortune of every man now living, three ideas with which I find myself forced to reckon in any attempt to arrive at a personal and social philosophy of life that will be both intellectually and spiritually satisfying. These three ideas are: [1] the idea of a new renaissance, [2] the idea of a new reformation, and [3] the idea of a new industrial revolution."

And in four hundred pages Dr. Frank diagnoses the disease [with the help of other physicians extraordinary to the body politic and social] and prescribes likewise with their help.

"Genuinely satisfying."

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Alden B. Swift (center) and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knight braved the storm long enough yesterday to go across the street from the Drake, where the Knights are staying during the fortnight they are here from New York, to the Woman's Exchange, but Mrs. Swift took no chances on getting her chin wet! It would be hard to recognize her from this picture, her face is so nearly covered by her hat, her "specs," and her fur collar, but the cameraman says he is sure.

Man Wants That Touch of Gray at the Temples Women Rave Over

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It is news to have some one inquire about how to make the hair gray at the temples. Ordinarily, the query is how to hid the gray hairs. Because the communication about how to gray the hair is unsigned I suspect it comes from a man. Also, because I understand that the dash of gray at the temples is being admired by certain of the girl friends. It gives them a chance to tell the gentleman how distinguished looking he is.

Well, if he must have it, the only way you can cultivate the distinguished look by virtue of the grayed locks is to have them treated with a white dye preparation. You cannot change the color of hair by any other known process than dyeing.

I suppose this little conceit is just as legitimate as any of the others practiced. I know a very good looking woman who goes every so often to have her blue black locks invested with an inch wide streak of white beginning at the center of her forehead. Though quite stunning without the white trimming in the hair, it does give the woman a distinguishing label. And it really is quite, quite effective. It makes her just a little different, which is what the lady wants and what she practices in clothes, in the furnishing of her home, at her parties, and so on. And her hair is exquisitely tended and coiffed.

In order to practice any such conceit successfully, however, one must be a really smart person. On a frumpy matron, say, this inch wide streak of white hair would be just another case of gray hair, wouldn't it?

Certain women carry this same idea of originality into the wearing of earrings. And some get away with it beautifully, no matter how bizarre said earrings might appear in the hand. Others, not so smartly gotten up, copying the bizarre earring style look something like the Christmas tree about to be dismantled.

So, it would seem to be better to travel along conventionally with the herd unless one has that talent of being different with a smart dash.

Movie Operator Returns to City for Song Recital

John Pane-Gasser not so long ago was a movie operator in the Embassy theater here. Yesterday he arrived in Chicago with the title of dramatic tenor of the Detroit Opera company, wearing gray spats and a fedora, and anticipating his recital on April 10 at Orchestra hall.

Mr. Pane-Gasser tells the story himself how he subbed for Martinelli when the sound film "Pagliacci" from the opera, went silent. The movie operator poked his head out of the projection booth and sang the aria. His presense of mind brought him a contract with the Milwaukee Philharmonic, the Chicago concert and the spring opera season in Detroit.

The singer made his operatic debut in Sicily in 1927. The depression, he said, brought him back to Chicago to his old trade of movie operator.

Coat Designers Turn to History for New Styles

Dashing Details Appear on Spring Coats.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

COAT designers must have been reading history books and watching the pictures pretty closely, too, for the newest spring models have been fashioned in a grand manner that copies the clothes of all the gay old blades that rallied around Beau Brummel in his zeal to find a tailor that had a special genius for fitting coat collars and waistcoats.

During this golden period of English life when men were men, even though they did spend an enormous amount of time in a tailor shop, coats were coats, too, nothing was neglected or overlooked that would make them the talk of the town. Lapels leaped into prominence high and wide on every masculine chest, and some dashing roisterer in an inspired hour ordered double lapels, which, undoubtedly in turn, inspired another dandy to order a coat with those picturesque shoulder capes layered in twos and threes.

Coat buttons also swelled with importance into saucer size diameters . . . and how knowingly those eighteenth century tailors molded coats to the narrow lean waistlines of all well dressed men of the times.

Dashing Details on Spring Coats.

All these dashing details . . . all this swaggering smartness has been borrowed and used for the spring coats of 1932, to be worn by the feminine descendants of those clothes conscious famous gentlemen of long ago. Fashionable coats are particularly perfect for the long slender silhouettes of spring . . . wide shouldered, slimly accentuated waistlines and long flared skirts, these are the delightful feminine counterparts of the masculine directiore greatcoats.

Diagonal materials, soft supple woolens, and crêpe-like fabrics are used alike with equal chic, blues in all colors, beige and brown, and soft sooty blacks, color the choice of the shopper. Many of the buttons are covered with self-material but metal buttons in either silver of gold [simulated] are shiny but correct accents for many of the newest models. Lapels are quite large and on many of the coats can be buttoned one over the other to achieve a high neckline as well as double breasted effect.

Furless coats that are practical as well as wearable for every occasion can be almost magically transformed with colorful scarfs of silk or fabric and be very dressed up with a fur scarf or fur cape or fur bow collar. The belts usually worn with these furless coats can be dispensed with when you wear a fur animal scarf, changing again the original model into an ideal dressup coat for afternoon or evening.

Plenty of Fur on Trimmed Coats.

But when you select a fur trimmed coat you will find that you are buying plenty of fur . . . the new models are lavishly loaded with fur, but all of it is piled around the shoulders and elbows and never below the waistline. Huge standup collars are flattering frames for the face . . . twisted fur collars wind around the neckline . . . and huge, wide cuffs elbow their way into all good coat designs.

The most strikingly beautiful models are the new creamy beige colored coats that are richly contrasted with deep brown sable and kolinsky fur . . . one lovely model has short sleeves made entirely of kolinsky fur . . . the model is collarless and fits closely to the figure to the knees where it flares out completing the new long line of all coats. Another has a deep well fitted cape with a wide band of fur as a border that climbs the left side of the cape to end at the neckline.

Expert on Training Children Hits Cruelty of Some Parents

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Apropos this "touching" problem, a woman with a baby son writes: "For some months I have been following the experiences of friends with their toddlers and have been trying to formulate principles which I might modify to meet my baby's needs as intelligently as possible whenever they should arise.

"The consensus seems to be, 'A little child can be taught not to touch.' My friends have had some successes along this line, but it has seemed to me that the child suffered." [There speaks the keen observer.]

"One couple placed a low table with various objects on it and said, 'Don't touch.' The 20 months old little girl brought these things to them repeatedly, each time having her hands slapped and being told to replace them. Finally, she was still bringing books and crying as if her heart would break. [Doesn't it make you cry inside?] What would you recommend?"

Without meaning to be facetious, I should like to recommend if it were possible that those two young parents be subjected to an equally cruel experience. I quite honestly believe that people who do a thing like that do not do it because they want to train their baby for its own sake. They are either trying to be smart and show off, or they have a streak of a certain type of cruelty in them which the psychologist recognizes.

Nobody with sensitiveness and a normal feeling toward a tiny child could repeatedly slap a trusting, weeping, and utterly confused baby. Such parents are the only kind with which, frankly, I have little patience. With them it isn't ignorance or tiredness—it is an unpleasant instinct which motivates them.

For other parents, those who are trying to work out something constructive, we have reading matter that is helpful.

Hoover Asks U. S. to Honor Koch for Tuberculosis Work

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—High praise was heaped upon the name of the German scientist, Robert Koch, by President Hoover today in calling attention to the fiftieth anniversary of Koch's achievements in isolating the germ that causes tuberculosis.

The chief executive in a formal White House statement suggested the nation as a whole make a special observance of next Thursday in honor of the German's accomplishment.

"Because of his priceless contribution to human welfare," Mr. Hoover said, "it is fitting that we as a nation do him honor, and that each community acknowledge its debt to Robert Koch by commemorating in an appropriate manner the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his discovery of the tubercle bacillus."

In the United States particularly the benefit of Koch's work may be seen in the fact that the tuberculosis death rate is only one-fourth of what it was in 1882, Mr. Hoover said.

Head of Salvation Army in China Here on Way to New Post

Lieutenant Commissioner Alfred J. Benwell, recently appointed territorial commander of the Salvation Army forces in China, accompanied by his wife, arrived in Chicago yesterday. They are on their way to Vancouver, where they will sail on April 9 for Peking.

Upon their arrival the Benwells were entertained at a luncheon at the Salvation Army Young Women's Boarding home. Today they will tour the Salvation Army shelters, industrial homes, and the south side settlement, and will depart tonight. Mrs. Benwell was assistant at the women's home and hospital here preceding her marriage in 1930 to Commissioner Benwell, who was then territorial commander of the army in France.

Herma Clark to Give Talk on 'Family Album'

Stereopticon Review of "Elegant Eighties."

BY JUDITH CASS.

HERMA CLARK tells me she is getting ready for a new stereopticon review to be called "The Elegant Eighties," or "Chicago's Family Album," which will be presented at Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon, April 17.

This new review is a sequel to "Dear Julia," which Miss Clark gave a year ago at the Drake before such a large and fashionable audience, and a most appreciative one, too. The new one deals with the naïve decade, in which the bustle was a prominent feature in more senses than one; it was the era of high bicycles, of Gilbert and Sullivan operas and Little Lord Fauntleroy suits, and all these will figure in Miss Clark's story, which she tells as if "Martha Esmond Freeman" were narrating it.

Miss Clark's announcements are in the mail today, but already many friends of the "When Chicago Was Young" column who have heard of the new review have made reservations for it.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers has taken four boxes and no doubt will entertain a large party that afternoon, when she will see pictured on the screen her father, William Allan Pinkerton, head of the secret service during the civil war.

Miss Clark tells me there will be many surprises and many staid citizens will find themselves pictured as they looked in the college days, or even in short trousers. Altogether the entertainment sounds quite intriguing and I am sure it will be well attended by descendants of Chicago pioneers and others who have a liking for history in a light form.

"Chefs' Parade" G. O. P. Benefit.

The Woman's National Republican club and the Illinois Republican Women's Clubs, Inc., have hit on a new idea for a benefit. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Walter B. Wolf they are preparing a "Chefs' Parade" to be held on April 20 at the Hotel Sherman. The performers will be famous chefs who will demonstrate the concoction of some of their treasured recipes. There will be afternoon and evening shows.

Many parents, especially those who have more than one child at an eastern school, are finding it more economical to travel east themselves than to bring their young people home for the spring vacations, and although of course many boys and girls have come west for the holidays, it does seem as if more than usual were spending the week or two they have away from school in the east or cruising to the West Indies. Lucky youngsters!

The Williams Glee club is going to Bermuda, singing as it goes, and although he won't do any singing, young Jack Norcott of Evanston is going along as business manager. Dick Neff is on tour in the east with the Hasty Pudding club from Harvard, so will not come home to see his sisters, Barbara and Louise, just now, although I suspect he will come on a bit later in the spring for Barbara's wedding to Solomon B. Smith which is to be in April or May, although the date is not set yet.

Mrs. William D. Bangs of Geneva motored east last week to take her daughter, Kitty, who is at Miss Walker's, and Billy, who is at Andover, to Bermuda for their vacation. The Arthur Orrs' daughter, "Mimi," who also is at an eastern school, and "Monty," who is a Princeton student, accompanied the Bangs family.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Blair of Geneva and their children, Jane, who is at Vassar, and "Chuck" and Bob, who are at Kent, also have gone to Bermuda for the spring vacation.

Betty Alexander Will Go to Florida.

Betty Alexander, daughter of the James G. Alexanders of Lake Forest, is spending part of her holidays from Miss Porter's school at Farmington in a hospital at Hartford, Conn., recuperating from an appendectomy, but her mother hopes to take her very soon to Palm Beach where Mr. Alexander is at the Everglades club awaiting his wife and daughter.

Mrs. Alexander had a thrilling experience when she flew up to Hartford from Palm Beach to be with Betty, for just outside Newark after changing planes the passengers were told that one of the engines was not working and that they all must fasten their life belts in preparation for a forced landing. The landing was made with no bad results, luckily, and eventually the trip was continued, but I'll wager none of the passengers felt too safe when the order about the life belts was given!

Miss Marion Calkins, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Calkins of Hubbard Woods, who is a student at Smith, will spend the spring vacation visiting relatives in the east. The engagement of Miss Calkins' cousin, Miss Elizabeth Garret, daughter of Mrs. James Weld Garret of Brookline, Mass., to Kilby Page Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kilby Page Smith of Waltham, Mass., has just been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Crompton Bangs of 1336 North State street will return tomorrow or Thursday from a short stay in New York. Their son, Hal Jr., is to spend his Easter vacation from Stanford in the east.

Miss Florence Carr and her father, Robert F. Carr of 209 Lake Shore drive, are at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York for a few days before going to Palm Beach for a vacation of three weeks or a month.

Kenneth Smiths Plan Cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith of Winnetka, who are dividing their time this winter between their Palm Beach villa and their yacht, the Kenkora II., will cruise to Havana and Nassau early in April, taking with them the Henry C. Bartholomays, the junior Henry H. Windsors, and the John Eliot Warners, all of Winnetka and all in Palm Beach now.

Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, who have been traveling in the west for several weeks, are now at the Huntington in Pasadena and are not expected home until some time after Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S& Ford of 5120 Hyde Park boulevard announce the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Beryl Zoller Comstock, to John Knight of Akron, O. Mr. and Mrs. Knight are leaving tomorrow to motor to Pinehurst and White Sulphur Springs and will be at home after May 1 in Akron. Mrs. Knight's little daughter and her nurse are leaving at the same time for Akron to be with Mr. Knight's three sons while their parents are honeymooning in the south.

Mrs. Anthony French Merrill is to give the last of four talks on current events and recent books before the members of the Womans Athletic club this morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Merrill's talks have been very well attended and always there are a number of luncheon parties following them.

Sunbeam League Tea Today.

Mrs. Carroll Johnson will give a tea at her residence, 200 East Delaware place, this afternoon for the board of the Sunbeam league and the committee chairmen for the annual charity and party to be given on March 29 in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

The Drama League Players, a group of members of the Chicago Drama league have received permission from the New York Theater Guild to present the comedy, "At Mrs. Beam's" by C. K. Munro, which although a great success in New York, was never presented in Chicago.

The Drama League Players will give it for one performance only, on Sunday evening, April 3, at the Goodman theater. Lawrence Paquin, director, has assembled the cast and rehearsals are in full swing. The proceeds of the performance will be donated to the Actors Fund of America.

Donald Briggs is to play the part Alfred Lunt played in the Guild production and Olga Rosenova will portray the part played by Lynn Fontanne in the New York showing. Others in the cast are Ruth Costello, Ethel Dodge, Floyd Mayberry, Arthur O'Keefe, John Sweeney, Olga Byfield, Lauretta McInerney-O'Brien, Edith F. Hardy and Mrs. Paul Clark.

Deny Offield Engagement.

Both Miss Betty Offield and Jarvis Hunt Jr. deny that there is anything "official" in the rumor of their engagement and Miss Offield even goes so far as to say in a wire "only met Jarvis while conferring on Wrigley mausoleum."

Of course we all know that is only a "white lie," for Mr. Hunt has been one of the many devoted swains to the pretty young daughter of the James R. Offields since she came out last year, and we heard that they were engaged as long ago as last fall. She denied it then, but said there was a possibility that there might be grounds for such a rumor this spring.

Mr. Hunt returned yesterday from Phoenix and said that there was no "official" engagement when I talked to him last night. Miss Offield and her father, who also were in Phoenix, are now at Catalina Island with Mrs. Offield and her mother, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr.

We are in receipt of a note from Paul du Pont stating that he and Miss Rachel W. Strawbridge of Philadelphia, daughter of Mrs. Truman W. Brophy of Moorestown, N. J., formerly of Chicago, will be married on Sunday, April 24 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at his summer place, Palmetto Shores, near Pensacola, Fla. The Rev. Henry Harrison will officiate. Mr. du Pont adds that a party of about twenty friends will motor to Pensacola for the ceremony, leaving Chicago about April 16.

THE STAGE

"The Good Fairy," with Helen Hayes as its star, will figure on the schedule of spring playgoing in Chicago. This comedy, by Franz Molnar, was staged in New York by Gilbert Miller Nov. 24 and scored a distinguished success. Its Broadway season will end April 2 and a tour will follow, including Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, and Chicago. When the tour closes, early in the summer, Miss Hayes will go to Hollywood to fulfill a cinema contract.

Woods theater will return to dramatic activity Sunday night, April 3, with a farcical comedy called "Louder, Please," which was among the productions of the early winter in New York. The play, written by Norman Krasna and staged by A. L. Jones, deals with certain aspects of life in Hollywood. Its locale is the publicity office of a cinema firm.

The cast for the New York engagement included Lee Tracy, Buford Armitage, Mildred Wall, Millard Mitchell, Theodore Hecht, Robert Gleckler, and Jane Buchanan. The management of Woods theater announces a "radical departure" in ticket prices during the run. The maximum for night performances will be two dollars; for matinées, one dollar.

Vernay Returns; Successful in Hunt for Rhinoceros

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Arthur S. Vernay, explorer and big game hunter, returned on the French liner Ile de France today. He told of his successful expedition to Perak in the Federated Malay States, where he bagged a one horned rhinoceros or sondaicus, after search for the rare animal since 1926. Twice before Mr. Vernay has organized expeditions for the sondaicus and this year's hunt netted what he believes is the largest ever taken. Strangely enough, when the rhinoceros was sighted the horn appeared to be far shorter than expected, and it was discovered after the killing that the horn had been broken off, probably in a battle with another jungle beast.

Women Prove Their Devotion to Orchestra

Brave Storm to Give Good Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Storms may have kept some of the audience home last night, but with the most careful examination it was difficult to see any absentees from the ranks of the Chicago Woman's club orchestra at the Goodman theater, nor yet enough latecomers to cause the slightest delay in the concert.

This is worth noting. It shows earnest devotion on the part of the members, even though such devotion has been pretty well proved in the past by the way they go at their music. Conductor Ebba Sundstrom had decreed George Schumann's "Springtime of Love" Overture and Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony as the principal numbers on last night's program, and more faithful work became evident in the performance.

They play rather astonishingly well, these women. It is enough of an undertaking to organize an orchestra that is completely feminine, even to such ordinarily unfeminine instruments as tuba and contrabassoon. To get such a performance as they gave is more of an undertaking. A little more brightness in tempo here and there, and it would have been a still better performance.

The soloist was Grace Nelson, a greatly talented young pianist. In the Liszt Concerto in E flat she displayed brilliant technic, fine tone, and the poise and fine points of interpretation which betoken the higher education in the piano and its literature. What she did was a pleasure to the ear and to the mind.

Sadah Shucari, New York violinist, introduced herself to Chicago yesterday afternoon through a recital at the Playhouse given under the auspices of the Musicians' Club of Women. A good part of the program was at least nominally Spanish, though not all the composers are able to claim that nationality. However, Nin, de Falla, and Sarasate, with the assistance of Lalo's "Symphonic Espagnole" and Ravel's "Habanera," are enough to give a marked Iberian color to the proceedings, tempered by one of the finest compositions that ever came out of France, the Franck Sonata.

Miss Shucari has a marked flair for brilliant playing which her well developed if not entirely impeccable technic permits her to display to advantage. Her tone is somewhat hardfinished, a fact that is of assistance to her in certain works, notably the dashing last movement of the Lalo composition. Agnes Conover was her co-artist in the Franck Sonata and her accompanist for the rest of the recital, and an excellent pianist in both manifestations.

Pretty Apron in Contrasting Color Worn with Attractive House Dress

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The paneled skirt and seamed hipline and the wrapped bodice of this morning dress combine in making an attractive whole, and when the pretty one piece apron with its ruffled edge is added any woman should feel prettily and suitably dressed for her household duties.

The pattern, 2651, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ of a yard of 35 inch contrasting for the dress and 1¾ yards of 35 inch material for the apron.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Dreaded Days

When women pity and men misunderstand

What a miserable feeling—suffering in silence — and shunning those we'd like to see—declining those pleasant invitations. Modern women no longer know such monthly martyrdom. They use Midol.

* * *

Why don't you try these tiny tablets that take effect in five to seven minutes? They neither hasten nor hinder Nature's regular process, but they do relieve you from all pain. Those days you formerly dreaded will become just an incident.

Midol is the marvelous discovery made by specialists. It is not a narcotic, yet it ends periodic pain. And if you anticipate the time, the expected pain will not appear at all. Tiny tablets in convenient little case obtainable at every drugstore. Just try Midol for painful periods, sick headaches or other muscular pain, and be convinced.

Gets Historic Balcony Grille of New Orleans

Obtains Piece from Old French Mansion.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

From her pretty Verona balcony, Juliet dropped sweet words to Romeo in the courtyard below. Remember the famous scene? Most beloved, perhaps, of anything written by Shakespeare.

Little wonder, then, we say, "Doors for hospitality but balconies for romance."

Recently Mrs. Frank Barrett of Kenilworth brought back from New Orleans the iron grille that once enclosed the balcony on the lovely old mansion of the French colonial prefect. This iron was wrought almost a century and a half ago. The design is lovely, the craftsmanship exquisite.

"It was through a business associate of Mr. Barrett I was able to obtain the grille," Mrs. Barrett explained, "and I am delighted with it. There is a good deal of iron work in Vieux Carre, old New Orleans commonly known as the French quarter, but not all of it is hand wrought and little of that to be obtained is historic."

Mrs. Barrett's hobby might well be tagged "anything French." Unable to go abroad the last few years, however, she has spent several weeks each winter in New Orleans. "Never at Mardi Gras time," she cautioned, "for there is too much excitement. When it is quiet, I love the old sections of the city with their memories of French and Spanish dominion."

Grille to Be Part of New Home.

The grille is not to be part of a collection—no indeed—for some day not too far hence, the Barretts expect to build a new home in Winnetka, most likely patterned after one of those old New Orleans houses and the fancifully patterned iron will enclose the second story balcony. There is also enough of it for a "porte cochere," Mrs. Barrett said. But even before this she intends to use part of the grille to create a balcony background for the exhibit of the Kenilworth Garden club at the annual flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois to open April 2 on the Navy pier.

Much as we like to think of balconies from their romantic and artistic standpoint, it was really the utilitarian factor that brought them into being. The diverting Samuel Pepys, who always seemed to find a way of turning things to his purpose, expresses in a nutshell the "raison d'être" of the balcony. One day, in 1662, his "Diary" tells us there was a show going on "over against the exchange." There was also a "balcone Window" nearby commanding a view of what was forward. Mr. Pepys popped himself into the aforesaid "balcone" and saw the show vastly better than his groundling neighbors not blessed with such an alluring point of vantage. The balcony served a conspicuously convenient and useful end on this occasion as well as giving evidence of a fashion that was just becoming the rage in the London of his day.

Balconies in Ancient Days.

But even before this there were balconies—away back in Græco-Roman times. There are some remaining examples in the ancient town of Pompeii. Literary description of early Roman houses also gives evidence of these first high porches. It was in the middle ages, however, that they were adopted in southern Europe and the orient and during the Renaissance period that they were carried to the north and thence to this country.

Iron, the most manageable and universally accommodating material when it comes to building balconies, was introduced for this purpose in the middle of the 17th century and continued in fashion until it reached its heyday the end of the 18th and the beginning of the 19th centuries. Stone preceded this, however, for balcony use, especially in the south. And this, of course, brings to mind the Grand canal in Venice made picturesque by the protruding stone porches, the balconies employed by Palladio in his domestic work, or, yet again, the wonderful indoor balconies or "cantoria" designed by Della Robbia for the cathedral at Florence and the choir in the Sistine chapel.

For balconies on this continent, we refer again to New Orleans, although there are fine examples of late 18th and early 19th century second floor porches to be found in both Philadelphia and Charleston. In fact, there is no more beautiful wrought iron balcony in public architecture than that on the old Congress hall in Philadelphia where Washington appeared at the time of his second inauguration.

Add Charm to Crescent City.

So many they literally confuse the sides of the narrow lanes, streets and alleys of old New Orleans, balconies have, nevertheless, furnished, at least some of that charm which led to the crescent city being called the "Port o' Heart's Desire." Though we have mentioned them in association with the French houses, it was the Spaniards who introduced them as protection against pirates, like the notorious brothers Lafitte of Barataria, who were wont to sally forth from the wild and gloomy coast with their cut throat crews under the black flag.

So what was a protective measure against brutal intrusion in the early history of the country became, through years of invention and refinement, a tribute to the skill of the artisan. As the white aristocrat and the black slave, European gold and American opportunity, the splendor of the master and the loyalty of his servants worked together for a rich and highly animated social life in New Orleans, the balcony above the heads of pedestrians became the most luxurious, the most alluring, the most secure observational retreat in a day of famous gossips. Behind these lovely wrought iron screens, gracious hosts could see without being seen, hear without being heard, and carry on the polite affairs of love, hate, intrigue, and politics without being betrayed. Balconies behind the screens of art became the trysting places of all artists in love and commerce.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Jane Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Ellis of Drexel Hills, Pa., to Ralph Thomas Kettering Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thomas Kettering of the Belmont hotel, took place at 8 o'clock last evening at the Belmont hotel, with Judge Joseph Sabath officiating. The ceremony was followed by a reception for 200 guests. Henry Sincere came to Chicago from Williams college to act as best man for the groom and Miss Dorothy Schaefer, a student at Smith college, was maid of honor for the bride.

A dispatch from West Palm Beach, Fla., yesterday announced the marriage there on Sunday of Miss Eleanor Tevander, 21 years old, and Samuel Taylor, 37, both well known in Chicago. Miss Tevander is an airplane pilot, golfer and polo player and a daughter of O. N. Tevander, 850 Castlewood terrace, Chicago. Mr. Taylor is a University of Chicago graduate, the son of a steel manufacturer, and resides at 73 East Division street.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Lacked Price of Seats.

My wife, brother-in-law, and I were entering a theater, and I proceeded to the ticket booth to purchase the tickets. I placed what I thought to be the price of the three admissions on the ledge.

The cashier informed me that the admission price had been raised, and I found that in changing my clothes I had left the remainder of my money at home.

Imagine my embarrassment when I withdrew the insufficient sum and we walked through the crowded lobby to the street. R. F. H.

The product which housewives have come to know as tapioca is a coarsely granular variation of cassava starch. The cassava plants grow in the tropics and they are cultivated for their rootstocks, as these are the source of a nutritious starch. Although each plant creates its own variety of starch, the different varieties resemble each other chemically. So whether it is cassava starch, corn starch, rice starch or potato starch, with which you are dealing in cookery, you may remember that they all are of value for their thickening properties.

This is the reason why tapioca seemingly appears in foreign cookery recipes for omelets and meat loaves.

Yesterday we suggested a tapioca dessert—a hot pudding, and today we have another tapioca pudding which is to be served cold.

APRICOT MERINGUE TAPIOCA.

4 tbsps. of quick cooking tapioca
¼ tsp. of salt
2 cups of milk, scalded
4 tbsps. of sugar
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ tsp. of lemon rind
1 tsp. of lemon juice
1 cup of canned apricots, drained and cut
2 egg whites
4 tbsps. of sugar

Add the tapioca and salt to the milk and cook in the upper part of a double boiler for fifteen minutes, or until the tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add the sugar. Pour a small amount of the mixture over the lightly beaten egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to the double boiler and cook until thickened. Add the lemon rind and juice. Turn into a greased baking dish. Cover with the apricots. Beat the egg whites until foamy and add the sugar, two tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition, until the sugar is thoroughly blended. Beat until the mixture stands in peaks. Pile lightly on the pudding, and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees] about twenty minutes.

Yield: Six servings.

The cold pudding may be made one or two days before serving, if desired. Pour it into sherbet glasses, or a decorative pudding dish which may be brought to the table for serving. It is made as follows:

PEANUT BRITTLE TRIFLE.

1-3 cup of tapioca
¾ tsp. of salt
4 cups of milk, scalded
½ cup of sugar
1 or 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tsp. of vanilla
1 or 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
½ cup of crushed peanut brittle

Add the tapioca and salt to the milk and cook in a double boiler for fifteen minutes, stirring frequently. Add the sugar. Pour a small amount of the mixture over the beaten yolks, and stir vigorously. Return to the double boiler and cook until thick. Remove and add the vanilla. Fold in the egg whites, and then the crushed peanut brittle. Pour into glasses and chill.

Yield: Eight servings.

Ruffed Shoulder Line for Evening Shown in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Augustabernard created something when she made the pictured evening dress with new super-shoulder height. This dress, ladies, is the most famous single frock to be found in Paris since last summer, and it is the ruffs of velvet across the shoulders that place it in the center of the spotlight.

Shoulders have been bearing the burden of style novelty for several months, as you know. Square military shoulders, sloping dropped shoulder yokes, puff sleeves, and so forth, have become commonplace, but the shoulder ruff is something different, and not at all common.

The idea behind this insistence on making shoulders prominent is, as I have explained before, to make waistlines look slimmer. The waistline is going to be the big line of spring and summer fashions. Don't make any mistake about that. Any trick that can be introduced to make this line more prominent is legitimate, provided it stops short of the ridiculous. The Augustabernard shoulder ruff, shown today, far from being silly, is completely charming, and therefore has been adopted by some of the smartest women in Paris.

The double ruffs of velvet which begin at the bust in front and fall to the waistline in back of this black lace frock are made of two tones of red velvet—a light rose red and a dark rose red. They add a perfect color touch to the sober elegance of the frock.

U. S. Scholars Join Germany in Goethe Fete

American Professors to Speak at Rites.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 21.—On the eve of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Goethe, all of Germany united to pay homage to his memory on the same scale that America this year is commemorating George Washington.

In Weimar, where Goethe spent most of his life and where he died, emissaries from America, from all parts of Germany and from almost all the countries of the world assembled tonight to take part in the commemoration ceremonies and to place wreaths on Goethe's tomb alongside that of Schiller, the German poet and historian, in the princely mausoleum of the dukes of Saxony.

President Paul von Hindenburg wanted to be present himself but the political situation would not permit him to leave his post in Berlin.

"I deeply deplore that the political situation prevents me from personally laying a wreath in the name of the German nation on the coffin of the great German poet," President Von Hindenburg said in his message to the chairman of the Goethe committee, Dr. Richard Leutheusser, former minister of state.

President von Hindenburg was represented by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who tomorrow noon will place a wreath on Goethe's tomb. America will be represented by John Wiley, chargé d'affaires, in the absence of Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett in Paris. From the American world of science comes Prof. Frederick James Woodbridge, who is the Roosevelt exchange professor in Berlin.

Prof. Woodbridge will present a document in Latin eulogizing Goethe in behalf of Columbia university. Prof. Carl Schreiber of Yale will speak in the name of the American Goethe society and the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation and will lecture on "Goethe and the United States."

A series of lectures was initiated today by Thomas Mann. His theme was "Goethe the Writer."

Necking Expert Rates Zero on Entertainment

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What to do with the boy friend, when you get him over to the house for an evening, is "Boots'" problem. Hers doesn't dance. Hasn't money to take a girl around. So, how to entertain him?

"Boots" finds that boys never seem to know what to do with themselves, unless they decide to neck all evening. And Boots remarks that "she doesn't like to do that with all the boys that come to call on her."

Glad to hear that there is discrimination against all boys, "Boots." Only we would bear with an even finer note of reservation.

However, we would like to inquire where boys get their necking education and why they all seem to be so much more expert at this game than at other forms of entertainment. A boy can't dance. He can't keep the conversation running, apparently, from "Boots'" experience. But he can dig right in with necking any time he gets the notion.

Is this, by any chance, a native born instinct, or what? If so, could it not be curbed somewhat? Couldn't it be cured, even? I can't imagine anything less inviting as an evening's prospect than to entertain a boy with nothing on his mind but the ambition to work toward a necking scene, to which you, the girl, could bring no enthusiasm.

After all, boys might try to size up the girl and try her out first on a little intelligent conversation. It needn't be weighty, but there are a lot of light, agreeable topics for an evening's entertainment.

The girl can't do everything in the way of making the hours fly. If she offers an agreeable parlor setting, a comfortable chair and a nicely gotten up person for the evening, surely the boy might come across with something beside a mauling arm, don't you think?

If he could dance, there would be the radio tunes to help out. I think it is up to the boy, when he has no money to take a girl out, to make himself agreeable company when he accepts her home hospitality. Of course, she might forestall the necking impulse by bringing out a card table and starting one of the games that can be played by two, or she might engage mother to hop in and out, every once in a while.

SKINNY...SUCH A NERVOUS WRECK

she couldn't sit through a show!

But 3 weeks later, had added 17 lbs.— health perfect!

"WHAT a nerve!" "Sit down!" She heard their angry whispers but was past caring. Driven by restless, tortured nerves — she had to leave. The star's loveliness made her sick with envy. For her own complexion was so blemished—her own figure so scrawny and unappealing.

Today she boasts of Hollywood beauty herself—and steady nerves, too! She writes: "I was extremely thin, nerves worn to shreds and skin dull and sallow. I was also constipated and so terribly nervous I couldn't sit still. I would go to the movies and have to leave in the middle of the picture.

"One day I noticed an Ironized Yeast ad. I tried a package and began to improve at once. After three weeks I gained 17 pounds. I now eat with relish, am never nauseated and have a lovely complexion. I have nerves like iron now." Mrs. Martha Shaw, Zwolle, La.

Goodbye sick days!

Correct constipation, indigestion — clear your complexion, strengthen your nerves. Enjoy youthful vitality—be proud of a beautiful, well-developed figure! Countless once thin, once weak and rundown folks have done this quickly and easily — with Ironized Yeast. Now it is your turn!

Health value multiplied

In Ironized Yeast, you get rich, imported "beer yeast" — concentrated seven times. Thus seven pounds of this specially cultured health yeast make just one pound of the concentrate used in Ironized Yeast. So valuable, so vital—is this concentration process that the Biological Commission of the League of Nations officially recommended it as a world standard.

The powerful, body-building yeast concentrate is then ironized — scientifically treated with three distinct kinds of iron. As a result, Ironized Yeast does more than build firm, healthy flesh—does more than help the system function better. It enriches and purifies weak, watery blood!

Triple-tested

Avoid cheap counterfeits

Three feeding tests are made — by our own chemists, by an eminent physician and by a professor of Bio-Chemistry in a famous medical college—to prove Ironized Yeast's many amazing results. Don't take chances with unknown, untested counterfeits! Flatly refuse any package not marked "Ironized Yeast". Don't put any tablet not marked "I. Y." in your stomach. (The iron in genuine Ironized Yeast cannot discolor teeth or upset the stomach.)

GUARANTEED: If the very first package does not help you, as it has helped countless others, its cost will be promptly refunde At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

HOW OLD?

He doesn't look a day over fifty.

And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, or constipation. But if you want to keep in shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. This gentle, natural stimulant makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Remember, it is the tested prescription of a physician—and it isn't expensive.

WOMEN! Kotex Price Reduced

NEWS! Kotex is now available to women everywhere at prices in tune with the times.

No question mark hovers over genuine Kotex. No incessant doubt as to how it was made, where, under what conditions.

Today, for a minimum price, you get the protection that Kotex—and Kotex alone, offers. Made in air-washed rooms; of tested materials; inspected 76 times.

Cut, folded and packed—all by machine!

Kotex is soft and stays soft. It's highly absorbent. You can wear it on either side with equal safety. It is disposable. Hospitals used over 24,000,000 pads last year, alone.

Kotex offers you such security, that it will pay you to make quite sure, when buying it wrapped, that you do get genuine Kotex.

Genuine Kotex—the best—now costs less

Are you handicapped at the office?

To put in a full day's work, you need a full man's strength. A man, half-sick from constipation, has less chance to succeed in today's keen competition.

This insidious condition often causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the edge from your working hours.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs — so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Know George Washington

IT IS a coincidence that in times like these we should be commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the father of our country.

So as we do honor to our greatest man let us also pause and reflect upon the principles on which this nation was founded.

Let us realize that the way out of present and future difficulties lies not in the glib formulas of the opportunist, but in the time-tried, simple wisdom of our first President.

This year every citizen should read again President Washington's farewell address delivered September 17, 1796.

In the words of this ringing message to the nation he had served so well, he lights the way to the prosperity and peace we seek.

This famous message was reprinted on the front cover of The American Weekly for February 14.

And every week, for a period of six weeks thereafter, this magazine has devoted its entire front cover to a full-color reproduction of a famous painting that depicts important historical events in the life of Washington.

Five and one-half million families, one out of every four households in the United States, are thus impressed with the high leadership with which America set forth upon her way.

PHAR LAP SURE OF WELCOME AT CHICAGO TRACKS

'Race of Century' Is Certain Now.

On Way Soon

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 21.—D. J. Davis, owner of Phar Lap, announced today that the Australian champion will be shipped to Chicago soon after the winter racing season ends here next Sunday.

Davis said he expected to unload Phar Lap at the Washington Park track, where he will be allowed to take things easy for three or four weeks before going back into stiff training again for the summer campaign in Chicago.

"We hope to beat America's best in Chicago," Davis said. "Phar Lap will not be returned to Australia until he smashes Sun Beau's world's money winning record."

BY FRENCH LANE.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 22]

Just when the proprietors of our great race tracks in Chicago were showing unmistakable signs of worry over what their customers are going to use for money when they wager in the pari-mutuels during the impending turf season, along comes Phar Lap, the red terror of the antipodes, to change the alarmed wrinkles into broad smiles of expectation.

JOHN SCHANK.

Phar Lap did it when he galloped to his easy but sensational victory in the Agua Caliente handicap on Sunday. For on the strength of that triumph one of the greatest "naturals" in the history of horse racing in America developed.

"Race of the Century" Coming.

So it will not be long until we begin to hear about the "race of the century," a battle that will engage our two best American thoroughbreds—Twenty Grand and Mate—in a struggle with Phar Lap, the champion of Australia.

Mr. John Schank, the proprietor of the Hawthorne course, probably expressed the attitude of every other race track boss yesterday when he said: "I'll put Phar Lap, Twenty Grand, and Mate up at the Blackstone, build special stalls for them in our clubhouse, and haul them to and from the course in a gorgeous specially built motor train if they will all come into our Hawthorne Gold cup race late in August."

If such a race develops — and wouldn't the owners of the race tracks be silly if they didn't make the arrangements—the first chance for it to take place will be at the Arlington Park course in Chicago in July.

For there are three Arlington stakes, the Stars and Stripes handicap on July 4; the Arlington handicap, a short time later, and the Arlington cup, late in the month, to which all three are eligible. These are the first stake races to be run this year for which all have been nominated.

Other Chances for Phar Lap.

Phar Lap has been named for two stakes to be run at Washington Park in June. They are the $5,000 added Robert M. Sweitzer handicap and the $10,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile and a quarter. Mate is also eligible to the Peabody Memorial and he likely will hook up with Phar Lap in this race. But Twenty Grand, regarded by many shrewd judges of horseflesh as our greatest horse since Man o' War, isn't eligible to a stake race engagement until the July racing begins at Arlington. His name was withheld from all spring and early summer stakes to be run in New York.

In the Stars and Stripes handicap and the Arlington handicap weights will be assigned by the track handicappers. The handicapper might be able to adjust them to the satisfaction of the owners of Phar Lap, Twenty Grand and Mate, but if they meet in one of these races it will be unusual. Some owner is sure to think he is getting the worst of it.

The Arlington Cup is a weight for age race. Twenty Grand, Mate, and Phar Lap each would carry 126 pounds. It is at a mile and a quarter. It was the race last year which started Sun Beau along the trail which took him to the world's money winning championship in October at Hawthorne.

America Has Chance.

Folks that are sold hook line and sinker on Phar Lap should not forget that our champions, Twenty Grand and Mate, at least have a chance with the invader from "down under."

Phar Lap, now a 6 year old, ran the mile and a quarter of the Agua Caliente handicap carrying 129 pounds in 2:02 4-5. Twenty Grand, as a 3 year old last May, ran the mile and a quarter of the Kentucky Derby under 126 pounds in 2:01 4-5. Mate, also a 3 year old, won the Classic stakes at Arlington in July, also at a mile and a quarter, carrying 126 pounds in 2:02 2-5.

The world's record for a mile and a quarter is held by Whisk Broom II.

BADGER OFFER ACCEPTED; WAIT REGENTS' VOTE

Officials Withhold Confirmation.

George Veenker, head coach at Iowa State college, will direct the University of Wisconsin football team this year, it was reported yesterday.

GEORGE VEENKER.

Friends who talked with Veenker during a visit to Chicago said that Veenker had accepted the job, but preferred to have the announcement come from Madison.

Irwin Uteritz, newly appointed Badger athletic director, refused to confirm the report, intimating that confirmation should come from the board of regents. Uteritz, however, did not deny that Veenker is to be Glenn Thistlethwaite's successor.

Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, chairman of the athletic council, said he had no information about the latest development in the coaching situation.

"I have been out of touch with the matter for the last 24 hours," he said. Other members of the council, when questioned, gave the same reply, nearly word for word.

"Who is conducting negotiations?" Prof. Pyre was asked.

"I don't know just who is in charge of that," he replied. "I think Uteritz has something to do with it."

Terms Not Revealed.

From another source it was learned that Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., chairman of the regents' committee on physical training, is the university's representative.

Thistlethwaite resigned a few months ago after five years at Wisconsin. He started at $7,500 a year and later was raised to $8,000. The terms offered Veenker were not revealed.

Veenker and Clark Shaughnessy, coach at Loyola of New Orleans, last week were mentioned as the leading candidates for the position. Shaughnessy went to Madison for a conference with athletic officials, but would not accept the terms offered him and returned to New Orleans.

Members of the athletic council continued their search for a coach Saturday and Sunday, with Veenker getting most of the support. In the meantime Coach Thistlethwaite had agreed to take over plans for spring practice, which is to begin April 13.

Develops Strong Teams.

The Badgers, provided the regents approve the appointment of Veenker, will get a coach who has demonstrated his worth at raising schools from the football doldrums.

When Veenker went to Iowa State last year from the University of Michigan, where he had been head basketball coach and assistant football coach, Iowa State had not won a football game in three years. But last season the Ames school finished second in the Missouri Valley conference, losing only to Nebraska.

Veenker, a graduate of Hope college, in Michigan, began his coaching career at Hammond, Ind., high school. He went to Froebel High of Gary in 1920 and became head coach at Emerson High school, Gary. During the first four years of his tenure Emerson was unbeaten in football, winning four Indiana high school championships.

Wins Big 10 Title.

In 1927 Veenker advanced from Emerson to the Western conference, going to Michigan as assistant coach in football and basketball. Ed Mather, the head basketball coach, died, and Veenker took over the position. In his first season, 1928-'29, his team won the Big Ten Championship, and the next year tied Wisconsin for the title.

Veenker's home town is Sioux City, Ia.

Veenker is No. 7 on the list of men offered the Wisconsin coaching position, a report from Madison said last night.

Crisler First to Get Bid.

The others approached, in order, were: Herbert O. [Fritz] Crisler, of Minnesota, who went to Princeton; Maj. Robert Neyland, Tennessee; Fred Morrison, Southern Methodist university; Dr. Clarence [Fat] Spears, Oregon; Harry Mehre, Georgia; and Shaugnessy.

Thistlethwaite, whose friends had started a movement in favor of his retention next season, is considering three offers. One is from a school in the Big Six conference and another from a school in the Missouri Valley league, it was said.

Duluth, Minn., March 21.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks defeated the Duluth Hornets tonight, 2 to 1, and clinched first place in the American Hockey league.

Mike Karakas, Chicago goalie, gave one of the best net tending exhibitions witnessed on the Duluth ice this season.

The Shamrocks were the first to score, the goal being made half way through the opening period. Riley picked up a loose puck in front of Goalie Turner and slapped it into the goal before the net minders could get set for the shot.

Tie Lasts 6 Minutes.

For two periods Karakas frustrated ever effort of the Hornets to pierce his guard. Early in the final period, however, Lessard circled the Chicago defense and cut in sharply for a short side shot which skidded off Karakas' pads into the cage.

The score remained tied for six minutes. Then Johnson followed the puck to the back boards and passed to Armand, who squeezed through the Duluth defense and batted the rubber past Goalie Turner. Lineup:

SET PLAYOFF DATES

Kansas City, Mo., March 21.—(AP)—Plans for the semi-final playoff in the American Hockey league between Kansas City and Duluth, with the first game to be played here Friday, were announced by league officials today.

The second playoff game will be played here March 28, the third in Duluth March 30, and the fourth, if necessary, in Duluth, April 1.

If the two teams break even, total goals will decide which team will meet the Chicago Shamrocks for the championship in a series starting April 3. Should there be a tie in goals, the fourth game will be prolonged until the series' winning goal is recorded.

GELBERT SIGNS AT $10,000; HAFEY ONLY HOLDOUT

Bradentown, Fla., March 21.—[Special.]—Charley Gelbert, St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, signed a contract for the 1932 season today. It is understood that the contract calls for $10,000. With the signing of Gelbert, Outfielder Chick Hafey remains as the only St. Louis holdout.

FANCY BOUNDERS WEARING CAPS TO EVENING FISTICUFFS!

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Sir Walter Gilbey, an English baronet, has uttered a strong protest against the slack sartorial habits of some of the riders in Rotten Row, London, and I am very glad he brought the matter up, because it emboldens me to speak out on a similar tendency among some of the riders in the New York subways, street cars and buses.

Sir Walter is a person of very high grade, his father having founded perhaps the largest gin business in the world. He is certainly not comparable to a New York bartender who sells Gilbey's by the dram, however, because no bartender doing business by the dram can hope to sell enough to qualify for an English baronetcy. I thought I ought to explain the difference.

My Word, How Shocking! And All That.

Riding in The Row, Sir Walter was fair shocked, that he was, to see thirty riders in various stages of dishabille, some being without hats, others in golf bloomers, some wearing sweaters and one incredible bounder wearing tan shoes with a blue suit.

He called a bobby and asked him to arrest them, but the policeman could only advise him to write a letter to the Cannot Something Be Done About This department, Whitehall, W. I., where it would be referred to the secretary in charge of the Who Gives a Damn division and dealt with in due course. This, I believe, Sir Walter has done, and I only hope the government lays plans to formulate a comprehensive scheme to take definite steps about it all.

The baronet based his complaint not only on aesthetic but also on patriotic grounds, deeming these offenses a disgrace to the royal park and the country, and one is almost moved to wish that gin were permitted in this country if only so that there might arise an American Gilbey to perform a similar service here.

And My Dear, What Will Foreigners Think?

"What," he demanded, "will foreigners think?" That is a thought for you. Mr. Englishman in the street, just as you, Mr. American man in the street, ought to be thinking what foreigners will think when they travel in the public transportation of our big cities and see not a mere thirty but thousands of persons so slack, so prideless that they present themselves in public wearing gray hats with brown suits, bowlers with soft collars, gray overcoats at night, and in some positively revolting cases, no overcoats at all but overalls, and only a few of them with the decency to carry sticks.

I wish Sir Walter, when the Who Gives a Damn division has attended to his protest and saved the empire, in due course could be induced to come to this country and look into the decline of dress among the patrons of the large prize fights and the six day bicycle race, Lecause here is another place where rot has set in since the demise of Tex Rickard and the decline of Radio common.

Only last week at Madison Square Garden, in the evening, mind you, I saw not one but a dozen or more persons wearing — (must I present affidavits to corroborate this?)—wearing caps and some of them sweaters and there were more chaps than I should care to have counted whose overcoats were plainly just some old rag which they had hastily reached out of their wardrobes, picking blind, no doubt, and grabbing the first coat that came to hand. It gave one to wonder whatever is going to become of us, and I hope I do not impose when I urge Sir Walter to give the American problem some thought because after all we are not bad customers of his.

One Really Must Not Hike Without Hiking Garb.

I can but view with alarm the recent careless tendency in the matter of dress.

There is, for instance, a suitable costume for hiking. In England, where the sartorial ideals come from, this costume consists of loose, baggy tweeds, a rough, knobby stick, rough, knobby boots, a careless sort of hat from the careless department of one's hatter [or is it harrerer?], a rough, knobby pipe with a fire-box about the size of a sugar bowl, and an airedale to leap and frisk about one as one pursues a jolly tramp through the heather and the gorse with the mist beating in one's face.

Will you believe me when I tell you the sort of costume I saw one day last week as I was tooling in my saloon coach along the Lincoln highway through New Jersey? I saw two creatures—I would not call them a lady and gentleman—walking along the highway. The male—he was a person of no breeding whatever—was carrying two big, sagging suit-cases. The female—and she was no lady, I assure you, or she never would have appeared as she was—had in her arms a baby wrapped in a blanket.

What, No Tweeds? Alas, Not a Single Tweed.

The male's trousers were not tweeds, and moreover they were torn. Neither was his coat a tweed and it was out at both elbows. In his favor, I may say that he wore no overcoat, which would have been a simply altogether too positively frightful a breach of form in one out for a jolly hike, but otherwise he violated every rule of good taste. Even to his shoes he was incorrect, for they were old, cracked patent leather pumps, not rough knobby boots, and I was aghast to note that he wore no socks.

The woman wore a disgraceful sweater, full of holes and pinned at the throat, her shoes were canvas sneakers and were wet from the highway, and her hat was quite out of order.

I stopped to reason with them.

"Well," the male person said, "setting down his suitcases and rubbing his arms, "we tried our luck in New York for a couple of weeks but we had a room in a place on the east side where there was rats. So a rat bit the baby's hand and my wife said we better move. So we are trying to make Washington."

I do not believe in charity because it weakens the will and self-reliance of the recipient, but, as a public service, I gave the chap a sixpence on his promise that he would at least get a shine. But, as I say, they were persons of no quality whatever and they probably squandered the money on gin, possibly Gilbey's.

U. S. Rules Out Beer, Wine as Olympic Diet

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—Beer and wine in the diet of foreign athletes at the Olympic games here this summer was placed under the ban of the federal prohibition department today by Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition administrator.

A. W. W. WOODCOCK

The law is the law, Woodcock said, regardless of any claim that the athletes use light alcoholic beverages in their training.

"Possession and transportation of liquor is a violation of the law," he continued, "and there is nothing in the act that would enable the prohibition director to extend immunity to visiting athletes. Only congress could extend immunity, and it would be interesting to determine whether congress could do so legally."

Woodcock will leave tomorrow for Washington, stopping at Denver.

BERG'S PUNCHES RAIN ON BROWN TO WIN VERDICT

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Jack [Kid] Berg, English boxer, came back to New York rings with his perpetual motion style of punching and his tireless energy in attack tonight, and won the decision over Buster Brown, Baltimore welterweight, in the ten round feature at the St. Nicholas arena.

His first effort here in seven months, Berg celebrated with an exhibition of sustained punching fury which grew in intensity as the bout progressed. It was a characteristic Berg demonstration. The Whitechapel boxer's innumerable punches lacked the finishing power, but what they lacked in quality they more than made up in quantity.

Chicago Woman Loses Aiken Golf Final, 4-2

Aiken, S. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Miss Alice Rutherford of Allamchy, N. J., defeated Mrs. James Simpson Jr. of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the finals of the Phelps Cup golf tournament today.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PHAR LAP.

PHAR LAP, which won the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap Sunday, will prove a welcome performer at middle western and eastern tracks where he is next scheduled to appear in stake performances. He will be especially welcome to the managements who fear current depression will affect both attendance and volume of play.

Presence of an international contender always adds interest to sports events. That is especially true of the turf, where such invasions are comparatively rare. More owners, no doubt, would ship to foreign countries except that the long trips and change of climate practically require a full racing season.

Few owners care to lose a home season of rich 2 year old and 3 year old fixtures for precarious results abroad. So such trips fall to older horses. Epinard, on his futile but admiration compelling campaign here a few years ago; Reigh Count and others in England proved the handicaps which even great horses face when away from home. So the temptation is small. A newcomer therefore acquires additional interest.

Phar Lap was hailed in advance as a great handicap horse, and this respect installed him favorite at Agua Caliente despite some expressed doubt on the part of his owners whether the Australian "Red Terror," as he already is nicknamed, was ready. While the field was not as formidable as the invader will meet later, any nag that can reel off one and one-quarter miles in 2:02 4-5 in his first start, if he trains on, will not take dust from many, if any, others.

Therefore, Phar Lap, supreme in Australia, second largest money earner in turf history and likely even to displace Sun Beau, has all the attributes to compel attendance at his next appearance. Take your own case, wouldn't you like to see this long striding fellow? So would we.

DEMPSEY FAILS TO STOP FOE IN BOUT AT TORONTO

TORONTO, Ont., March 21.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey failed to stop Joe Doktor, Buffalo heavyweight, in a four round no decision exhibition bout here tonight. The former champion battered Doktor savagely in the first two rounds but the Buffalo boy hung on and seemed almost as fresh as Dempsey when the final bell sounded.

At Miami, Fla.—Maxie Rosenbloom beat Willie Oster [12].

Martineau to Aid Crisler on Princeton Grid

Princeton, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—Earl Martineau, former backfield coach at Purdue, has been appointed assistant coach of football at Princeton university, it was announced tonight by Dr. Charles Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control.

EARL MARTINEAU.

Martineau is the third non-Princeton graduate to be named to the staff. H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, head coach, and Elton E. [Tad] Wieman are the others. Martineau will replace Jake Slagle as backfield coach while Wieman will take over the line duties of Stan Keck.

Martineau was graduated in 1924 from the University of Minnesota where he won three letters in both football and track. He captained the 1923 team and was considered one of the best half backs in Minnesota history. He was awarded the Big Ten conference medal for proficiency in scholarship and athletics that year.

He will report here for spring practice April 4.

BOROTRA GIVES FRENCH SPLIT IN TENNIS SERIES

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Jean Borotra, French Davis cup veteran, defeated Frank Shields of New York tonight to earn an even division of the spoils for his country in the opening session of the international tennis matches at the Seventh Regiment armory.

After Gregory Mangin of Newark, newly crowned national indoor tennis champion, had vanquished Christian Boussus in the inaugural engagement, 7-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, Borotra went out on the court on which he had received a decisive trouncing at the hands of Shields in 1931, to turn the tables on the young New Yorker, 6-8, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

Tomorrow night George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, indoor doubles champions, will oppose Borotra and Boussus.

SOX ARE JUST TOO TIRED; 8 ERRORS IN 2½ INNINGS

Regulars Beat Goofs, 9-7, but Do It with a Yawn.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 21.—The White Sox of Chicago were pretty tired after their arduous week-end of baseball victories over the San Antonio Indians, and it certainly showed in the intraclub contest, which the regulars won today, 9 to 7. The biggest evidence of fatigue was found in the fact that there were eight errors in the first two and a half innings.

Six of the errors were made by men who hadn't erred before this season. J. Smead Jolley, for instance, hadn't sinned, but today he sought to make a snap throw to catch a runner off first and almost snapped the ball against the right field fence. Moreover, J. Smead registered his first passed ball since taking up the catching profession. Jack Hayes, who had been playing like he didn't intend to make an error all year, booted two easy grounders within two minutes of each other. Manager Lew Fonseca, playing first base for the Goofs, also was among the tired ones.

Think of Crucial Schedule!

The misplays caused no great consternation, however, the feeling being rampant that it was a good thing to get the errors out of the system in a scrub game rather than to wait for the crucial games with Fort Worth, Dallas, Shreveport, Little Rock, and the other menacing minor league outfits selected for the Sox's stupendous pushover tour toward home.

The Sox cast remains intact, but it is held probable that there will be a heavy ivory shipment about Thursday, when the team breaks camp here and sets out for Fort Worth.

A feeling persists that in addition to disposing of excess players the Sox still have a chance to complete an important trade before the season opens. The names of Tony Lazzeri and Ralph Kress, frequently mentioned in winter gossip, recur in the new whisperings relative to probable Sox additions. Kress has been a holdout and has had no spring training, it is said, but Lazzeri is reported to be in great shape, though it is said that he will, as previously expected, have to yield to Salzgaver if he remains on the Yankee roster.

Anderson Has Perfect Day.

In the camp game today Hal Anderson finally came back as a batsman, following his first day of bench warming Sunday. Hal made a double, a single, a triple, and walked in four trips to the plate. Carey Selph made a homer and Lu Blue, Jolley, and Bobby Poser each made triples.

NEW YORK READY TO GREET C. Y. O. QUINTET MONDAY

New York, March 21.—(AP)—A committee headed by Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, and William F. Deegan, tenement house commissioner, will greet two teams of Chicago Catholic Youth basketball players next Monday and escort them to the city hall for the mayor's official welcome. St. Nicholas of Tolentine boys' band will also act as an escort.

The intercity games between Chicago and New York teams are to be held Wednesday night at the 102d Engineers armory.

WHAT'S A LITTLE SNOW TO GOLDEN GLOVES SQUAD?

Do Road Work on Time; Nate Leaves Team.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The final drive to prepare Chicago's Golden Gloves team for the bouts with New York in Madison Square Garden next Monday night was started yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. Despite the sleet and snow, the squad was chased outdoors in the morning for a long hike, and then in the afternoon all went through their daily dozen in the ring.

AL DE SCHEPPER.

"No boy who is more than one pound overweight Friday will be taken to New York." This was the ultimatum yesterday of Coaches Johnny Behr, Benny Yanger, and Jabber Young.

Nate Withdraws from Team.

One immediate result of this ruling was the resignation of Johnny Nate of South Bend from THE TRIBUNE team. Nate was runner-up in the flyweight division, and while he has been checking in each afternoon at 115 and 116 pounds, he did not believe he could get down to 113 for the intercity tests. It is the second year Nate has qualified for the team but has not competed against New York. In 1931 he was the flyweight alternate. Leo Rodak was the 112 pound champion and Jimmy Eliopolus fought in the second division.

Al De Schepper of Rockford, Ill. was chosen by the officials to replace Nate. He reported late yesterday and worked out in the gymnasium.

Richard Nooran, bantamweight alternate, also may not make the New York trip. His weight also is high. He scaled 121 pounds yesterday, the lowest since he reported at the I. A. C. Edward Sparrow, of Chicago, will join the team tomorrow and either Sparrow or Noonan will go to New York. Capt. Leo Rodak is the 118 pound champion and Bud Ginter is the runner-up.

Other Boxers Help Out.

Seven amateur boxers visited the Golden Gloves camp to give the team an extra stiff workout yesterday. Tony Sutton, Golden Gloves light heavyweight last year, who won one of the 13 fights for Chicago; Tony Muscarello, featherweight who made the same record; and Merrill Tonn, 1931 heavyweight alternate headed the list. Others were Joe Bernstein, Joe Palazolla, Charles Leninger, and Dave Hendrickson, a big heavyweight who gave Gene Klopack a busy three rounds.

Walter Karpinski, Vernon Miller, and Al Soukup continued on the hospital list, but their injuries did not prevent them from working out in the gymnasium and keeping their weight down.

Only three days remain for the boys to box before their departure for New York. The Friday morning workout will be on the road and in the gymnasium, followed by luncheon before the team boards a special section of the Twentieth Century. After a short stop at Toledo, O., for a brisk ten minute walk, the boys will continue to New York where on Saturday afternoon they will wind up their training.

Petrolle Aims at Knockout of Battalino

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Jack Hurley, manager of Billy Petrolle, regards the Fargo, N. D., veteran as a sure winner by a knockout at Madison Square Garden Thursday night—if Christopher [Bat] Battalino will fight. Pete Reilly, who manages Battalino by remote control, says he has no idea what Bat will do.

Ever since Battalino came out against Eddie Ran with his left glove tied to his jaw, he has become the style expert of the ring.

Hurley is announcing an open plan of campaign. If the Bat chooses to open up and fight, Petrolle hopes to deliver him to his seconds in about four rounds, but if the battler comes out playing peekaboo, with his arms wrapped about his chin—and Hurley expects this—then Billy says he will bore through Bat's defense. After straightening him up he means to belt him out.

KENOSHA PREP SWIMMERS FACE OMAHA SATURDAY

Kenosha, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—Kenosha High school's three year state swimming champions will make a bid for national fame by meeting Omaha, Neb. Boys' Tech at Omaha, Saturday.

The Omaha team last week won the Nebraska state title for the eighth successive year, and has piled up a record of 114 victories in eight years without a defeat, including 17 victories thus far this season.

Coach Lawrence E. Engle of Kenosha, will take a squad of 13. On its return from Omaha the team has scheduled a meet with Shorewood High school, winner of the 1932 Milwaukee Suburban league championship.

O'SHOCKER WILL MEET SPEARS AT RAINBO FRONTON

Pat O'Shocker, Irish heavyweight wrestler, will meet Frank Spears, former Georgia Tech football player, in one of the five matches to be presented by Promoter Joe Coffey next Tuesday night at the Rainbo Fronton.

The main event is between George Zaharias, Greek-American, and Hans Kampfer. They will wrestle two falls out of three.

Common Hen Used to Hatch Wild Ducks

BY BOB BECKER.

Within a few days game breeders, managers of game farms and farmers who raise ducks, pheasants and other birds of this type will be occupied with the details of the spring hatching season, a time when careful handling of their stock is required.

Since state conservation departments have been following the practice of distributing pheasant eggs to farmers and sportsmen groups to be hatched under barnyard hens, hundreds of people have had to dip into the science of rearing these gaudy game birds.

Raise Ducks as Hobby.

Many more are concerned with raising wild ducks and geese as thousands of these birds are required every year by sportsmen. Besides these commercial breeders hundreds of landowners raise waterfowl purely as a hobby.

A few days ago we asked Wallace Evans of St. Charles, Ill., a widely known breeder of pheasants, ducks and other birds, and Lloyd Johnson, manager of the Yorkville state game farm at Yorkville, Ill., to outline their methods in handling birds at this time of the year. The game farm is interested primarily in securing pheasants for stocking Illinois hunting country so the problem there is mainly one of egg production on a big scale.

Mr. Evans said that nearly all of the swans and wild geese in this country are reared by the parent stock with the best of results. A good many wild ducks also are reared by parent stock but "when quantity is desired best results are obtained by using barnyard hens for hatching and rearing."

Parents Rear Wild Geese.

The reason for furnishing ducklings with a foster mother is interesting as it goes back to the old question of vermin. Mr. Evans reports that with barnyard hens taking care of young ducks it is easier to cut down the losses from snapping turtles, rats, weasels and minks as the hens are much tamer than female wild ducks and thus can be better controlled and protected against vermin.

Owners of old breeding stock [swans, ducks, etc.] should feed the birds a special mixed ration for about a month before the laying and hatching season.

Care should be taken not to give the birds a food containing too much corn. Mr. Evans prescribes a crushed mixed grain ration [sometimes called a developing grain] with about 5 per cent beef scrap. These foods may be purchased almost at any food store.

Another word of advice to those who would raise game birds concerns the use of green foods. Mr. Evans said that all game birds need plenty of green stuff, such as celery leaves, and lettuce leaves if they do not have access to grass. This precaution means a large egg production and strong offspring.

Phar Lap Sure of Welcome on Chicago Turf

On June 28, 1913, he carried 139 pounds at Belmont Park and ran the mile and a quarter in 2 minutes flat. He was 6 years old at the time. The second fastest mile and a quarter was run by Sarazen at Latonia on Oct. 11, 1924. He was a 3 year old, carried 120 pounds and ran the mile and a quarter in 2:00 4-5, to beat the French champion Epinard a head.

It will be a shock to our ultra exclusive turf bodies if the owners of some of our race tracks under their jurisdiction begin to make wild bids and offer unheard of stakes for the Phar Lap, Twenty Grand, Mate combat. But remember this will be a race that most likely will surpass in interest the international struggles between Zev and Papyrus and the fights Epinard, the French champion, made against all the great horses in America.

Feeling Fine, Says Corbett; He'll See Battalino Fight

New York, March 21.—(AP)—"I'm feeling fine," said Jim Corbett, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, today in answer to a telephone inquiry as to his health.

"Of course, I'm not very spry and I have to watch about climbing stairs but otherwise I'm O. K." he said. "I'm going over to the Garden Thursday night to see Billy Petrolle and Battalino fight. There are no stairs to climb over there, you know."

Corbett, who is 65, is recovering at his Long Island home from complications following an attack of influenza. His heart has weakened by the influenza and his thyroid gland affected.

Heving Joins Indianapolis Mound Staff

Sarasota, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—Pitcher Joe Heving, last of the tribe of holdouts, arrived at the training camp of the Indianapolis American association baseball team today and participated in two drills. High winds forced Manager McCann to postpone a planned seven inning intra-club game.

COLONELS DRILL ON SIGNALS.

Mobile, Ala., March 21.—(AP)—The Louisville Colonels were given a drill on Signals today. Manager Bruno Betzel said the team members muffed several of his signals during the week end exhibition series with Washington, in which the Senators beat Louisville two out of three games.

STANFORD SWIM TEAM TO MEET PURPLE TONIGHT

Both Squads to Enter National Title Events.

Stanford university's swimming team, champion of the Pacific coast, will engage Northwestern at Patten gym tonight in the final dual meet of the season for the Purple. Following the meet both teams will entrain for the National Intercollegiate meet at Michigan.

An exhibition will be given by five members of the Illinois Women's Athletic club swimming team. The girl swimmers, several of whom are candidates for the Olympic team, are Evelyn Kennedy, Central A. A. U. diving champion; Ruth Fox, Hane Fry, Marilyn Lapin, and Emma Schemaitis.

Stanford will present a strong group of free style stars headed by Austin Clapp, member of the 1928 Olympic team and national A. A. U. 500 yard champion. Last year he was the Cardinal's lone entrant in the National Collegiates, taking first place in the 220 yard swim and second in the 440. Other stars are Capt. Frank Booth, back stroke; John McKelcey, John Gardner, and Ted Wiget, free style.

Coach Tom Robinson will present the same Northwestern team that won second place in the Big Ten championships two weeks ago. Merton Wilcox, Art Highland, and Bill Wilson free style; Hub Murphy, back stroke, and Frank Lennox, breast stroke, will be counted on to turn back the California stars.

68 SWIMMERS COMPETE

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—Entry lists for the National college swimming championships here Friday and Saturday closed today with 20 schools nominating 68 individuals. Michigan, defending champion, leads with 13 men. Northwestern and Princeton are second with eight each.

Preliminary heats in the 50 yard and 100 yard dashes will be run off Friday afternoon, starting at 2:30, as will the preliminaries in diving. The 1,500 meter event will be held with Hanna of Pittsburgh, Brock of Illinois and Cristy and Kennedy of Michigan entered.

The final entry list shows the following schools entered, each with the number of men designated: Michigan, 13; Northwestern and Princeton, eight; Illinois, Iowa and Standford, five; Bowdoin, four; Cincinnati, Minnesota and Ohio State, three; Rutgers, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, two; LaFayette, California, Columbia, Southern California, Nebraska, Pittsburgh and Purdue, one.

Three of the five Iowa entries are freshmen, while Illinois and Bowdoin each will enter a single freshman.

DAY'S VACATION IS HAPPY EVENT FOR WEARY CUBS

But Hornsby Spends It in Worrying.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—Rest came as a welcome respite for the Cubs today. The boys have been at their training or exhibition work daily for more than three weeks, so they didn't object when told they could sleep late and then roam the streets or go places.

Even Manager Hornsby, although a superman when it comes to working on the ball field, was glad to have a day to himself. It permitted him to ask himself some questions about his 1932 Cub model. He probably didn't figure out any satisfactory answers. Those will not be forthcoming until after the real race starts and then there are likely to be a few disappointments. That is what the manager expects, although he isn't saying it right out loud. However, he does do a lot of talking about how this or that hitter will go, so he must be worried, at least a bit.

Long Hits Are Rare.

It is a cinch, from what the Cubs have done to date in their barnstorming arguments, that they are not going to knock down any big league fences with their long drives. The outfield, no matter how it is finally put together from the talent now available, gives no promise of having a distance hitter such as it possessed when the team was at its height a few years back. Neither is the infield going to develop a standout on attack. There even is some reason to fear that either Billy Herman, the kid second sacker, or Stanley Hack, the high priced third base rookie, might not hit enough to warrant regular employment.

That Hornsby fears such an emergency may arise is evident by the fact that in the last couple of days he has appeared in games at both second and third base. He wants to keep himself in practice so as to be ready if there should be need of his services as a hitter. He's the only fellow on the squad capable of being a constant source of worry to the opposing pitcher.

Still Hope for Replacements.

There still is some hope, of course, that the hitting deficiency will be remedied by other means. Up to the time President William Veeck started back to Chicago last week he claimed he had made no move toward the possible purchase of Babe Herman, recently shipped to the Reds by Brooklyn. Neither would he admit having made any inquiries of the St. Louis Cardinals about getting Chick Hafey, now a holdout. Either would be a great help to the Cub cause.

If the needed help isn't obtained Hornsby undoubtedly will have to keep juggling his outfield from start to finish. The only certainty is Cuyler in center, and there is none better. Stephenson will be kept in left as long as his legs hold out. Barton is favored for right because of his home run tendencies, but what he has done after some lengthy instructions on how to use his bat, hasn't improved his chances to any extent. When Barton goes out it will be a case of putting in Lance Richbourg, the ex-Brave.

Back to Work Today.

The Cubs will go back to the factory tomorrow, meeting the Seals in the first of a week's series of exhibitions at the Frisco park. If the weather is suitable, Hornsby will give all of his veteran pitchers a chance to prove themselves over the nine inning route. Malone and Smith are the only first stringers who have gone that far this spring. The others, Bush, Root, and Grimes, insist that they are able to do it if necessary, but they aren't asking for the opportunity. They are trying to adhere strictly to the belief that the less they do now, the longer they'll last when the going becomes tough in mid season.

After finishing here, the Cubs will return to Los Angeles for a week of games against the Detroit Tigers and Pittsburgh Pirates. Then they'll start east, making stops at Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex., and Kansas City before arriving in Cincinnati to open the pennant sprint on April 12.

KIECKHEFER WINS FIRST 2 BLOCKS OF MATCH WITH HALL

Augie Kieckhefer, world title holder, won the first two blocks of his 12 block, 600 point three cushion match from Allan Hall at the Kieckhefer Recreation rooms yesterday, and now leads, 100 to 57, in 76 innings. Kieckhefer won, 50 to 27 in 40 innings, in the afternoon. He had a high run of 13 to Hall's 10. Kickhefer won last night, 50 to 30, in 36 innings. His high run was 8 to Hall's 4.

The third and fourth blocks will be played today at Mussey's Wabash avenue room. Play will alternate each of the six days of the series.

Kieckhefer was leading, 18 to 16, in 15 innings, last night when he started his drive, making 20 points in the next 9 innings. He finished with 3 in the 35th and a run of 6 in the 36th.

6TH CORPS AREA QUINTET LOSES TO FORT BRADY, 49-7

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—(AP)—Fort Brady of Michigan and Scott Field of Illinois won easy victories over Jefferson Barracks and the headquarters detachment of the Sixth Corps area from Chicago tonight in the opening first round basketball games of the indoor military athletic meet at Jefferson barracks.

The Scott Field quintet from Belleville trounced Jefferson Barracks, 42 to 13, leading all the way and holding a 24 to 7 advantage at the half. The Fort Brady team from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., romped away with a 49 to 7 victory over the headquarters detachment quintet from Chicago, with Skelton making 19 points for Fort Brady to lead as high scorer.

THIL DEFEATS HOOD.

PARIS, March 21.—(AP)—Marcel Thil, French middleweight, outpointed Jack Hood of England in their 12 round match here tonight.

Yankees Pound Dean for Six Runs; Beat Cardinals, 11-3

Bradenton, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Falling on Dizzy Dean for six runs in the third inning and continuing their attack in the sixth off Kaufmann and Carleton, the New York Yankees pounded out an 11 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today.

VERNON GOMEZ.

The world champions were held to nine scattered hits by Gomez and Rhodes, the former working five innings. The Cards scored all of their runs off Gomez as the result of a rally in the fourth.

Jorgens, Yankee catcher, led both teams in hitting with four hits and a walk in five times at bat. Lou Gehrig came through with a home run in the big third inning and Crosetti tagged one of Kaufmann's offerings for a homer. Score:

INDIANS BEAT PELICANS, 7-4.

New Orleans, La., March 21.—(AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans bobbled the ball four times in the fifth inning here today to allow the Cleveland Indians to win an exhibition baseball game, 7 to 4.

The game was called in the seventh because of rain. Monty Pearson, Indian pitcher, hit a home run. Score:

BROWNS DEFEAT BUFFALO, 15-12.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—In a wild game, filled with heavy hitting, the St. Louis Browns beat Buffalo of the International league here this afternoon, 15 to 12. Jack Burns, with three doubles and two stolen bases, was one of the stars. Bob Cooney pitched effective ball for four innings, but weakened in the fifth. Fred Vincent, who followed him, was pounded hard. Score:

A'S WHIP REDS AGAIN, 7-4.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—An even dozen large and small hits gave the Philadelphia Athletics their second straight victory over the Cincinnati Reds today. The score was 7 to 4.

Lefty Grove pitched the first five innings and was thumped for three runs in the third when Roettger and Crabtree singled, Heathcote doubled, and Heath hit a homer to center field.

Cain succeeded Grove and held the Reds scoreless until two were out in the ninth. Bluege singled and another Heathcote double scored him. Ed Coleman hit a homer for the A's in the second inning. Score:

BRAVES, 2; DODGERS, 0.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—With Bob Brown and Ben Cantwell holding the Dodgers to three hits, the Boston Braves defeated Brooklyn, 2 to 0, in an exhibition baseball game today.

Brown, a recruit right hander, pitched six innings and gave only one hit, a single by Glenn Wright. Stripp and Boone connected with the other two hits off Cantwell.

Both of the Braves' runs were made off Van Mungo, who pitched seven innings. Mattingly finished the game on the mound for the losers. Score:

GIANTS DOWN TIGERS, 12-8.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—Amassing 11 runs in the sixth, seventh, and eighth innings off Bridges and Sewell, the New York Giants defeated Detroit, 12 to 8, today.

Detroit went into the sixth with a 6 to 1 lead and added another tally before the Giants broke loose with all their power. Terry singled infield, Ott and Jackson walked. Then three runs came home when Vergez and Leslie singled and Vergez scored on Critz's fly to center. Ott hit a home run to add three more runs in the seventh, tying the score.

A single, a double, a walk and an error increased the total to 12 runs in the eighth. Score:

DICK BARTELL IS FATHER.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Today was an off day for the Philadelphia Nationals in the spring schedule of training camp games, but they kept active by workouts in the morning and afternoon.

The Phils will go to Fort Myers tomorrow for a clash with the Philadelphia Athletics, the second meeting of the two Quaker City teams in the training period.

Dick Bartell brightened up the camp today with broad smiles and handfuls of cigars, which he passed around. The reason for his joy was the birth of a seven pound five ounce boy to Mrs. Bartell in Oakland, Cal., yesterday.

SENATORS ON SICK LIST.

Biloxi, Miss., March 21.—(AP)—The Washington Senators still counted some members on the sick list today as they entered the fifth week of training.

Catcher Roy Spencer, suffering from a malaria attack, was ordered by the doctor not to don his uniform and was put on a quinine diet after running a 102 temperature Saturday night.

Pitcher Fred Marberry is back with the team but still is a bit shaky after a touch of the grippe and stomach trouble. Another hurler, Lloyd Brown, was present but just running around the lot, as his arm needs watching.

BLIZZARD HALTS OUTDOOR DRILL OF MONMOUTH NINE

Monmouth, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—The spring blizzard which struck Monmouth today caused indefinite postponement of outdoor drills for the Monmouth college baseball team. Practice was scheduled to begin this week.

More than 20 men, including six letter winners on last year's nine, have been working indoors for two weeks. Indoor facilities do not permit batting or fielding practice.

The opening game is scheduled April 12. Schedule:

April 12, Western State Teachers at Macomb; April 16, Western State Teachers here; April 23, Illinois college at Jacksonville; April 28, Northwestern university at Evanston; May 2, Northwestern university here; May 6, Eureka here; May 11, Bradley at Peoria; May 14, Eureka at Eureka; May 18, Illinois college here; May 24, Western State Teachers at Macomb; May 27, Bradley here.

FORM GOLF LEAGUE.

West Frankfort, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—Preliminary plans for the organization of a golf league were made here at a meeting yesterday. The league will include West Frankfort, Benton, Mount Vernon, Marion, Fairfield, Midland Hills, and Harrisburg.

N. B. A. to Place Lifetime Ban on Ring Racketeers

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association, explained yesterday that certain managers and boxers are trying to make boxing a racket and arrange fake matches with a full understanding between the contestants beforehand. He said the N. B. A. has a complete record of every fighter, with identification photos, ratings, names of managers, and copies of existing contracts, and any promoter can have them upon request.

He also suggested that commissions, which may not have a complete file or full information as to the ability and integrity of boxers, apply by letter or wire in order to safeguard the public against unscrupulous managers and promoters. Whenever a mismatch or fake battle is foisted upon the fans all parties to the affair will be called before the commission and suspended for life, he said.

Chicago Stadium representatives announced yesterday that there will be no show at the west side arena until April 15, when Jackie Fields defends his welterweight title against Jimmy McLarnin, if one stipulation can be straightened out.

The one clause in the contract that McLarnin is opposed to is that Jimmy must give Fields a return bout if Fields is defeated.

It also was announced that Mickey Walker has signed to meet George Nichols at the Stadium April 29, but Nichols wired last night that his left hand is in a cast and he cannot go through with the combat.

George Getz, member of the Illinois Athletic commission, has left for Phoenix, Ariz., it was learned yesterday. He will vacation in Phoenix two or three weeks. He expects to return for the opening of the baseball season April 12.

Ray Trambile, Chicago middleweight, was compelled to delay his arrival from West Palm Beach, Fla., until today because of the snowstorm yesterday. He has wired approval of the ten round match against Jack Kilbourne, middleweight champion of Australia, at White City next Monday. Kilbourne started training at the Arcade gymnasium yesterday.

Rock Island, Minneapolis, Ottawa, Danville, and Milwaukee, amateur officials informed the Central A. A. U. boxing committee yesterday that they will send full teams to compete in the Olympic ring trials and boxing championships at Loyola university gymnasium April 5 to 8. Mike Dundee, featherweight and junior lightweight star for the last decade, will coach the Rock Island boxers. F. W. Kahler, Minneapolis A. A. U. commissioner, announced that a two night tournament between St. Paul and Minneapolis entries will be held at Minneapolis next week and the winners will compete in the Loyola tournament. The deadline for entries is March 30 at Central A. A. U. headquarters, 538 South Clark street.

Intercollegiate championships will be decided in a tournament at the Chicago stadium May 6 and 7, Edwin Felt, chairman of the boxing committee of the Amerian Legion of Cook county, announced last night. It will be an invitational tourney and 32 of the best college boxers will battle.

Lou Scozza, Buffalo light-heavyweight, is trying to force George Nichols into defending his newly won 175 pound crown against him because of a contract for a bout between Scozza and Nichols at Buffalo March 22. As Nichols is a natural 165 pound boxer, every match in which he engages with light-heavyweights will be a title encounter. He is not compelled to defend the championship until Sept. 18. The New York commission allowed George to break the contract to combat Scozza, because of the championship engagement with Dave Maier March 18.

NATIONAL POLO ENTRIES TO PLAY IN ROUND ROBIN

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—A round robin will decide the winner in the open division of the national indoor polo championship this year. The winner in former years was determined in an elimination tournament.

The four teams entered are Los Nanduces, Yale, Optimists, and the Brooklyn Riding club. However, in the other classes, A, B, C, and D, the champions will play in an elimination tournament. The meet will open at Madison Square Garden on March 29.

Charles Murphy to Lead Quintet Against Loyola

Charles (Feed) Murphy will lead his teammates on the 1928-'29 Loyola university basketball team against the Loyola 1931-'32 squad tonight at Loyola university gymnasium. In a preliminary game St. Ignatius of the C. Y. O. will meet St. Gertrude.

Stewart, Montana State Sports Director, Resigns

Missoula, Mont., March 21.—(AP)—John Stewart, for ten years director of athletics at Montana State university, today tendered his resignation to President C. H. Clapp.

33 TRACKMEN SEEK PLACES ON BELOIT SQUAD

Beloit, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—Thirty-three varsity trackmen are working out at Beloit college in preparation for the opening of the season April 2. Six lettermen are on the squad, of whom Capt. Stewart Glover, Dudley Porter and Clarence Amenoff are outstanding.

A large number of sophomores, many of whom show promise, is responsible for the size of the turnout.

Bayard, Fla., March 21.—[Special.]—The six furlong track record at St. John's park was twice broken here today as the 10 day meeting of the Florida Jockey club got under way. Jaz Age, owned and trained by John Parmalee, lowered the record the second time in the St. John's handicap, the day's feature, when he was timed in 1:13 2-5. The mark first was broken in the second event, when H. A. Coulson's Donny Johnny was clocked in 1:13 3-5.

Rain fell in the course of the afternoon, making the track sloppy, but it still was fast when the ten thoroughbreds paraded for the feature. Street Singer was made the favorite, despite Jaz Age's fine record of six victries and two seconds in eight Florida starts previous to today. The winner returned $8.60 for $2.

Flag Bearer Leads Field.

The start was a good one with Chatford first away closely attended by Flag Bearer. Flag Bearer flashed a great turn of early speed and soon was four or more lengths in front of his field and going easily. Jockey J. Leyland urged Jaz Age to contention and at the swing into the stretch they went to the outside of Flag Bearer.

Flag Bearer went very wide on the swing to the stretch and as he bore out he carried Jaz Age with him. Leyland never let up on his mount and the gelded son of Great Jaz and Elga responded courageously and kept coming on. It was head and head right to the wire with Jaz Age getting the victory by a head. Street Singer was third, half a length farther back.

Numbers Posted Incorrectly.

There was a flurry of excitement when the numbers were posted showing Uluniu second and Flag Bearer not in the first four. Subsequently an announcement was made, rectifying the error, and the numbers changed. Uluniu was placed sixth.

Trainers H. S. Hart and Joseph Edwards scored doubles on the day as did Jockeys Eddie Barnes and G. Riley. Hart saddled Wave Top and Coots, both of which were ridden by Barnes. Edwards sent Red Face and Judge Caverly to the post, while Riley had the leg up on Chicsu and Judge Caverly.

SOLEM SIGNS AT IOWA AND MEETS WITH PLAYERS

Iowa City, Ia., March 21.—[Special.]—Ossie Solem, newly appointed University of Iowa football coach, today signed a three year contract, which was approved by the Hawkeye athletic board.

The board met late this afternoon at the same time that Solem called a meeting of some 40 Hawkeye football candidates. He asked that equipment be issued to candidates for spring football, which will start under his direction April 2. Spring drill will be held on week-ends only until May 2, when the former Drake coach will inaugurate several weeks of daily practice sessions.

Dr. E. H. Lauer and Solem conferred for two hours this afternoon regarding the question of assistant coaches, but no definite decision was reached. It is thought that Solem will bring two men to assist him at Iowa.

MRS. HILL TIES COURSE RECORD TO LEAD FIELD

Greensboro, N. C., March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, marked up another win on her long record of golf achievements today when she shot a 76 over the Sedgfield Country club course to lead the large field competing in the opening season tournament of the Piedmont Women's Golf association. Her score equaled the women's record for the course.

Mrs. Tom Wallace of Sapulpa, Okla., carded 82 for second. The third low gross of the day fell to Mrs. R. E. Drennan of Tulsa, Okla., Oklahoma women's champion, with 84.

National Duckpin Meet Opens Today at Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., March 21.—[Special.]—The national duck pin bowling congress will open here tomorrow with 300 eastern teams entered. The meet will continue until April 9. The Rosebuds of Bridgeport, Conn., will defend their team title, while the Blick Girls of Washington will seek their second consecutive championship in the women's division.

Postpone Fronton Mat Matches to April 5

On account of the snowstorm the light heavyweight wrestling card scheduled for last night at the Rainbo Fronton was postponed by Promoter C. R. Higgins. The same card, featuring Lou Talaber against Ray Carpenter, will be held on April 5.

Rosenbloom Wins Over Oster in 12 Round Bout

Miami, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom of New York, former light heavyweight champion, won a 12 round decision over Willie Oster of Boston tonight. Rosenbloom lost only one round, the sixth, in which Oster used a neat left hook.

LIGHTNING OF THE TURF

Phar Lap, winner of the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap, exhibits his 27 foot stride. The big Australian horse, whose name means Lightning in Javanese, will show Chicagoans how he eats up ground in rich stake races this summer.

Chicago Pair Rolls Second in A.B.C. Meet

Detroit, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—Two Chicago youngsters registered high doubles game and took second place in the two man event in the American Bowling congress tournament today.

After opening with a mediocre 384 count, Johnny Bucz and Mike Straka scored 508, both men going on a strike rampage, Bucz shooting 243 and Straka 265. A 382 finish gave them 1,274, four pins back of Harold Reitmeyer and Harold Cook, Irvington, N. J., who had taken the lead earlier in the day with a 1,278 count.

Though the Windy City men have been bowling only four years, it was their third national tourney. J. Kubina and A. Slanina were second best in the doubles event among the Chicago entries, counting 1,170. Slanina was high in the singles event. After 189 and 191 he turned in 242 for 622.

Al Rudinsky, Dover, N. J., grabbed the all-events lead from Mike Shirghio, New York, with an aggregate of 1,973. The leaders:

DAMEN CONQUERS HENNEPIN, 33-22, IN K. C. PLAYOFF

Decide Title in West Division of League.

Damen Knights of Columbus basketball league champion, won the title of the west division last night by beating Hennepin, 33 to 22, for the second time in two days. The contest was a playoff of the tie brought about when Damen defeated Hennepin Sunday afternoon in the final West Division contest.

Hennepin took an early lead, but with Budrick, Kluchinskas, and Barak scoring baskets from all angles, Damen went out in front just before the end of the first half, 16 to 14, and held the advantage the rest of the way.

O'Connell, runner-up for the league title last year, qualified for the championship round by defeating University, 20 to 15, in a playoff for third place in the North Division. Lineups:

Blackhawks Practice Today for First Stanley Cup Game

The Chicago Blackhawks, who qualified for the Stanley cup playoffs Sunday, finishing in second place in the American division of the National Hockey league, will return to the Stadium today to begin practice for their first post-season series game.

Dates of the series depend on the outcome of the Canadiens-Toronto Maple Leaf game in Montreal tonight. The Hawks will meet the loser of this game, which decides the first and second place winners in the Canadian division. By rules of the playoff, the Hawks meet the second place winner.

The Blackhawks will play one of their playoff games at the Stadium next Sunday night. If the Canadiens lose to Toronto the Hawks will start their series Thursday night in Montreal, with the second game here Sunday. Victory for the Canadiens or a tie tonight will make the Maple Leafs the Hawks' opponents, and the series will open here Sunday, with the second game in Toronto next Tuesday.

Rules for Playoffs.

The playoff series are decided on the total goals scored in home and home games. Should the Hawks outscore their Canadian opponents in the next two games, they will play the winners of the third place series two games. Total goals will also decide this play. The winner then will meet the winner of the three game series between the New York Rangers and the victor of tonight's Canadien-Toronto game for the Stanley cup.

The third place team in the American division will be decided tonight in the Bruins-New York Americans game at Boston and the Falcon-New York Ranger game at Detroit. Boston, a perennial playoff entry, has only an outside chance of qualifying. It must defeat the Americans, while Detroit loses. A tie game at Detroit or victory for the Falcons will make it impossible for Boston to enter the playoffs.

Gardiner Appears O. K.

Coach Iverson rested the Blackhawks yesterday, following the 1 to 0 victory over Boston at the Stadium Sunday night. A checkup of the athletes revealed all hands in shape to start practice today. Chuck Gardiner, who played with nine stitches in his head Sunday, seemed none the worse for his experience and will be able to practice daily the rest of this week. A regulation football headgear and yards of bandages prevented further injury to Gardiner's head, which was cut by a flying puck at Toronto last Saturday.

EIGHT TEAMS TO SEEK OLYMPIC LACROSSE BERTH

Baltimore, Md., March 21.—[Special.]—The United States Olympic lacrosse team will be picked in a series of contests in Baltimore, New York, and Washington, it was announced today by Charles Ornstein, chairman of the Olympic lacrosse committee.

Eight teams will be selected to participate in the tournament. The first games will be played in New York and Baltimore on June 11. The semi-finals will be held in Washington on June 18. The site of the finals will be determined later.

SETTLE TIES TONIGHT

Championship of the central division of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league and second place in the south end division will be decided tonight when ties are played off at White City.

Madonna and Lafayette, which finished the divisional race in a deadlock, will battle for the central section title. In their previous meeting this season Lafayette scored a one point victory. San Salvador and St. Philip Neri will meet in the south end section battle for runner-up position.

Three games will be played Sunday to open the league's 16th annual championship series at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets. Perez of the south division will meet Marquette of the north in the first contest. The loser of the Lafayette-Madonna game will play Aquinas of the south division in the second game, while the winner of the San Salvador-St. Philip Neri tilt meets the loser of last night's Damen-Hennepin battle in the windup.

Springfield and Decatur Seeking State Golf Meets

The tournament committee of the Chicago District Golf association has received invitations from two downstate clubs interested in sponsoring the second annual Illinois state professional and amateur championships the week of June 13.

They are the Country club of Decatur at Decatur, and the Illini Country club at Springfield. Both courses are reported in good condition, and are ideally located for the state championships.

The next step of the District Golf association will depend on the decision of the tournament committee members, who will look over the two courses as soon as weather conditions permit.

Last year Warren Dawson of the Green Valley Country club in Wheaton was the first state champion and the first to win the Gov. Louis L. Emmerson trophy, which remains in the possession of his club for one year.

Abe Espinosa of Medinah is the professional state champion.

PREP GRID STARS ENTER RELAY AT A.A.U. TRACK MEET

Stars of Chicago's high school football teams are entered in the Central A. A. U. track and field championships at the 124th field artillery armory in Washington park, March 30.

Harrison Tech, Parker, Tilden, and Schurz high schools, sectional winners, have entered teams in the football relay, one of the features of the meet.

Four men will run on each team and a football will be passed instead of the usual baton. Each man will carry the ball a quarter of a mile. The teams follow:

Tilden, Lenhart, McNulty, Goechel, and Postaer; Schurz, Bechtold, Huissen, Schwarz, Thorses, and Ehrlich; Parker, Ray, Taylor, Lundin, Tufts, Schoop, and Elliott; Harrison, Pilney, Puplis, Horvath, Rabetz, Modell, and Loenetti.

SNOW PREVENTS FOOTBALL DRILL AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 21.—[Special.]—A four inch fall of snow today shattered whatever hopes Coach Harry Kipke had of getting the Michigan football squad out on Ferry field this week. Kipke had planned to take the group of sixty-seven men out tomorrow afternoon. Because of the snow it appears now that he will have to lengthen the spring program and keep the squad at work through the first week in May.

SEARS TO BUILD THREE STORES IN GOTHAM AREA

Each to Cost Around $1,000,000.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Several years of successful operations of department stores in the Chicago district has lead Sears, Roebuck & Co. to lay plans for entering the New York metropolitan area. Gen. Robert E. Wood, president, announced yesterday that three new retail stores will be built in Brooklyn, Hackensack, and Union City, N. J.

Ground for the new buildings, which will cost about $1,000,000 each, already has been acquired, architects are working on the plans and it is planned to erect the stores next summer. The stores will have three stories and basements, with adjacent automobile parking lots. In addition to initial building costs, Sears-Roebuck will spend about $4,000,000 for fixtures and equipment for the new units. Each store will handle about 48,000 articles, grouped in 12 specialty shops.

It would seem that the present plan follows that tried out successfully in Chicago, where the company started with stores in the outlying neighborhoods and suburbs and only within the last three weeks opened a big store on State street. If the eastern stores prove equally successful, the company may seek to enter New York City. The company now has 381 retail stores throughout the United States.

Montgomery Ward Plan.

Montgomery Ward & Co., another big factor in the mail order and chain store field, has worked out an operating reorganization under Sewell L. Avery, recently elected chairman and president. It will separate the retail and mail order divisions in a way to permit each to function with maximum efficiency in its own field.

The company will divide its territory into six regions, each of which will have a regional sales manager. Each region will have one or more mail order houses and eighty or more retail stores. The stores in each region will be allocated among eight to eleven districts, each containing seven to twelve stores. Each region will have a retail manager and a mail order manager, both reporting to a regional sales manager but functioning independently.

A headquarters organization will be maintained in Chicago consisting of three departments, merchandising, operating and financial. Each department will have a vice president in charge, but all will be under general supervision of Mr. Avery.

Woolworth Sales.

Introduction of higher priced merchandise by the chain stores of the F. W. Woolworth company has proved a success. This represents a change in an ironclad policy pursued for more than half a century. Although the new merchandise is priced at only 20 cents, compared with a range of 5 to 10 cents heretofore, it has brought a decided expansion in sales, according to President H. T. Parsons.

In the fifty stores from which initial reports have been received, the actual percentage of the 20 cent business being done is approximately 30 per cent of the total business. This, Mr. Parsons said, exceeds by 10 per cent the most optimistic estimate of 20 per cent, which had been the consensus of executive opinion before it was decided to ship the higher priced merchandise to 100 of the Woolworth stores.

Geographically the 50 stores so far reporting lie in the south, the southwest and the west. The largest measure of improvement has come from the south. As a result of the experiment the higher priced merchandise is to be introduced in other stores of the chain.

BANKERS BUY MORE U. S. BONDS, REPORT SHOWS

Further contraction of loans and large purchases of government securities are shown by the large city banks that make weekly reports to the federal reserve board. These banks in the week ended March 16 reduced their loans on securities by $13,000,000 and their commercial loans by $35,000,000. They increased their investment in government securities by $312,000,000 and other securities by $19,000,000. While net demand deposits in these banks increased $22,000,000, their time deposits declined $27,000,000. Their borrowings from the reserve banks declined $69,000,000.

MAGMA COPPER HAS $206,225 NET PROFIT FOR THE LAST YEAR

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Consolidated net profit of $206,225 after federal taxes, reserves, depreciation and other charges was reported today by Magma Copper company and subsidiaries for 1931. The net profit was equal to 50 cents a share on 408,155 capital shares outstanding.

The profit compares with consolidated net profit of $1,019,990, or $2.50 a share on capital stock in 1930.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, including $3,770,066 in cash, United States government bonds, and other marketable securities at cost, were $5,123,158 and current liabilities $298,481. This compares with current assets of $5,414,464, including $3,840,618 in cash and marketable securities and current liabilities of $545,491 at the end of 1930.

Total current assets giving effect to shrinkage in value of marketable securities owned as of Dec. 31, last, would be $3,853,791, against $751,378 at the end of 1930.

Laws to Aid Merchants Reduce Trade

BY SCRUTATOR.

In many sections of the country there has been agitation for laws to prohibit utility companies selling gas and electric household appliances.

This movement has been supported by a number of interests entirely dissociated from each other. There are hard pressed hardware and electrical store dealers who find business bad and resent the competition of big utility companies in the merchandising of appliances. And there are also the erstwhile advocates of public ownership who find that cause slipping and are groping for other means of soaking the utilities.

Most of the noise has been made by the latter, with the result that the issues have been pretty well clouded in the public mind. In a number of cities there have sprung up publications whose sole aim seems to be to promote legislation to drive the utilities out of the merchandising field. There has been considerable mystery about the real backing of these publications.

Kansas, Oklahoma Act.

In Kansas and Oklahoma anti-utility merchandising laws already have been enacted. In these states the utilities apparently didn't put great power into their opposition, and the measures passed without much ado. Since then, however, there has been a growing demand for repeal.

The laws have not fulfilled the promises that preceded their enactment. Sales of small independent dealers have not increased. The result has been just more laws to interfere with business.

"Who benefited by the passage of the law?" demanded Earl Fickertt, editor of the Peabody (Kas.) Gazette-Herald, in a talk at a recent meeting of the Kansas Press association. "So far as I can learn the chain stores are now selling 48 per cent of the appliances formerly sold by the utility companies, department stores 15 per cent, specialty stores 12 per cent, contractors 15 per cent, battery and tire dealers 8 per cent, hardware stores 1 per cent, and furniture dealers 1 per cent.

"The business formerly held in the smaller towns by the utility companies is now going largely to the chain and department stores of the larger cities."

Repeal of Law Urged.

At the same meeting the Kansas Press association unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"On the grounds of depriving cities and towns of adequate service and contributing to empty storerooms and unemployment, we urge the repeal by the next legislature of the law known as the public utility merchandising act, believing its operation has been a detriment rather than a benefit to our communities."

Out in California they didn't wait for the lawmakers to pounce. The Southern California Edison company, acting on a request from dealers in Long Beach, discontinued the direct selling of appliances in October, 1930. The retailers had contended that they were in a position to do as good or a better job of load building. The Edison company matched dollar for dollar with the dealers in promotional advertising and continued to maintain a display of appliances at its own offices. All prospects were referred to dealers.

Sales Volume Decreases.

What happened? In eleven months of 1931 a total of 86 electric ranges were sold, 59 by dealers and 27 by contractors. In the corresponding period of 1930 a total of 372 ranges had been sold, 11 by dealers, 141 by contractors, and 220 by the Edison company. These figures were compiled by K. I. Dazey, managing director of the Pacific coast electrical bureau, whose membership includes manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, contractor-dealers, and utilities.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES FIRM IN QUIET TRADING

Stocks maintained a firm tone in yesterday's quiet trading on the Chicago exchange. Moderate net gains were chalked up for a number of issues and recessions which developed were small.

Commonwealth Edison scored an advance to 90½ on moderate sales while other utility shares showed little change. Middle West Utilities was actively traded at its previous price while the company's notes were quoted slightly higher on the New York Curb.

An odd lot transaction in Telephone Bond & Shares resulted in a 3½ point decline. The issue closed at 34½ against its previous quotation of 38. Automotive accessory shares were in fair demand with Borg Warner and Bendix each finishing slightly higher.

U. S. Packs 75 Per Cent of World's Salmon Supply

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—United States salmon packers supplied 75 per cent of the world supply of canned salmon during 1931. The commerce department announced today 9,018,121 standard cases of 48 one-pound cans were packed by the fisheries of the world during the year. This was a decrease of 14 per cent as compared with 1930 and of 8 per cent from the five-year average. Alaska supplied 5,403,811 cases, and Pacific coast states 1,336,234 cases. In 1930 the United States supplied 58 per cent of the total world pack and for the years 1926 to 1930 inclusive 66 per cent of the average pack.

WORLD'S SUGAR PACT REACHED, WORD IN PARIS

PARIS, March 22 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—The International Sugar council was reported today to have reached a production and export agreement for 1933 after a long deadlock over Cuban and Japanese quotas.

Official details of the agreement were not immediately available, but probably will be made public later today.

The problem of the council has been to reconcile the two largest sugar producers of the world, and the point of difference has been the Javanese demand on Cuba to restrict further her production, and the request of Cuba that the Javanese reduce their export quota under the Chadbourne restriction plan.

When the sugar producers met at Brussels last month Java agreed to a 1933 export quota of 1,350,000 tons provided Cuba would consent to limit her 1932 production to 2,350,000 tons. European and Peruvian producers agreed to reduce their 1932 export quotas by 15 per cent if this general agreement was made. Cuba declined.

Cuba Reported Opposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, March 21.—The National Sugar Stabilizing institute will request congress tomorrow to abrogate all existing legislation curtailing the production and export of sugar in accordance with the Chadbourne plan and the Brussels treaty, thus restoring production freedom and annulling government interference in the industry.

The institute likewise will officially notify congress that Cuba has already taken steps to abrogate the pact and the Chadbourne plan because of Java's failure to coöperate.

WIEBOLDT INC. HAS $56,419 NET LOSS FOR LAST YEAR

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., reports a net loss of $56,419 for the fiscal year ended Jan 30 in the annual statement issued last night. The loss included $75,000 additional write-off in the installment accounts of the wholesale department, a division which was discontinued two years ago. In the preceding year the company had net operating loss of $102,400 and a deficit after dividends of $293,600. No statement of surplus was made public with the 1931 statement.

Net sales of the company last year were $21,325,919, including the sales of the south town store for the full year, as compared with $21,262,025 in 1930 which included sales of the south store for only a portion of the year. Werner A. Wieboldt, president, said that in view of the reduced retail prices the volume was considered satisfactory.

General Electric Cuts "White Collar" Employes

Schenectady, N. Y., March 21.—(AP)—A 10 per cent income cut for all "white collar" employés of the General Electric company who are on fixed salaries will become effective April 1, it was said at the general offices today. Executives and administrative employés as well as clerks and other office workers are affected. The reduction is the first affecting the "white collar" workers of the company.

Transvaal Gold Output Sets the Highest Record

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 21.—(AP)—Arthur French, in his presidentiol address before the Transvaal chamber of mines, today said the output of the Transvaal gold mines in 1931 was £46,000,000, more than £500,000 above the previous record output. Assuming that Mr. French reckoned the output on the gold bar basis of sterling, it was approximately $228,880,000.

PENNSYLVANIA R. R. CUTS PENSIONS 10% STARTING ON APRIL 1

Philadelphia, Pa., March 21.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad company today announced that it "has been regretfully compelled to call upon its pensioned employés to share in the efforts which have been instituted over the entire railroad to decrease expenses."

"Effective April 1," the company announced, "reduction of 10 per cent will be made in all pensions, except in cases where the decrease would result in a payment of less than $50 per month.

"The reduction will bring pensions in line with the decrease of 10 per cent already effected in all wages and salaries. A second reduction of 10 per cent in all officers' salaries will become effective April 1.

"As the cost of living in the past 2½ years has fallen much more than the decrease in pensions and wages, the actual purchasing power of both retired and active employés will continue at a level higher than that of 1929."

This is the first time since the pension system was started in 1900 that retired employés have been asked to take a cut in their pensions. Under the Pennsylvania's regulations employés are retired when they reach 70 years. Clerical forces on a monthly basis employed in the offices in Philadelphia will take off two days without pay each month beginning April 1.

SHORTS NERVOUS AS THEY WAIT FOR NEW RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Though anything in the way of really definite information on the return of new stock loan agreements, necessary under the stock exchange ruling which becomes effective April 1, is difficult to obtain, it is reported that leading houses have been receiving favorable replies from about 40 per cent of customers petitioned.

With the time for putting the more stringent loan requirements into force now only ten days away it is learned, however, that speculators who have been and are continuing active on the short side are becoming considerably more nervous than appears on the surface.

This element is making quiet but none the less strenuous effort to protect itself against eventualities which may grow out of the situation. One large downtown firm which controls a group of three investment trusts is understood to have been approached by important market interests with a view to obtaining an "option" so to speak on the shares in the portfolios of those trusts for use as delivery against short commitments.

The New York Stock exchange announced today that arrangements have been completed for the sale of two memberships, the first at $132,000 and the succeeding one at $126,000.

National Cash Register Earns $824,399 in 1931

The National Cash Register company, including domestic subsidiaries, reports net profit of $824,399 for 1931, compared with $3,584,830 in 1930. These profits are after depreciation, federal taxes, reserve for inventory, and all other charges. Per share profits last year were 69 cents on the class A stock, compared with $3.01 a share on the A stock in 1930. It is unofficially reported that the company will show a small profit for the current quarter, against a $300,000 loss sustained in the first quarter of 1931.

Blum's Earns Profit in 1931 Against Loss in 1930

The annual statement of Blum's, Inc., showed net profit of $7,584 for 1931 compared with a net loss of $53,247 in 1930, and not a net profit of $53,247 in 1930 as was previously reported.

CHICAGO ICE CONCERN SUED FOR $1,000,000

The Chicago Artificial Ice company yesterday was named defendant in the praecipe of a $1,000,000 suit to collect the interest and principle on an $850,000 issue of three year notes. The action was brought by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company which is trustee under an agreement with the ice company and is suing on behalf of a note holders committee. Most of the holders are residents of eastern cities.

Attorney Louis Hardin of the law firm of Pam & Hurd, who filed the praecipe, said the notes were issued on May 1, 1928. On Nov. 1, 1930, the ice company defaulted in $50,000 worth of interest then due under the semi-annual notes, and subsequently on May 1, 1931, both the interest and principle fell due and were defaulted.

The bank is the successor as trustee to the Central Trust company which originally was named in the agreement with the ice concern.

To Vote on Plan to Change Atlas Stores Corp. Name

Stockholders of Atlas Stores corporation will vote on April 22 on a proposal to change the company's name to Davega Stores corporation, and to change the common stock from no par value to $5 par. # Court Denies Oklahoma Ice Supervision

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—The Supreme court today set aside Oklahoma's laws regulating the manufacture and sale of ice, despite an emphatic warning from Justice Brandeis against staying "experimentation within the law in things social and economic."

Justice Stone, alone, agreed with one of the most vigorous of Brandeis' dissents. The gist of the comparatively short opinion by Justice Sutherland was that the manufacture of ice in Oklahoma was private business and was not subject to supervision as a public utility.

That being the case, he concluded, the state had no power to force Ernest A. Liebmann to get a permit from the corporation commission of Oklahoma before he went into the ice business in Oklahoma City.

"Oklahoma's Business."

It was Oklahoma's business, Brandeis told his colleagues, accompanying his ringing words by vigorous gestures, to say whether the making and the sale of ice was enough of a public utility to be subject to regulation.

"The people of the United States," he said, "are now confronted with an emergency more serious than war. Some people believe that the existing conditions threaten even the stability of the capitalistic system. Business men are seeking possible remedies. Most of them realize that failure to distribute widely the profits of industry has been a prime cause of our present plight. But rightly or wrongly, many persons think that one of the major contributing causes has been unbridled competition."

He added that whether their views were sound was not known but reminded that "economic and social science are largely uncharted seas." Denial of the right to experimentation, he said, might have the gravest consequences.

A "Courageous State."

"It is one of the happy incidents of the federal system that a single courageous state may, if its citizens choose," he said, "serve as a laboratory and try novel social and economic experiments without risk to the rest of the country."

He added that the court had the right to say such experimentation, but "we should ever be on our guard, lest we erect our prejudices into legal principles."

"It is not necessary," Justice Sutherland said, "to challenge the authority of the states to indulge in experimental legislation, but it would be strange and unwarranted doctrine to transcend the limitations imposed upon them by the federal constitution."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—The stock market was a pretty sad looking affair today. Sales fell considerably short of a million shares and although the leaders attracted enough buying to register some improvement, the demonstration impressed nobody. It was an out-and-out professional affair and past records show that when the list moves ahead on this character of interplay it is very liable to swing back tomorrow. Sort of a give-and-take affair, as it were.

Railroad shares were supposed to be the leaders in today's dealings. Diagnosticians guessed that the carriers were all buoyed up over the report that an early announcement will be forthcoming of a plan whereby the Missouri Pacific will be able to meet its $11,700,000 maturity on April 1. The boys are supposed to have been lying awake at night a lot here of late fretting over the "mop" situation. It was particularly blamed for last week's weakness of the rail group. Also the kind regard which the powers that be at Washington are understood to entertain for the carriers is reputed to be helping sentiment in their behalf.

Atchison Advances.

To the naked eye, the rails seemed to be in no more urgent demand today than shares in various other divisions in spite of the reassurance of the experts. Atchison advanced nearly 2 points, Union Pacific moved up 2½ and New York Central and New Haven were higher. That just about tells the tale of the "rally" in this department of the list.

The market's technical condition after the purging it received last week probably contributed as much as anything else to its firmer tone today. As the day wore on, dispatches came from Washington indicating that op-

a Challenge to Shirking Dollars . .

GOLD BONDS

$10 Denominations—8½% Initial Interest

A GOLD BOND, available in $10 denominations, paying initially 8½% interest and maturing in eight years—that is the inducement Associated Gas and Electric offers to draw hoarded dollars out of hiding.

Shirking dollars, hidden in old mattresses, tin cans, dresser drawers, are demoralizing business and imperilling the nation's credit. Business recovery is retarded till hoarding ends; the nation is in danger as long as it continues. The President and other high officials have declared that it is a patriotic duty to put idle dollars to work.

Jobs for Idle Dollars

An attractive opportunity for the safe employment of idle funds is Associated 8% Eight Year Bonds, selling in amounts as low as $10. Money invested in these Associated Baby Bonds is money invested in one of the nation's greatest industries—the public utility industry. The condition of the utilities affects the well-being of homes and shops, farms and factories throughout the country. Success of this bond issue will encourage faith in other sound businesses, and help restore confidence generally.

Associated Baby Bonds

1. Generous Income—Initial interest on these bonds is 8½% (participating conditionally to 10%). Interest on partial payments 7%.
2. Interest Protected—Consolidated net earnings after depreciation and all prior charges are over eight times the interest on $40,000,000 of these bonds at 8%.
3. Units of $10—The bonds are issued in registered form in units of $10 and multiples and in bearer (coupon) form in $100, $500, and $1,000 pieces.
4. Partial Payment Plan—Investment may be made by making a first payment of $3 per $10 bond. The balance may be paid in two equal installments.
5. Stock Purchase Privilege—Each bond will carry a warrant entitling the holder to buy, during a fifteen-year period after March 15, 1933, Common Stock of the Associated Gas and Electric Company at $5 a share on the basis of one share for each $100 of Bonds.

● Present security holders have the first opportunity to buy the new 8% Eight Year Bonds. Subscription by others is subject to confirmation.

OWNERS TO YIELD POSSESSION OF HARVEY COURT

Will Surrender Premises to Trustees.

In line with a recent court decision which ruled that a receivership could be avoided by placing the property in the hands of the trustee for operation for the bondholders, this has been done in the case of the Harvey Court apartments, at the northwest corner of Washington boulevard and Harvey avenue, Oak Park, it was announced yesterday.

The committee for the protection of the holders of bonds sold through the American Bond & Mortgage company, it was stated, has arranged with the owners for a surrender of the possession of the premises to the American Trust and Safety Deposit company, trustee under the bond issue.

Another Reorganization Step.

This move, providing for the operation of the building by the trustee for the benefit of the first mortgage bondholders, is a step toward the ultimate reorganization, according to Edward P. Morse of the law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse, counsel for the bondholders' protective committee. Foreclosure proceedings are now pending in the circuit court.

The original bond issue, underwritten by the American Bond and Mortgage company in June, 1923, was in the amount of $225,000. Outstanding bonds totaled $166,500 on Dec. 1, 1931, when certain principal and interest payments became due and were not made. Taxes for 1928 and 1929 also are in default. Craig B. Hazlewood is chairman of the committee, of which George L. Wire is secretary.

Rosenwald & Weil.

A statement of cash receipts and disbursements from March 4 to Nov. 30, 1931, for Rosenwald & Weil, made public last night by C. J. Olsen, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee of this Greenebaum Sons' Investment company $850,000 bond issue, discloses a cash balance on Nov. 30, 1931, of $25,088.

Harry G. Zimmerman yesterday took title for the bondholders' protective committee to the Western Auto Service building, lot 100x182, at 7230-38 North Western avenue. It was conveyed to him by Frank P. Zaleski through a quitclaim deed. This was a State bank of Chicago first mortgage bond issue which has been reduced to $42,000. No definite plans for reorganization have been determined at present. Charles Rothermel is secretary of the bondholders' protective committee, of which Holman D. Pettibone is chairman.

PRICE OF RUBBER NEW LOW MARK; CONTROL FAILS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—Rubber prices took a tumble today below the levels held for months. The market opened for business after an official statement was issued that all the efforts to control production had failed.

Rubber was quoted at 1.7⅝ pence a pound, the lowest price on record. Later it recovered and advanced to 1.15-16 pence. Saturday's price of 2.1/8 pence was equal to the previous lowest record.

Despite the low prices there is some satisfaction over the announcement, because now producers are relieved of the uncertainty that has prevailed during the discussions. Rubber sold for one shilling ⅞ pence four years ago before the Stevenson scheme for restriction observed by the British producers was abandoned. It has declined steadily since.

Breaks on New York.

New York March 21.—(AP)—Crude rubber broke to a new low for the Rubber Exchange of New York today, on news of a breakdown in the British-Dutch negotiations seeking to effect a new plan to restrict production. The March delivery sold at 3.01 cents a pound, a drop of .29 of one cent from Saturday, but later recovered to end the day at 3.11 cents bid.

This decline, while mild in contrast, recalled the slump in rubber in the spring of 1928, when abandonment of the British Stevenson restriction plan was announced. Rubber then fell precipitately 7 cents a pound, but it had been selling around 30 cents or nearly 10 times today's low price.

American Gas and Electric '31 Net Income $16,671,135

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The pamphlet report of American Gas and Electric company, published today, showed consolidated 1931 net income of $16,671,135, equal to $3.57 a common share. This compares with $19,238,012, or $4.38 a share on a slightly smaller capitalization in 1930.

ELECTRIC BOND STOCK FIRM ON NEW YORK CURB

Oil Shares Lag in Day's Trading.

New York, March 21.—(AP)—The New York curb market today held steady, following a narrow course, with specialties dull and little changed. Utilities displayed considerable resistance, although gains, except in a few instances, were moderate.

Electric Bond and Share (old) was steadily supported, closing at 8⅛, the best price of the session, for a net gain of 1¼. There was a proportionate rally in the new stock, while the preferred shares extended their advances to several points each. Stockholders meet tomorrow to vote on the recapitalization and it was reported that, contrary to recent rumors, a majority of favorable proxies had been obtained, assuring success of the plan. Niagara Hudson improved fractionally. Commonwealth Edison rose more than a point.

Interest lagged in the oils, which made small and mixed changes. Gulf firmed fractionally, but Standard of Indiana suffered a nominal reaction. Woolworth, Ltd., American Cynamid "A," Draper corporation, and Radio Products showed better market positions, but volume in each was small. National Sugar and Newmont Mining sagged.

Report Women's Wear Mills Are Reducing Production

It is reported in textile quarters that mills specializing in the manufacture of women's wear are sharply curtailing production. Coatings and suitings are principally affected by this trend.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC OBTAINS PLANTS ON HUDSON RIVER

31 Million Dollar Deal with International Paper.

International Hydro-Electric system has announced it has purchased the bulk of the water power properties in the United States owned or controled by International Paper Co., including the important power cites on the Hudson river. The properties involved have a total potential capacity of 450,000 horsepower. Of that 130,000 horsepower is developed, over half in hydro-electric plants and the balance in hydraulic plants.

This acquisition increased the installed hydro-electric generating capacity of International Hydro-Electric system to 1,148,000 horsepower and raises the system to the position of the world's third largest owner of hydro-electrically developed powers.

The properties carry with them sufficient revenue from the powers already developed to make them immediately self-supporting and to produce some additional net earnings for dividends on the stocks of the system.

Sites Above Albany.

The Hudson river powers, concentrated in five sites above Albany, are the most important of the entire group. The balance of the powers are located on the Saranac, Black, Ticonderoga, Grass, Chateaugay and Raquette rivers in New York state, on the Winnepesaukee river in New Hampshire, and on the Androscoggin, Penobscot and Kennebec rivers in Maine.

The properties, or in some cases securities of the companies owning the properties, have been transferred to International Hydro-Electric Corporation and System Properties, Inc., the newly acquired and wholly owned subsidiaries of International Hydro-Electric system. The transfer was made as of Dec. 31, 1931.

Price Over 31 Million.

The purchase price was $31,700,000. About 80 per cent of the properties are subject to the first and refunding mortgage of International Paper company. These properties were transferred to International Hydro-Electric corporation subject to this mortgage and as part payment of the purchase price International Hydro-Electric corporation has assumed principal and interest on the $16,460,000 outstanding 5 per cent bonds of this issue; and System Properties, Inc., has similarly assumed the $535,000 6 per cent refunding mortgage gold bonds of Ticonderoga Pulp and Paper company. Payment of the balance of the purchase price involves no new financing, since the system had the required funds available largely from the sale of class A stock in September, 1929, and as a result of the issuance of preferred stock in 1930. These funds had been advanced to International Paper and Power company pending completion of the present transaction.

PARISH WRITES TO STOCKHOLDERS OF GAS PIPE LINE

In a letter to his stockholders, dated today, Frank P. Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, declares that concern believes the present receivership is desirable as offering it the "protection of the courts."

He charges that trade rivals have repeatedly tried to put the company out of business by means of bear raids on its stock and other tactics. He then recounts a series of transactions that he declares led to the filing of a Sherman anti-trust law suit in New York against Henry L. Doherty and Henry L. Doherty & Co., the Standard Oil company, Christy Payne, a director of the Standard Oil company; the North American Light and Power company, and L. E. Fischer, vice president and director of the North American Light and Power company, the Cities Service company being added later.

Triple damages, $75,000,000, Parish declares, are asked in the suit. Parish declares the object of those accused was to prevent the construction of a pipe line for natural gas from Texas to Indiana. The receivers were named at Wilmington, Del., March 18, this year; the anti-trust suit was filed just a month before, Parish declares. The receivers are C. Ray Phillips of Chicago, and Henry T. Bush of Wilmington, Del.

An amended petition for bankruptcy of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company and Frank P. Parish & Co. was filed in federal district court here over the objections of attorneys for the company. Attorney Theodore E. Ryan, representing a group of stockholders, asked in the amended petition for a rehearing as ordered by the Circuit court.

LAWYERS MTGE. CO. DECLARES DIVIDEND; OTHER CONCERNS ACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Directors of the Lawyers Mortgage company declared today a dividend of 35 cents a share payable March 31 to holders of record March 22. This represents a reduction from the quarterly rate of 70 cents, or $2.80 a year, in force previously.

The General Fireproofing company voted today to omit the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 was declared on the preferred.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents was announced on the common stock of the Standard Screw company, compared with $1 previously.

Directors of the Universal Products company declared a dividend of 25 cents, against 50 cents quarterly heretofore.

Pie Bakeries, Inc., took no action on the common dividend due at this time. Regular quarterly dividends were declared on the first and second preferred issues.

The Emerson Electric Manufacturing company has deferred payment of the quarterly dividend due at this time on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

WHEAT HIGHER HERE AS FEARS ARE LESSENED

Traders Hear Farm Board Won't Dump Grain.

Considerable selling seems to have been done by the United States farm board yesterday, probably 200,000 bushels for export, but word from Chairman Stone at Washington that there would be no dumping, reassured Chicago traders and the wheat futures market here showed an advance.

Rumors, however, were rife among the traders. One was that the farm board had arranged to sell 60,000,000 bushels on long time credit to China. Another was that France had arranged to buy 12,000,000 bushels. After the close of the market the rumors were condensed to what appeared to be the facts.

They were that the farm board had sold 200,000 bushels of wheat for export, and will continue such sales at market prices, that Ambassador Walter Edge will meet tomorrow in Paris George S. Milnor of the Grain Stabilization corporation and two representatives of the United States department of agriculture, who are seeking European outlets for farm board wheat. French domestic stocks of wheat are reported to be such that about 12,000,000 bushels of foreign grain probably will be needed, while France recently has been taking Argentine wheat.

Traders in the Chicago grain pits and elsewhere are interested in the announcement of the secretary of agriculture that the Reconstruction Finance corporation is ready to help finance foreign buyers of American wheat and cotton.

Needs of Red Cross.

Meanwhile the market for feeds is being affected by the distribution of parts of the 5,000,000 bushels voted by congress for the use of the American Red Cross.

Washington sent out the information yesterday that applications for 231,268 barrels of flour and 57,640,000 pounds of feed for live stock, to be provided from government wheat allocated by congress to the Red Cross for distribution, have been received from 405 Red Cross chapters to date and have been approved by the national organization. Applications already received would require the use of approximately 2,000,000 bu of wheat.

Chicago Market Rallies.

Meanwhile in the Chicago market for wheat there was a lack yesterday of that liquidation so much in evidence last week. With some improvement in the export demand, prices advanced 1⅛@1⅛c over Saturday's finish, the close being at the top.

Pressure from scattered longs was lacking and, while there was considerable selling of May early credited to a western operator, the wheat passed into the hands of strong commission houses and at no time were prices more than a fraction below the previous finish. The trade paid little or no attention to the highly beneficial snow reported over the greater part of the belt, which will furnish much needed moisture in some sections.

Closing trades on wheat were at net gains of 1⅛@1⅜c, with March finishing at 52⅝, May 55⅛@55⅝c, old July, 57¼@57⅜c, and September 59⅜@59½c.

Good Buying at Liverpool.

General buying developed at Liverpool, which closed ⅜@⅝c per bu higher, with May at 56⅝c, or 2¼c over Chicago, the greatest difference in some months. Buenos Aires has also been gaining on American markets, and at one time yesterday prices in the Argentine market were apparently fractionally higher than Kansas City May. This compared with a discount of 3¾c under on March 12, and of 5½c on March 5.

Removal of hedges against export sales resulted in Winnipeg showing independent strength, with wheat there showing net gains of 1⅜@1⅝c, which were around 10⅜ per cent discount. Around 200,000 bu domestic hard winter and 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 bu Manitobas were reported as having been sold for export during the day, with the United Kingdom, France, and Germany identified as among the numerous buyers.

Crop and other routine news attracted little attention from the wheat trade. France has raised the quota of foreign wheat that may be used to 35 per cent, compared with 30 per cent previously. Previous to Feb. 1 the allowance was only 3 per cent. A decrease of 2,026,000 bu was reported in the domestic visible supply.

Corn Dull but Firm.

There was a marked letup in country offerings of cash corn to arrive. Stormy weather over the greater part of the belt had some effect, and local handlers reported only 3,000 bu bought during the day. The storm also hampered the movement so that receipts were reduced to 83 cars. There was less pressure on futures and, with wheat strong, prices advanced and closed within a fraction of the top, with net gains of ½@⅝c. March was 24½c; May, 37⅜c; July, 40⅛@40¼c, and September, 41½c at the last. Strength in wheat brought in short covering toward the last.

Stocks of cash corn at terminal markets continue to increase, the gain the last week being 700,000 bu, and aggregate 21,389,000 bu, compared with 20,695,000 bu last year. This was the first time this season that the total has been in excess of the corresponding period a year ago.

Oats reflected the firmness in other grains and closed ⅛@⅜c higher, with May at 23⅜c and July 24⅝c. Reports of 100,000 bu or more rye having been sold for export, with Germany the buyer, led to locals taking futures, and the close was ⅝@⅞c higher, with May 45⅛@45⅝c, and July 47¼c. Strength in wheat also had some effect on sentiment.
